VOTE BY HOUSE INCREASES TAX ON BIG ESTATES

Maximum of 45 Per Cent Is Provided For in Amendment.

DRASTIC PROPOSAL OF LEWIS DEFEATED

Galleries Cheer Attack on Concentration of Wealth.

SALES ANGLE ACTION LIKELY TOMORROW

Sharp Debate on Ramseyer Plan Is Followed by 190-149 Vote.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Entrenched in its "sock the rich" mood, the rampant House yesterday voted to increase taxes on large estates and set the stage for a vote on the manufacturers' sales tax tomorrow.

Tossing overboard another ways and means committee recommendation, the House, by a vote of 190 to 149, adopted the amendment proposed by Representative C. William Ramseyer (Republican), of Iowa, increasing the maximum estate tax to 45 per cent on estates of 10,000,000 or more.

Adoption of the Ramseyer amendment followed defeat of a much more drastic proposal offered by Representative David J. Lewis (Democrat), Maryland, who proposed a maximum tax of 40 per cent, but would levy that maximum on all estates over $500,000. This proposal, against which House leaders fought hard, was defeated by a vote of 204 to 45.

Leaders threw their support behind the Ramseyer amendment in the face of the Lewis proposal, and the general attitude of the House, and, it was with their aid that the former was adopted. It increased the committee maximum from 40 to 45 per cent and provided a graduated scale, allowing $100,000 exemption. Subsequently it developed there had been confusion in the minds of several members who believed that the rates proposed in the Ramseyer amendment were to be levied in addition to the existing 20 per cent tax.

Applause From Galleries.

The debate was as sharp as in the last several sessions and frequently brought applause from the galleries in which every seat was filled and men and women sat in the aisles.

Frequently the galleries burst into applause as assaults were launched by the antisales tax members against the concentration of wealth in the Nation and demands made that the wealthy should be compelled to bear a greater share of the burden of the National Government than the committee bill proposed to lay on them.

The vote on the estate tax before the sales tax was considered was insisted on by opponents of the latter tax, led by Representative John E. Rankin (Democrat), of Mississippi, one of the leaders in the Democratic revolt against the sales tax.

Representatives Charles R. Crisp (Democrat), of Georgia, acting chairman of the ways and means committee, had been instructed by the committee to take the bull by the horns for an immediate test of strength, so that the committee could know whether it would have to get busy and find substitute taxes if the sales tax were voted out of the bill.

Forgoe Usual Procedure.

Under usual procedure, the sales tax provision would not have been reached for several days because it is far down in the lengthy bill which is

2 Missouri U. Students Shot After 'Kidnaping'

Columbia, Mo., March 22 (A.P.).—Jerry Gebe, captain-elect of the University of Missouri wrestling team, and Frank Luckey, both students in the University school of engineering, were shot tonight and officers were questioning two or three students in the school of law. Luckey was reported seriously wounded.

Four school of law students yesterday had appeared before a justice of peace and asked that four engineering students be required to give peace bonds following the "kidnaping" Saturday of Miss Mary Butterfield, of Kansas City, whose coronation as St. Pat's queen at the engineering students' annual ball was prevented by the "abduction." Whether there was any connection between the "kidnaping" and the shooting could not be learned immediately, however.

Comment From Leaders In House Upon Tax Bill

Representative Charles R. Crisp (Democrat), of Georgia, acting chairman ways and means committee: "I don't see much hope for the sales tax, even as amended. The temper of the House hasn't seemed to cool down."

Representative Henry T. Rainey (Democrat), of Illinois, majority floor leader: "There'll be one more big fight—on the beer tax proposal—and the bill will be passed with the amended sales tax. The session today was encouraging."

Representative Bertrand H. Snell (Republican), of New York, minority leader: "It looks to me as if the sales tax is beaten, and some of those manufacturers who opopposed it will be saddened by necessary substitute special excise taxes."

COOLIDGE CRITICIZES FEDERAL EXPANSION

Magazine Article Contends Cut in Public Expense Only Tax Relief.

The only permanent remedy for the present national deficit and the only relief for high taxes is a reduction in public expenditures, former President Calvin Coolidge suggests in an article in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

The former Chief Executive calls for a "combination, on a nonpartisan basis, of wage earners and business men for their own mutual protection. They need to be organized, alert and vocal. Then the Congress and other bodies will listen, because they will feel they have some support in resisting further expenditures and some encouragement in pursuing a policy of retrenchment."

"The mounting cost of government," the former President writes, "has been due to the extravagance of nearly all the States and municipalities. Their expenses jumped from $2,227,000,000 to $9,116,000,000 in sixteen years." He also blames "the expansion of governmental activities, with the accompanying expansion of expenses" as "a large factor in the present Treasury difficulties."

"Of course," he writes, "the national resources are still amply able to support the national credit. But it will mean balancing the budget, which must be done at a good deal of sacrifice and can not fail to retard the revival of business * * * If the same people who have lately been hastening down to Washington to protest that they can not pay any more taxes had been half as diligent when the Congress was passing bills calling for billions of expense, they would not now be in such distress."

There is a strong tendency, he said, to disregard the fundamental principle that, in general, taxes should only be laid to meet the expense of legitimate governmental activities. "The theory of more public work, when there is less private work, is no doubt sound, but it must be applied in accordance with the then-existing conditions. The safe application of this theory would be by setting up a reserve fund in time of abundance to draw upon in time of scarcity," he believes.

IRELAND TELLS ENGLAND OATH ABOLITION SET

Britain's Cabinet Today to Discuss "Grave" Situation.

DOOMED TIE IS ONE OF FEW REMAINING

Free State Army Concerned at Approaching March of Republicans.

London, March 22 (A.P.).—The Irish Free State served notice on an anxious England today that the oath of allegiance to the king, almost the last tie that binds Erin to Great Britain, would be abolished.

The Irish situation, which J. H. Thomas, British secretary for dominions, described in Parliament as "grave," will be discussed at a cabinet meeting tomorrow morning.

J. W. Dulanty, high commissioner in London for the Free State, informed Mr. Thomas that the Irish people by overwhelming vote in the last election had made mandatory the oath's removal.

Situation Serious.

His statement, which admittedly made the Irish situation serious after ten years of peace between the two nations, was in answer to a request of the dominions secretary for "correct information" as to the intentions of the new Irish government of President Eamon de Valera.

Mr. Dulanty said that whether the oath to the British Crown should be retained was purely an Irish matter and the people had signified their wish in the vote that raised De Valera, Republican leader, to power.

The Free State government, Mr. Dulanty told Thomas, had decided that—

1. The oath was not a mandatory part of the Anglo-Irish treaty.

Cites People's Decision.

2. Since the Irish constitution was a people's constitution, anything affecting it belonged to the internal sovereignty and was purely a domestic matter.

3. The people had declared "without ambiguity" their will and it in itself was "more than sufficient to make the government's decision final and irrevocable."

Manchurian Ranks Swept by Mutiny

Changchun, Manchuria, March 22 (A.P.).—A mutiny of 1,000 cavalrymen, who joined the Chinese irregulars of Tsing Hai, anti-Japanese war lord, swelled the revolt against the new Manchurian State of Ankug today. The troopers formerly were under command of Hsi Hsia, governor of Kirin Province in the new regime of Henry Pu-Yi.

Tsing Hai has held Fuyu, a strategic point, since March 16. Hsi Hsia has ordered other troops stationed at Nungaw, 35 miles north of Changchun, to recapture Fuyu and has called on the Japanese for help.

Tokyo (Wednesday), March 23 (A.P.).—A Rengo (Japanese) News Agency dispatch from Harbin today quoted Li Shao-Keng, president of the Chinese Eastern Railway, as saying 59 locomotives, which were moved to Siberia by Soviet authorities, were returned after he had protested to the Soviets.

ECONOMY BODY MAY DECIDE ON PAY CUT TODAY

Williamson Plan Believed to Have Best Chances of Adoption.

BROWN WILL SUBMIT REPORT ON MEASURE

Seven Schemes Are Pending; Senate Votes to Reduce Huge Supply Bill.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

From a field of pay-cut proposals as numerous as committee membership, the House special economy group today will attempt to select one plan that will serve economy objectives without pinching low-salaried personnel.

A plan put forward by Representative William Williamson (Republican), South Dakota, with cuts ranging from 1 per cent at $1,000 to 10 per cent over $5,000, appeared to have most general support.

While the House delayed action on salary reduction, the Senate dealt another body blow to expenses by ordering 10 per cent struck from the $124,000,000 State, Justice, Commerce, and Labor appropriations bill. The vote was 50 to 29. Senator Kenneth McKellar, who sponsored similar reduction in the Interior supply bill, said his plan will not hit salaries.

Efficiency Bureau to Report.

It was for want of savings data on the Williamson proposal that the House economy committee adjourned Monday, instructing Herbert D. Brown, Bureau of Efficiency director, to compile itemized economies under the plan and report back today. Representative Williamson said it would save $67,500,000.

Seven schedules are before the committee. Four were put forward by Representative John McDuffie's "pay cut" subcommittee. Another, seeking to obviate cuts by retirements, curtailment of leave and nonfilling of vacancies, was offered by Expenditures Chairman John J. Cochran, and a sixth, providing a stiff graduated scale, by Appropriations Chairman Joseph W. Byrns.

Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), Indiana, original advocate of salary reduction, inclines toward the Williamson proposal, if data supplied by the Bureau of Efficiency sustains savings estimates of the South Dakota representative. Others indicated they may swing to this, or a similar schedule, as a compromise between the stiff and more lenient scales.

10 Per Cent Cut Eliminated.

One thing appeared certain. This was that the proposed 10 per cent flat cut in all Federal salaries, one

Three Arrested in Spain And Firearms Are Taken

Ciudad, Rodrigo, Spain, March 22 (A.P.).—The secret police today seized a consignment of firearms near the Portuguese frontier and arrested three men after a short struggle.

The police said the arrests were made as the men were transferring the shipment from two wagons, said to have come over the border from Portugal, into a waiting truck for reshipment to Madrid. It was believed the arms were intended for extremist labor groups. One policeman was slightly injured.

Appropriation Bill Sent Back by Senate for Cut

The Senate yesterday sent the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor appropriation bill back to committee for a 10 per cent reduction in its total of $124,000,000.

Barkley Supports Roosevelt As Iowans Elect Hoover Slate

G. O. P. in Native State of President Pledge Him Backing.

Parley Is Harmonious; Economy Work Is Praised.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 22 (A.P.).—Working in nearly perfect harmony, the State Republican convention today elected 25 Hoover delegates to the national convention and pledged the support of Iowa Republicanism to the reelection of its native son as President.

It assured a delegation pledged to Hoover in three ways: First, by voting to instruct its seven delegates at large; next, through the instruction of delegates by district caucuses, and, finally, by adopting a resolution pledging the entire delegation.

Resolutions adopted at the closing session also "pledged the loyal and energetic support of the Republicans of Iowa" to the President, who was referred to as "that great statesman and leader who was born on the prairies of Iowa."

Economy Moves Lauded.

The resolutions also commended officials taking the lead in reducing governmental expenditures and advocated further reduction "until a fair relationship is established between expenditures and income."

The convention also went on record as indorsing the unified relief program sponsored by the three national farm organizations and urged its speedy adoption by Congress.

It also advocated changes in the tariff "as may be necessary to permit the exchange of our agricultural surplus for the products of other nations on a reciprocal basis." No mention was made of prohibition.

The only contest was over the proposal to instruct the seven delegates-at-large.

A roll call vote by counties on the instruction of these seven delegates showed the proposal had carried, 1,268 1-9 to 103 8-9.

An effort to present a minority report on resolutions by State Senator George Patterson, who asked that resolutions opposing a general sales tax and urging an increased income tax be discussed in the convention was howled down.

Test Today in Georgia.

Atlanta, March 22 (A.P.).—Democrats of Georgia, the first Southern State to hold a presidential preference primary, will decide tomorrow between Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and Judge G. H. Howard, of Atlanta, who is seeking support for Speaker John N. Garner.

It will mark the first contest for votes in the Nation between Gov. Roosevelt and a candidate advocating the nomination of the Texan. Howard has said that if he is victorious he will give Georgia's 28 votes in the Democratic national convention to Garner.

Georgia has an unusual primary system based upon the county as a unit, and not upon the popular vote of the State as a whole. The candidate receiving a plurality of votes in each county may name that county's delegates to the State Democratic convention. This convention, which meets in Atlanta April 6, will name Georgia's delegates to the national convention.

Charles Livingston Bull, Painter, Is Dead at 57

Cradell, N. J., March 22 (A.P.).—Charles Livingston Bull, naturalist, explorer and animal painter, died at his home today. He was 57 years old. Death resulted from illness that developed from an injury many years ago.

Bull had been for many years associated with men prominent in the field of exploration and scientific research. He was identified with Ward's Museum in Rochester and with the National Museum in Washington. He was an associate of William Beebe in an exploration expedition in Mexico, Central and South America.

SENATOR ALBEN W. BARKLEY.

RUM MINOR ISSUE, M'ADOO DECLARES

Urges Democrats to Shift Thoughts to Economic Conditions.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

William Gibbs McAdoo, long the hero of the drys, thinks the time has come for the Democrats to soft-pedal the prohibition issue, and turn their thoughts to bread.

"I think hungry stomachs is a much more serious matter than dry throats," McAdoo said here yesterday.

"Therefore," he added, "I think that the next campaign is going to be settled on economic issues and the present state of the social order more than on anything else."

McAdoo came here from Los Angeles by plane to attend to some legal matters. He is 68 years old now, but physically he seems the same McAdoo that Washington knew when he was Woodrow Wilson's Secretary of the Treasury. Although his hair is a bit grayer, he still is erect, virile and energetic.

In the course of the day, Mr. McAdoo called on Speaker John N. Garner, his choice for the Democratic presidential nomination; predicted that Garner would get California's 44 convention votes, and posed with Garner for the news photographers.

In a press conference, Mr. McAdoo said that the Hoover administration's reconstruction program had so far failed, and he predicted that no re-

Two Men Arrested In Chain Kidnaping

Berlin, Md., March 22 (A.P.).—Two prominent Worcester County men, one of them the police chief of Ocean City, were arrested today in connection with the alleged kidnaping of Charles W. Brown last week. They were freed on their own recognizance pending a hearing tomorrow.

They were Robert Allen, the police chief, and George K. Jarvis, wealthy cattleman, arrested on warrants sworn out before Magistrate William J. Bratten by Brown. A hearing, scheduled for this afternoon, was postponed.

Sheriff William Purnell continued his investigation into Brown's story, told after he was found chained to a tree in a swamp near here Sunday. He said he had been kidnaped, held prisoner for four days and then chained to the tree when he refused to sign documents presented to him by his captors.

Kentuckian Acts to Put End to Favorite Son Movement.

Says Democrats Have Greatest Opportunity Since Wilson.

Senator Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, last night definitely allied himself with the forces that are seeking to bring about the nomination of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, for President, at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago next June.

He has served notice on his friends in Kentucky that he is not a candidate for the Presidency and does not desire to have the Kentucky delegates to the convention instructed to vote for him for the presidential nomination.

Instead, he has informed them that he favors the nomination of Gov. Roosevelt and hopes that the Kentucky State Democratic convention "will instruct its delegates to vote for and help procure" the nomination of the New York Governor.

Calls for Harmony.

His position is set forth in a letter he has written to Dr. James H. Richmond, superintendent of public instruction, of Kentucky, made public here last night. Dr. Richmond had written to Senator Barkley for a statement of his attitude regarding the Democratic presidential nomination.

"This is no time for compliments to so-called favorite sons," Senator Barkley said in his letter.

"The deep distress into which our country has been plunged calls for harmonious and constructive cooperation, not only among all Democrats, but on the part of earnest and patriotic men and women everywhere."

The Democratic party, according to Senator Barkley, has the greatest opportunity this year it has had since the election of Woodrow Wilson to win the Presidency, and should nominate a man who can offer real leadership to the country.

"In my opinion," his letter continued, "such a leadership is offered in Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt." In conclusion, he said:

"That he will be nominated at the Chicago convention I earnestly hope and believe, and that he will, when nominated, be overwhelmingly elected, I have not the slightest doubt."

Aids Roosevelt Chances.

Senator Barkley's announcement no doubt will bring joy to the hearts of the Roosevelt supporters and add impetus to the Roosevelt candidacy in the States where he has been or will be entered as a candidate.

Though never listed with the anti-Roosevelt forces, nevertheless Senator Barkley's prospective candidacy was looked upon by the Roosevelt opposition as furthering the movement to prevent the nomination of the New York Governor. It is by a combination of favorite-son candidates and

Boston Girl Kidnaped On 'Sick-Mother' Ruse

Boston, March 22 (A.P.).—Mary Di Battesti, 15, was kidnaped today from a continuation school in East Boston by a man who drove away with her in an automobile bearing New Jersey registration plates. The man appeared at the school and informed the teacher that the girl's mother was sick and had sent him to bring her daughter home. He drove away with her and they were not seen again.

Investigation revealed that the girl's mother was not ill. She told police she believed the man was from Newark, N. J., and that he might have taken the girl to a place he owned near Montpelier, Vt.

TORNADO DEATH TOTAL RISES TO 275 IN 5 STATES

ALABAMA HARDEST HIT BY CATASTROPHE

220 Killed There, 34 in Georgia and 17 in Tennessee.

EXTENT IS REVEALED AS RELIEF STARTS

Kentucky and South Carolina Also Suffer as Storm Sweeps Dixie.

Birmingham, Ala., March 22 (A.P.).—Two hundred and seventy-five persons were killed, hundreds of others were injured and made homeless and unestimated damage wrought by a series of tornadoes that dipped into five Southern States last night and early today.

Alabama bore the brunt of the storm, one of the South's major disasters. In this State 220 persons lost their lives when the howling winds blew down their homes in twoscore communities.

Thirty-four were killed in Georgia, seventeen in Tennessee, two in Kentucky and two in South Carolina.

Rescue Crews Find Many Dead.

Not until broken communication lines were restored today was the full extent of the storm's toll learned. The death list grew from only a few to more than a hundred during the night, but rescue crews aided by daylight and the restoration of communication brought reports that sent the casualty list mounting.

The twisting winds struck first near Marion, then at Northport, both in the west central portion of the State. Twenty-nine were killed at Northport and scores were injured. At Marion 18 were killed. The storm then appeared at Demopolis, Faunsdale and Linden, all in the same area. It struck next in the central portion, sweeping over the towns of Lomax, Columbiana, Thorsby and other communities.

Tornado Hits Tennessee.

At the same time a tornado dipped down on a half dozen communities in Tennessee. Five members of one family were killed near Pulaski when they were buried beneath the wreckage of their home. Five others lost their lives near Conasauga. Another man who was picked up and blown from sight by the wind, has not been located and is believed dead. Other scattered casualties were reported and at Cleveland the storm snatched an infant from its mother's arms, dropping it into a well where it drowned.

Striking in the northeastern and northwestern sections of Georgia, a tornado took more than a score of lives near Dalton, Cartersville, Athens and Rome. Single casualties attributable to the storm were reported at Decatur, Atlanta and Milledgeville, Ga.

A path a quarter of a mile long was left in Whitfield and Murray Counties in north Georgia, and churches, homes and barns were wrecked. Ambulances at Dalton, Ga., in the vicinity of which five persons were killed chugged over storm-littered roads, searching the nearby rural communities for dead and taking medical attention to the injured.

At Dalton an unidentified white man was blown to the top of a tree, the wind blowing a piece of wood through one of his arms. He hung

Shanghai Armistice Parley Fails as Chiang Walks Out

General Objects to Lieut. Gen. Uyeda as Chief Tokyo Delegate; Smallpox Hits War Refugees' Camps; People Eating Bark of Trees.

Shanghai (Wednesday), March 23 (A.P.).—The first formal parley to arrange a definite Sino-Japanese armistice in the Shanghai area fell through today when Gen. Chiang Kuang-Nai, the chief Chinese delegate, walked out just as the meeting was about to begin.

Gen. Chiang is credited with being commander in chief of the Nineteenth Route army which defended Shanghai, although Gen. Tsai Ting-Kai appeared to control the organization when it was fighting the Japanese.

Gen. Chiang objected to Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda as the chief Japanese delegate to the formal conferences, alleging that Gen. Uyeda was not his equal in rank, and insisting that Gen. Yoshinori Shirakawa, the Japanese commander in chief, should assume leadership of the Japanese delegation.

Since the meeting had not yet been organized, it was not public knowledge that the chief Japanese delegate would be Uyeda, but Gen. Chiang said he would be and insisted that his designation constituted an insult to China.

Famine and pestilence in the form of smallpox, which menaced foreigners, were sweeping over the crowded camps of warfare's refugees in China today.

Foreigners are particularly susceptible to the type of smallpox prevalent here, said Dr. Wu Lien-Teh, director of the Chinese maritime quarantine service. Hundreds of them have heed-

Truck Driver, 17, Is Robbed And Left Lashed to Wheel

His hands lashed to the steering wheel of a delivery truck with heavy wire, Ralph Davis, 17 years old, of 1433 Monroe street northeast, shivered in a cutting wind along the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks at Bates road northeast for about half an hour last night, before he was rescued by police in the Fifth Precinct radio car. He told them a story of being held up and robbed of $45 by two men who then tied him up and left him.

The youth, who operates a delivery truck for Kushner's Market, at 3500 Eighteenth street northwest, told police that the two men hailed him at Michigan avenue and Tenth street. They asked the way to Brentwood road, and Davis told them he could not direct them.

"Well, we'll ride a little way with you," said one of the men, and the pair climbed aboard the truck.

After riding a short way one of the men turned to Davis and ordered him to drive to Bates road northeast.

"I'm not going that way," Davis answered.

"Oh, yes you are," his passenger replied, placing a pistol at his ribs. Davis went.

When the truck reached a point at the railroad tracks the youth said the two men took his employer's money, bound his hands and escaped. He remained there until Privates C. B. Kimbell and R. T. Decker, patrolling in the radio car, decided to investigate the parked car, and released him.

President of Brazil Yields To Demands for Elections

Appeases Southern States by Acceding to Insistence for Return to Constitutional Government; No Date Yet Set for Balloting.

Rio de Janeiro, March 22 (A.P.).—The de facto president of Brazil, Getulio Vargas, tonight agreed to sign a decree fixing dates for general elections to restore constitutional government to the country. No dates were mentioned, but it was understood the decree would satisfy a demand from the state of Rio Grande do Sul for prompt termination of Vargas' military rule.

In return for this concession, Rio Grande political leaders agreed to withdraw their insistence upon a supreme court inquiry into the recent "military attack" on the Rio de Janeiro newspaper Carioca, permitting the case to follow a normal course in the courts.

Thus was healed a break between the provisional president and his colleagues from the south, which had threatened for two weeks to disrupt the political equanimity of Brazil.

Under today's agreement the country will be permitted to return to constitutionalism after more than two years under a regime created in the revolt of 1930, when Vargas led his Rio Grande do Sul rebels into a successful coup d'etat.

(It may be inferred that Vargas agreed to elections some time in 1932, since it was announced that the Rio Grande demand for prompt elections was met in today's agreement.—Editor's note.)

Until election of a president and a national assembly are held, Vargas will remain provisional president under today's agreement, and it was assumed that the drafting of a revised constitution probably will be left to the assembly.

TORNADO SURVIVORS TELL TRAGIC TALES

Injured Men, From Hospital Cots, Describe Loss of Families and Homes.

Birmingham, Ala., March 22 (U.P.). One of the most tragic chapters of the South-wide tornado was told in a hospital here today by John M. Queen, of Thorsby, Chilton County, Ala.

Queen suffered two broken legs, a severe head injury and multiple cuts and burns. His baby was killed in his arms while he fled to comparative safety. His wife, Lucille, died of injuries from falling timbers. The Queens had six children.

From his cot, Queen said:

"It thundered and lightning flashed and stormed—we were all scared. Our dinner was on the table, but we were too worried to eat. Suddenly the wind came in dashes. The first took the roof from over our heads and the rain poured in, nearly drowning us. Immediately another dash of wind came and the walls of the house tumbled in on us.

Lives Saved by Children.

"The baby was screaming. I held her close to me. Something struck me, and my wife and I were pinned under timbers. I don't know where the body of the baby went. I couldn't move. Fire started and it leaped toward us, fanned by that roaring wind. We would have been burned to death but the children, who weren't pinned underneath, ran for help. A man dug us out—how is Lucille getting along? Where is she?"

(Mrs. Queen had died an hour before the interview.)

Lloyd Butler, of Jemison, Ala., his family scattered by the storm, lay badly injured in the same hospital.

"I told my wife and the children to rush for the house. We were in the barn. I put a mule inside the barn and followed to the house. The windows rattled and we had to lock the doors to keep them closed. My 11-year-old daughter braced herself against one door to keep it shut. She couldn't do it alone, so we both leaned against it while two smaller children clung to their mother.

Wind Scattered Burning Coals.

"First the wind blew down the chimney; it whipped the fire out of the fireplace and threw burning coals all over the house. Then, the wind, like a big black whirlpool, rushed through the house like a freight train. The house was completely torn to pieces. I know Mary Lou was killed—she was born on my birthday."

Even in his grief, the suffering man had a thought for the beasts that had worked that the family might survive. "I wonder," he said, "if my poor old cow was killed, or if she was badly hurt and there's no one there to relieve her."

One of the most tragic stories was that of Obie Willis, a farmer living at Collins Chapel, who came to Clanton, Ala., bringing the maimed body of his mother, who was killed; his wife, who is dying, and his father, who was critically injured. Following is his story:

"My wife and I were in our farmhouse at Collins Chapel, Ala., when the storm struck. It came suddenly, with a quick darkening of the house as though a heavy black cloud had obscured the sun.

No Time to Be Afraid.

"The storm struck so suddenly, in fact, that there wasn't any time to be afraid. I heard a terrific crashing sound, and then I must have been knocked unconscious, for I came to lying flat on my back in the yard.

"A part of the front door of our home was lying on my chest. The house was completely demolished. I moved the planks that were on me and started to crawl to my wife, who was lying in a ditch across the yard. I knew she would drown in the ditch if I didn't get her quickly. The clouds came right down to the ground and balls of fire were shooting all around.

"I finally managed to get my wife out of the ditch, and then I leaned over to protect her from the rain and the lightning. She was unconscious, and I stayed there with her, only part conscious myself, for nearly two hours, when neighbors came for us.

"The doctor told me my wife was dying, after they had performed an operation on her early today. I was injured pretty badly, my father was critically hurt, and my mother was killed in the storm. They lived in a house near ours."

The disease was in a very virulent form, with half the cases thus far fatal, Dr. Wu said. He described the epidemic as the most widespread and taking the heaviest toll in this vicinity of any in many years.

Senate Urged to Create Special Veterans' Body

(Associated Press.)

Creation of a committee to handle veterans' legislation was urged upon the Senate rules committee yesterday by John Thomas Taylor, legislative representative of the American Legion. He appeared before the group in hearings on the resolutions of Senator Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, to set up a committee of 15 members, and Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, for one of 13 members.

Taylor asserted the finance committee, which now handled veterans' legislation, was too busy with fiscal matters to give sufficient attention to bills affecting former soldiers.

Early to Bed—Oh, Bosh! Poor Dick Was Wrong

By JOHN J. DALY

EARLY to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise. So said Ben Franklin, Poor Richard, in his almanack.

Dick was wrong!

Late to bed, late to rise, is the new formula, and, from a psychological standpoint, experiments show that the business man who follows these principles will put over big deals.

Prof. J. L. Hollingsworth, head of the psychological department, Columbia University, after completing exhaustive experiments, finds that all the captains of finance work best in the cool of the evening—and they are the wise men and wealthy.

• • • •

EARLIER hours in the day are not conducive to big business deals, for this reason: Prospects are too wide awake. Sales talks do not register so well when the day is young. Toward tea time is much better. At the cocktail hour, senses tend to become dull. A man then is in a much better mood to talk high finance. His resistance, too, is at a low ebb. At the dinner hour, and especially after, the prospect becomes a bit drowsy. That is when the wide-awake salesman nails him—and how! It is easy, after a heavy meal, to sign almost any brother on the dotted line.

Poor Richard, you see, was not writing for the Jazz Age. When the almanack was appearing on the streets of Philadelphia it might have been all right—probably was—to get up with the sun and go to bed when the chickens went to roost. That's about all the old folks had to do anyway.

• • • •

NOWADAYS, the process is reversed. The up-to-date business man goes to bed when the sun rises and gets up only in time to dash downtown and meet his office force leaving for the day. Details attended to, the boss bids them all good-bye and starts out on another nocturnal sales campaign, out where the buyers meet, at the cabarets and the girly-girl shows, the rendezvous of the tired business man.

Forsooth, the old order changeth.

In other words, early to bed and early to rise, make men sickly, bankrupt and dumb.

Poor Richard!

TRAGIC SIGHTS TELL STORY OF DISASTER

Alabama County Swept by Wind as Though With Gigantic Broom.

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

Montgomery, Ala., March 22 (U.P.). A ruthless, conquering army could wreck no more devastating havoc than the catastrophe which struck sections of five Southern States in the form of a violent tornado attack early today and last night.

Scenes of the most tragic desolation were in the most severely affected region, Chilton County, of which Clanton is the seat. Quick snaps of the picture seen include:

Seventy-five dwellings sprayed over the countryside as if brushed by a giant broom.

The body of a famer impaled on a barbed wire fence, torn almost to pieces by the fury of the wind.

A crying father, with a weeping babe in arms, walking heartbroken down a road in search of his wife, inconsolably refusing proferred aid.

The body of a nude woman, lying in the front yard of what had been her home.

The body of a 6-month-old infant, blown half a mile into a creek, where it drowned if it hadn't been killed en route.

A stove in a tree.

One section of the county was cut as cleanly as if by a huge scythe, a mile wide, 6 miles long.

In the little ten-house community of Union Grove, not a house was left standing, and all but one family was obliterated. The sole survivor was former Sheriff J. L. Gore, who told a story of miracles and of tragedies.

Relief activities in the county were centered at Clanton, where heartrending scenes were enacted as members of shattered families sought vainly to obtain word of missing loved ones. Children were unidentified.

Bill on Tariff Revision Presented in Senate

(Associated Press.)

The Senate started work last night on the tariff revision measure passed by the Democratic House.

Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, ranking Democrat of the finance committee, put it before the Senate as the order of business just before adjournment with a prediction that the legislation would be enacted. The bill proposes to transfer from the President to Congress the right to act upon all rate changes recommended by the Tariff Commission.

suspended until daylight when he was rescued and taken to a hospital believed fatally injured.

One man was killed near Spartanburg, S. C., and at Gaffney, S. C., a Negro woman lost her life in the collapse of her dwelling.

Rescue workers pressed into wrecked communities and homes throughout the tornado-ravished areas all day and tonight still were working tirelessly in aiding the hundreds of injured and in providing shelter for those left without homes.

The Red Cross was organizing in Alabama for quick relief of the injured, and Gov. B. M. Miller appealed for contributions for the storm sufferers in a formal proclamation to the people of his State.

Saying "there will be great suffering unless they are aided properly," Gov. Miller's proclamation called on people of the State to contribute relief funds for distribution through the Red Cross.

WEATHER MADNESS ABATES THROUGH U.S.

(Associated Press.)

The Weather Man's springtime madness abated last night.

But the ruthlessness of his rampage was attested by more than 200 tornado deaths in Dixie, with hundreds more homeless and countrysides strewn with wreckage.

In the North, there were seas of slush.

Over the Mississippi Valley, a day of sunshine brought milder temperatures, aided by south winds, but city streets and country roads became wallows as the year's heaviest snows melted away.

Cold Expected Today.

The south winds, too, zipped farther north into Wisconsin and in Nebraska the thermometer registered as high as 44 above.

The Atlantic seaboard looked for colder weather today, expecting the snow-laden windstorms that swept the Middle West.

In New England there was snow and rain. Rain, too, fell in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Down the coast from Virginia, the weather was clearing.

Across the continent, in California, moderate spring weather ruled. In the Southwest, the sun melted snows and the Rocky Mountain regions were cool, but cloudy.

Thousands Get Work.

In Chicago, the midafternoon Tuesday brought temperatures in the middle-thirties. In Detroit, the mercury had climbed to 34. Few road blockades were reported in any of the neighborhoods visited by the hardest snows.

Canton, N. Y., had the deepest snow reported, 14 inches.

In Ohio, where communication lines had met with damage that approached that of the Southland, telephone service was restored with Sandusky, while elsewhere snow and ice slunk away before the sun.

RED CROSS RELIEF STARTS IN 6 STATES

(Associated Press.)

The Red Cross spread its relief wings in six States yesterday to succor living victims of Monday night's tornadoes. Officials said their relief machine was functioning in Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, South Carolina and Ohio. They believed the injured might number 700 to 1,000.

Robert E. Bondy, national relief director, said press dispatches and a few stark messages from workers on the job indicate the storm should be classed as a major disaster.

Three immediate objectives were placed before the Red Cross relief forces—to shelter the homeless, to insure medical attention to all the injured, and to supply food and clothes to the destitute.

"I feel satisfied," Mr. Bondy said, "that local Red Cross chapters and volunteer committees, along with trained staff workers now in the field or on the way, are in tough with all emergency needs.

"Local organizations throughout the affected territory are at work, and their resources will be supplemented by the national organization. We hope to handle the situation through case workers, without establishing relief camps."

Mr. Bondy sent William Dekleine, chief medical officer, to Birmngham. There Mr. Dekleine will take over all medical service today. Miss Margaret Bizney will join him to supervising nursing.

Bondy explained that the nature of the disaster—a series of emergencies all linked, but needing separate attention—required a multiple relief set-up. Because Alabama was the hardest hit of the affected states, relief headquarters were established at Birmingham.

Tuberculosis Drive Will Honor Dr. Koch

Mrs. Ernest R. Grant, president of the Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, in a radio address from Station WRC last evening, announced the coming participation of this society in the Nation-wide educational campaign for early diagnosis of tuberculosis as a tribute to the memory of Dr. Robert Koch in this fiftieth anniversary year since his discovery of the germ that causes tuberculosis.

Mrs. Grant said that the Washington campaign would be formally opened on April 3 with a public address at 3 p. m. by Dr. Kendall Emerson, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association, New York, in the auditorium of the Medical Society, and that the campaign would be organized at a public meeting on the following day at the Y. W. C. A. when not only Dr. Emerson, but also Dr. Arthur Christie, president of the Medical Society, and Dr. J. G. Cumming, chief of the bureau of communicable diseases of the health department, would speak. She extended an invitation to all interested to attend these meetings.

Freaks in Havoc Wrought As Storm Lashed 5 States

(Associated Press.)

Cassville, Ga.—So fierce was the wind which wrecked houses in this vicinity that it stripped chickens clean of feathers. Houses were blown to bits and pieces of wreckage strewn over the countryside. In the Macedonia district there was so much wreckage in the road that a passage was cut through trees beside the road.

Sylacauga, Ala.—The second wife of J. L. Kelley to die in a tornado was killed Monday night, Kelley's first wife met a similar fate in 1917.

Northport, Ala.—Tom Marcum, of Piney Grove, 16 miles away, returned a receipt book that was picked up here by the tornado and deposited in his yard.

Cassville, Ga.—Mrs. C. J. Baserap, living in the home of her father, L. A. Guyton, near here, leaped from her bed with her infant daughter in her arms as the storm struck the residence. A moment later a stone chimney crashed across the middle of the bed and plowed through the floor. The home was badly damaged.

A farmer, Gus Cannon, was found dead near his ruined home with a live 3-week-old baby in his arms, apparently unhurt by the storm.

Athens, Ga.—Rescue workers searching the wreckage of a demolished home near here found a small white dog guarding four pairs of shoes. He growled as they tried to approach him. Later his mistress' body was found 50 yards from the home.

Marion, Ala.—It will be hard to convince this town the old saying about lightning never strikes twice in the same place is true after this. Two tornadoes hit here yesterday within three hours of one another.

Cleveland, Tenn. — A baby was blown from its mother's arms, hurled into an open well and was drowned during the tornado. The woman, the infant, and two larger children fled into the open after the wind demolished their home. Another furious gust struck them and the baby was whisked away like a feather. It was blown straight to the well, a short distance away and plunged down the shaft.

Sylacauga, Ala.—Every building in the hamlet of Marble Valley was razed and the debris was blown entirely out of the community. The site of the village is now as bare as an open field. Residents, about 20 of whom were injured, are at a loss to explain how all escaped death.

FESTIVAL OF YOUTH COMMITTEES MEET

Progress of Plans Discussed; 30,000 to 40,000 Are Expected to Aid.

Organizations sponsoring the "Festival of Youth," the monster play demonstration which will be held on the Monument grounds May 14, met in the board room of the District Building yesterday to report to the chairman, Miss Sibyl Baker, on the progress made by the various committees.

After the meeting Miss Baker stated that, judging from the early reports, between 30,000 and 40,000 boys and girls will perform on the park grounds in the celebration which is in conjunction with the George Washington Bicentennial.

Practically all of the preparatory schools were represented at the meeting and reported their plans. It is planned that the eight private and the five public high schools, with three other institutions to be named, can be paired in eight baseball exhibitions on the Ellipse between the hours of the celebration, from 1 to 5:30 o'clock.

The Washington Model Yacht Club outlined pretentious plans for a demonstration on the Lincoln Memorial Reflecting Pool and the Sea Scouts, a branch of the Boy Scouts, are prepared to stage races on the Tidal Basin. In land and water demonstrations about 400 Boy Scouts will take part.

Present plans call for a track meet for the Junior High boys alongside of the reflecting pool. Thousands of playground children will engage in various games, dances and exhibitions of handwork and the Community Center will hold its demonstration in the Sylvan Theater.

Among the organizations represented yesterday were the Public School Department, Twelfth Street Y. M. C. A., Friends School, Model Aircraft League, Langdon School, Central High School, Western High, St. John's College, High School Cadets, Junior Red Cross, Junior Highs, Y. W. C. A., Phyllis Wheatley Y. W. C. A., Community Center, Girl Scouts, Cathedral Kindergarten School, Americanization School, Eastern High, Girl Reserves, Welfare and Recreation Association, Public Buildings and Grounds, Department of Playgrounds, Gonzaga High School, and Georgetown Prep.

REPRESENTATIVE FIORELLO H. LAGUARDIA.

STOCKY, swarthy, dynamic, Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), of New York, who has been in the national spotlight recently because of his fight against the sales tax, is one of the best fighters in the House, because he is convincing and fights good humoredly enough but with vim and sticks with his fight.

But fighting parliamentary battles is merely the present phase of his scrappiness. He was an American aviator in the World War and commanded the American flying force on the Italian front, for which service he was decorated with the War Cross and was made a knight commander of the Crown of Italy.

When the United States entered the World War Mr. LaGuardia was a member of the House of Representatives. Fearful that some official effort might be made to stop him entering the Army he sneaked away and was in the Army and on the high seas before his colleagues were aware of the reason for his absence from the House. He didn't even tell the recruiting officers he was a member of Congress; neither did he resign because he was afraid that might start complications. He just went to war and when he came back with the rank of major his seat was waiting for him.

Mr. LaGuardia was born in New York City on December 11, 1882. He attended high school in Prescott, Ariz., returned to New York, won his law degree and entered the consular service. Returning, he became an interpreter at Ellis Island. He began to practice law in 1910 and was named deputy attorney general in 1915. He was elected to the Sixty-fifth and Sixty-sixth Congresses. He was president of the board of aldermen, candidate for mayor and generally active in politics, returning to Congress in 1923. He has been re-elected each time since. J. B. McD.

AGREEMENT ON PAY CUT PLAN LIKELY BY HOUSE BODY TODAY

Although this bill would save an estimated $135,000,000, Chairman Byrns and other Democratic and Republican members are preparing to defeat it as striking too drastically at those least able to pay.

Chairman Byrns, who is himself sponsoring reductions ranging from 1 to 20 per cent on salaries, beginning at $1,000, declared cuts under a graduated scale could be made to yield as much as a flat slash "if they were steep enough."

It appeared that the Cochran proposal to avoid pay cuts by retiring 5,000 veteran employes, curtailing leave to fifteen days and not filling vacancies, would die for lack of support.

Williamson Plan Cuts.

The Williamson plan, on which Director Brown will present extended data this afternoon, would cut pay as follows:

Salaries ranging from $1,000 to $1,200, 1 per cent; between $1,200 and $1,400, 2 per cent; $1,400 and $1,600, 3 per cent; $1,600 and $1,800, 4 per cent; $1,800 and $2,000, 5 per cent; $2,000 and $2,500, 6 per cent; $2,500 and $3,000, 7 per cent; $3,000 and $3,500, 8 per cent; $3,500 and $5,000, 9 per cent, and over $5,000, 10 per cent.

Representative Byrns denied reports that some of the proposed reductions range as high as 25 per cent on salaries in the higher brackets. He said he considered his own proposals of 20 per cent for the higher-ups "steep enough."

He was confident agreement would be reached on one of the plans this afternoon, possibly in time for report today. When the legislative bill is reported Friday, the adopted plan may be introduced as a rider.

Salary Reduction Assailed.

The economy committee's pay-cut program was not without reaction on the House floor yesterday. Two representatives assailed salary reduction proposals and demanded dissolution of the economy group.

Representative William P. Connery, jr. (Democrat), Massachusetts, interrupted the antisales tax speech of Representative Edgar Howard (Democrat), Nebraska, to ask his views on the salary slashing prospectus. Mr. Connery's bill for payment of prevailing wage scales on Federal projects was reported favorably by the House labor committee yesterday.

"If we want to elect a Democratic President, don't you think the economy committee had better take a vacation?" Mr. Connery asked the Nebraska representative.

Mr. Howard replied he favored cutting some of the higher salaries.

Cuts Would Inflame Labor.

Salary reduction "would greatly inflame the minds of labor and its friends, and thus an intensified state of social unrest and social discontent would prevail," President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, said meanwhile in a statement.

"Labor has exercised great patience and endurance during the most trying period in the economic life of the Nation," he said. He added reductions would greatly impair the administration of governmental affairs, as trained workers now are not receiving salaries commensurate with services.

The Senate in sending the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor bill back to the committee, with instructions to cut 10 per cent under House figures, followed a precedent set in returning the $57,000,000 Interior bill for similar slashes.

To Cut All Appropriations.

Senate Appropriations Chairman Wesley L. Jones, who opposed the move, nevertheless said he would obey the Senate's mandate and cut not only these two bills, but every appropriations measure 10 per cent below the House total. If he fails to do so, Senator McKellar is prepared to introduce a similar resolution for each of the other bills.

Senate Democratic Leader Joseph T. Robinson led the fight for reduction Republican leaders, with the exception of Senator Arthur V. Vandenburg, spoke against it. Senator George W. Norris (Republican), Nebraska, declared the move "an illogical and inefficient" manner of cutting expenditures. Thirty-three Democrats, sixteen Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite supported the motion, while twenty-three Republicans and six Democrats opposed it.

Is Worth Twice His Pay, Abernethy Tells House

(Associated Press.)

There is one member of Congress opposed to salary cuts because he's "a $10,000 man."

That's what Representative Abernethy, of North Carolina, told the House yesterday, and added that his Democratic leaders should halt their economy committee.

"I'm a $10,000 man," Abernethy said. "Before I came to Congress I made $20,000 a year practicing law.

"I say to those who want to cut salaries: They may be $1,000 men in their districts, but I'm a $20,000 man in mine. And I'm going to be renominated without opposition."

Kreuger Funeral Rites Are Held in Stockholm

Stockholm, March 22 (A.P.).—Only a handful of relatives and personal friends attended the funeral services today for Ivan Kreuger, head of the great Swedish match trust, who committed suicide last week.

There was a brief musical service, but, in compliance with the wishes of the family, there was no funeral sermon. One of the saddest in the attending group was Miss Boekman, his secretary, who probably knew more of the financier's business secrets than any one else in the world.

JAPAN WILL ACCEPT TRUCE TERMS TODAY

Debuchi Tells Department of State That Evacuation Is Proceeding.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Liquidation of the Shanghai incident between the Chinese government and Japan has entered its final phase, according to Japanese Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi. The Tokyo government will accept the terms of the truce agreement at the meeting in Shanghai today where the members of the mixed military and diplomatic commission will hear the details of the Japanese military retirement program.

These announcements were made by the ambassador following his 50-minute visit to Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, jr., yesterday. Mr. Castle was formerly special Ambassador to Japan and has closely followed the details of the Japanese and Chinese situation.

Ambassador Debuchi conceded that while the Shanghai affair has been happily concluded, the Manchurian problem still remains. This has to do with factors surrounding the creation of the new independent Manchurian state under direction of Henry Pu-Yi, the boy emperor who was restored to the historic throne of the Manchus by Japanese influence.

Cites Previous Action.

The Japanese government has no intention, at least in the immediate future, of recognizing the state of Manchukuo, the ambassador explained. He took the example of the Republic of China which remained two years before finally receiving Japanese recognition. The ambassador pertinently recalled that the United States, in its Latin-American policy, exercises great caution and prudence before according a new state the status of recognition.

The Japanese government will exercise the same deliberation and restraint with the Manchurian state, he indicated.

The military evacuation of Shanghai is proceeding according to schedule, although the final embarkation of Japanese troops will not be announced until today's meeting. Half of the Japanese effectives which participated in the shelling of Chapei are already on their way home. The ambassador was equally positive about the reported mobilization of Soviet Russian forces on the Manchurian border. Far from being directed against the Japanese forces, the ambassador declared, the Soviet mobilization, if there was a mobilization, was directed against the White Russian forces in that region. No anti-Japanese thrust against the border of Manchuria from Soviet sources was likely, he said.

Recognition Still Problem.

Recognition of the new Manchurian state still remains a most formidable problem in the last analysis of the Japanese military adventure in China. The capture of Tsitsihar, Mukden and the Nonni River enabled the Japanese military forces to rout effectively the last defenders of the Chinese Nationalist government. Even the Manchurian war lord, Chang Hsueh-liang, was forced to flee for his life and take refuge in Peiping.

The military operation of the Japanese forces under Gen. Honjo cleared the way for the political operation of the Japanese foreign office. A Manchurian Nationalist movement appeared as if by magic, and shortly after the boy emperor was brought back to Mukden and inaugurated with great pomp and ceremony in the presence of Japanese officials. Last week the new government was heard from. A self-styled "minister of foreign affairs" sent a lengthy cable to the State Department reciting the political history of the new government and ended with a petition for recognition by the United States.

Cable Was Ignored.

The cable naturally was officially ignored. Identic steps were taken by the same "foreign minister" with some European governments, although it has not been definitely established yet whether any government has so far recognized the state.

The attitude of the State Department toward the new Manchurian government will be predicated upon the two diplomatic pronouncements of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson. In his manifesto of January 7 and in his later open letter to Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, the Secretary of State announced that no territorial or political alteration in China's status arising out of violation of the nine power treaty or Kellogg-Briand pact would be recognized by this Government.

M'ADOO URGES DEMOCRATS TO SOFT-PEDAL PROHIBITION

covery would come until Congress, by giving further tariff protection to the farmer and fixing a minimum wage for the farmer's products, restored the farmer's buying power.

Feeling as he does about the relative unimportance of prohibition in 1932, McAdoo discourged queries about Speaker Garner's stand on prohibition.

Asked whether he would continue to support Garner for the nomination if the latter proclaimed himself a wet, McAdoo avoided a direct answer. However, he pointed out that he had voted for Alfred E. Smith in 1928, as violently as he was opposed to Smith's liquor views.

May Run for Senate.

There have been reports from the West Coast lately that McAdoo will run for the United States Senate. The drys in California are anxious to have him run, because, as matters now stand, it appears that a wet will be elected.

Senator Sam Shortridge (Republican), whose seat is at stake, and who is facing a terrific fight, is regarded as a "moist." Tallant Tubbs, rated as his strongest opponent for the Republican nomination, is a militant wet.

On the Democratic side, the outstanding candidate for the senatorial nomination is another vigorous wet, Justus S. Wardell. The bone-dry people in Southern California want McAdoo to oppose Wardell.

Considering Entrance.

"I have it under consideration," McAdoo said yesterday, and that was all he could be persuaded to say.

Whatever McAdoo might think about the wisdom of soft-pedaling prohibition this time, he still is a rabid dry. This he demonstrated at his press conference yesterday. The trouble is, in his opinion, that prohibition has never really been enforced.

For one thing, he would have Uncle Sam place a 100 per cent tax on the income of bootleggers and narcotic peddlers.

"But," he was asked, "how are you going to find out how much they earn?"

"Well," said McAdoo, "we found out in the case of Capone, didn't we?"

Cites Own Candidacy in '24.

In the soft drawl that he acquired in his native Georgia and which he has never lost, McAdoo harked back to his own candidacy for President when he was asked about the chances of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

He granted that Roosevelt now was out in front; that he had the most delegates lined up. Then, a bit wistfully, it seemed, he cited his own experience in the 1924 convention in Madison Square Garden.

"Why," he said, "I gathered delegates at a phenomenal rate. At one time, I had 560, and a majority was 549. But I wasn't nominated."

Here McAdoo denounced the Democratic rule, whereby a candidate must acquire two-thirds of the delegates to win the nomination. In his opinion, it is an undemocratic rule.

Has Excellent Chance.

McAdoo expressed the opinion that Garner stood an excellent chance to win the nomination.

"Garner," he said, "is a happy combination of the West and the South. In California, his character and his record have made a good impression. His courage also has excited admiration."

The California primary, which is to be held May 3, is expected to have an important bearing on Garner's chances. There will be three slates of delegates in the fight, one for Garner, headed by McAdoo; one for Gov. Roosevelt, and a third for former Gov. Smith.

Kidnaped Girl Returned To Father in California

San Francisco, March 22 (A.P.).—Fred Stone, painter, informed police today Miss Doreen Mordeaux had returned to him his 4-year-old daughter, Evelyn, after having taken her from a woman in whose care she had been placed by the juvenile court. Stone said he would ask authorities to withdraw a kidnaping warrant sworn out against Miss Mordeaux, a dancer.

The reunion, coming a week after the alleged abduction, took place in a park a few blocks from his home, Stone said. Police were not informed of the meting until several hours later.

LINDBERGH SEARCH FUTILE FOR 3 WEEKS

Spectacular New York Raid to Catch Suspected Gangster Is Failure.

Hopewell, N. J., March 22 (A.P.).—A spectacular raid on a New York apartment, the visit of a prominent Chicagoan with confidential information, and more than the usual flood of "hot tips" all apparently had failed tonight to bring the Lindbergh kidnaping case any nearer solution.

As the third week since the abduction drew to a close, there was no indication either from police or from Col. Lindbergh's confidential agents that any real progress was being made in the hunt.

After keeping a Bronx apartment under surveillance for days, detectives rushed the place in the hope of capturing Harry Fleischer, Detroit Purple gangster, who is wanted here for questioning about the kidnaping and in Detroit in connection with the slaying of three racketeers.

Raid Proves Fruitless.

But, instead of Fleischer, the raiders found only two women, an 8-year-old boy, and a jobless man in the place. All were released after questioning.

Fifty detectives had stood guard outside the building all night. When the signal for the raid was given, plain-clothes officers were stationed on roofs, in basements, at elevator gates, and up and down the streets in doorways.

Meanwhile, from the Lindbergh home came a police announcement that H. Wallace Caldwell, former president of the Chicago Board of Education, had called with information concerning the case.

A report spread that he had been in touch with the kidnapers; that he had received instructions for the ear of no one but the famous flier.

But Col. Schwarzkoff, State police superintendent, said the information brought by Caldwell "has been checked and found to be of no importance in this investigation."

Later, at Trenton, Caldwell said he first went to the Lindbergh home on March 17, returned to Chicago, and came back to see Col. Lindbergh again yesterday.

Caldwell Silent on Data.

"All I can say at this time is that I possessed such information I believed would be of value and presented it to Col. Lindbergh," he explained. "The situation is extremely critical, and I desire to give Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh every possible assistance."

He refused to disclose the nature of the information he had turned over to the Lindberghs, or to explain what he meant by saying 'the situation is extremely critical."

An attempt to link an alleged invasion of the Sourland countryside by Brooklyn gangsters with the kidnaping was spiked.

"Police have diligently searched the Hopewell area," he said, "and have found a number of homes owned and inhabited by persons living in Brooklyn, but so far we have not been able to establish any connection between these people and those responsible for the crime."

The discovery of tools and pieces of lumber similar to that used in making the kidnapers' ladder by a photographer in an abandoned house near the Lindbergh estate also led investigators into a blind alley.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—J. Pierpont Morgan will break his ironclad rule and go "on the air" tomorrow night.

The financier's first radio speech will last fifteen minutes and will be broadcast over a Nation-wide National Broadcasting Co. hook-up, beginning at 8 o'clock.

GRAIN MARKET PLOT CHARGED BY STONE

Denies Widespread Reports Stabilization Wheat Will Be Dumped Abroad.

(Associated Press.)

A "malicious attempt to manipulate" the grain market was attributed by Chairman Stone of the Farm Board yesterday to sponsors of reports that large amounts of stabilization wheat will be dumped abroad.

He declared untrue persistent reports that George S. Milnor, general manager of the Farmers National Grain Corporation, had gone to Europe to arrange for the disposition of large quantities of Government-owned grain. In addition, Stone asserted flatly that no stabilization wheat would be dumped anywhere, and said the board's program for selling its holdings in monthly allotments, announced last July, had been followed and would not be changed.

Decline of Prices.

Milnor sailed for Europe a week ago. Since then wheat prices have steadily declined and the report to which Stone referred has spread.

C. E. Huff, president of the National Grain Corporation, yesterday issued a statement in which he said the only purpose of Milnor's visit was to call on representatives of the corporation and obtain first-hand estimates on the export situation as it relates to the 1932 crop. Huff added: "The trip is apparently being made the occasion for an increased attack by bear operators upon price levels already too low, for personal gain and advantage and to discredit the Farm Board and the cooperative groups."

To See Edge Today.

Paris, March 22 (A.P.).—George S. Milnor, general manager of the Farmers National Grain Corporation of the United States, today said he was making a European trip to call on customers and friends, but there was no question of dumping wheat or "distress sales."

Milnor said the United States Wheat Stabilization Board had wheat for sale as it always has had at the market price and that the board was disturbed by the balance of wheat on hand.

The corporation manager said that whatever transactions were discussed would be in the ordinary line of business.

Police Doubt Prisoner Drove Kidnapers' Auto

Pocatello, Idaho, March 22 (A.P.).—New Jersey officers here to question Ignace Blaustein about his story, later retracted, that he was the driver of the Lindbergh kidnaping car, indicated today their belief the prisoner had no connection with the crime.

The Newark detectives, Thomas Rowe and John Strong, cited discrepancies in his original story, told local officers after he had been arrested for burglary. They said, however, they would place a "detainer" on Blaustein before leaving Pocatello tomorrow to return home.

Third in Berg Kidnaping Gets Term of 25 Years

St. Louis, March 22 (A.P.).—Curtis Medlock, one of six defendants in the kidnaping for ransom of Alexander Berg, wealthy fur dealer, pleaded guilty in Circuit Court today and was sentenced by Judge Erwin G. Ossing to 25 years in the State penitentiary. His was the third prison sentence imposed in the abduction.

Other defendants who received prison sentences in the case so far are Charles Heuer, sentenced to 99 years, and Edward Barcume, given 25 years.

Freighter Imperiled Second Time by Fire

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—Twice threatened in sixteen days with fire in her holds, the freighter San Angelo speeded toward Balboa, Canal Zone, tonight under her own power, the second blaze conquered.

The crew of 34 conquered the flames off Panama as the freighters San Lucas and Fairfield stood by. All three vessels belong to the States Steamship Co.

Indian Killer of Coed Sentenced to Life Term

Globe, Ariz., March 22 (A.P.).—Mac Colney Seymour, White River Apache range rider, protesting he "was a real good Indian," was sentenced today to imprisonment for life for the murder of Henrietta Schmerler, Columbia University anthropology student.

Sentence was pronounced by Federal Judge Albert M. Sames after John H. Dougherty, Seymour's attorney, said he would not ask for a new trial. Dougherty announced the case would be carried to the circuit court if Seymour's family and tribesmen desire it and an appeal can be financed.

Bar Backs Wilkerson's Receivership Conduct

(Associated Press.)

The conduct of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul receivership by Judge James H. Wilkerson, of Chicago, was defended yesterday by the Chicago Bar Association in a brief filed with the Senate judiciary subcommittee considering his nomination for Circuit Court.

Answering charges that Wilkerson had appointed a political friend as receiver and fixed excessively high fees, the Bar Association, through a committee, contended that the nominee's record in the case "discloses the same high standard of public and judicial service that has marked his entire career as lawyer and judge." The association contended that the fees paid in the case were not "out of line" with allowances in other railroad receiverships and denied Wilkerson and Edward J. Brundage, one of the receivers, were "close political allies."

Fear Grows as River In South Dakota Rises

Yankton, S. Dak., March 22 (A.P.). A steadily rising river behind three miles of ice extending from near the mouth of the Missouri River to the bridge here caused increasing concern today.

A rise of more than a foot was recorded on the government gauge yesterday, the reading approaching 15 feet. The flood stage is 12 feet. Ice from upstream was packed from shore to shore with the river more than two miles wide above the gorge. Lowlands on both sides were flooded.

Marjorie Rambeau Loses $40,000 in Balm Suit

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—A verdict of $40,000 was returned against Marjorie Rambeau, actress, today in the $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Mrs. Mabel Manton, widow of the late Kevitt Manton, the actor.

Mrs. Manton had testified her husband began to transfer his affections to Miss Rambeau while they were playing together in 1924-1925. The first trial of the suit two years ago resulted in a disagreement.

Milk Falls to Half-Cent in "War."

Oakland, Ill., March 22 (A.P.).—Competition between milk dealers in this town sent the price of retail milk down to as low as a half-cent a quart today. Several dealers threatened to give milk away unless the war ceased. The price-cutting battle has been in progress for several days.

Five Killed, 10 Hurt In Two Dallas Fires

4 Trapped in Hotel Die; Child Loses Life; Girl Arouses Sleepers.

Dallas, Tex., March 22 (A.P.).—Three fires here today killed five persons and injured ten.

Four men burned to death when trapped in the blazing Elms Hotel, a small upstairs hostelry in the downtown district. A 4-year-old child, B. F. Haygood, jr., received fatal burns in a residence fire. Five persons were injured in the Elms fire and five firemen, answering an alarm, were hurt when two fire trucks collided.

Those who died in the hotel fire were: W. H. Bodenheimer, 55, a card writer, painter and former school teacher at Emory, Tex.; Frank Fisher, 40, of Chicago, laborer; Grover Hobson, 60, a cripple; Frank G. Granger, 50, of Chicago, a crippled real estate worker.

Of the hotel injured, J. W. Loper was not expected to live. Eighteen other occupants of the hotel escaped when aroused before dawn by the screams of Ethel Hazelwood, 11, who ran through the hallway warning of the danger.

Osage Tribal Counselor Seriously Ill at 72

Pawhuska, Okla., March 22 (A.P.). Bacon Rind, 72-year-old tribal counselor of the Osages, richest of Indian nations, was critically ill tonight at his home in the Indian village on the outskirts of Pawhuska. Cancer has been sapping the colorful tribal leader's strength for months.

Once chief of the Wah-Ti-An-Kah band of Osages and once elected by the Osage Nation as its chief, Bacon Rind never was confirmed by the Indian Bureau at Washington for the principal post of the tribe. He has been a member of the high council for years.

Hoover Indorsed In Prince Georges

G.O.P. Central Committee to Ask Aid in Naming of Delegates.

The Republican central committee of Prince Georges County will ask 23 other Republicans to help it select delegates to the State convention, it decided yesterday after adopting a resolution indorsing President Hoover and thanking his supporters in the State.

Republicans from all sections of the county will augment the central committee when it decides which candidates for Republican delegates will be supported. Usually the candidates are selected by the committee alone. A date and meeting place for the selection have not been chosen, but the "caucus" will be called together by S. Gardner Coale, chairman of the committee.

The resolution, adopted at the meeting in Marlboro, was the first formal indorsement of Hoover by any Republican committee in Maryland, committeemen said. It read:

"That this committee heartily indorses the untiring, wise and constructive efforts of President Hoover to protect the Nation and its citizens in this world crisis and it congratulates United States Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough and Republican State Chairman Galen L. Tait for their unswerving support of the President." It continues with the opinion "that the Nation will be best served by a continuation in office of President Hoover and those who have supported his program."

Soviet Officials Scoff At Terrorism Reports

Moscow, March 22 (A.P.).—Reports out of Roumania that Soviet soldiers had shot down peasants on the Ukrainian frontier were characterized by Soviet officials today as "too absurd to warrant a formal denial."

DIPLOMATS CONFER AT SACKETT DINNER

American, French, German Envoys Exchange Views at Paris Function.

Paris, March 22 (A.P.).—American, German and French diplomats informally exchanged views on European affairs tonight at a dinner at the American Embassy in honor of Ambassador Frederick M. Sackett and Mrs. Sackett.

Before attending the dinner, Mr. Sackett, the American Ambassador to Germany, reiterated to newsmen the American thesis that European nations must adjust their own affairs and that America would make no engagements in advance of such an adjustment.

He said the United States would make no sacrifices destined to profit only one or another nation. In response to a question he said he believed that if Germany could find credits indispensable to her, she would be able to pull herself out of difficulties.

Premier Andre Tardieu, of France, the French finance minister, Pierre Flandin; the German Ambassador, Leopold von Hoesch; the American Ambassador designate to Japan, Joseph C. Grew, and Mrs. Grew, and former Governor General of the Philippines Dwight F. Davis and Mrs. Davis, and the American Ambassador to France, Walter E. Edge, were present at the dinner.

It was stressed that the dinner was entirely devoid of political significance, but that an exchange of views on European matters with a purely informative purpose took place.

and the imposition of new taxes by the National Government to pay the present deficit. But it seems apparent that such remedy ought only to be for the existing emergency that must be met to protect the public credit. The Nation has the resources to provide for such action, and they must be used. * * * Almost all our Government units have been taxing, borrowing and spending beyond the means of the people to pay.

"Taxes are remaining unpaid. That causes forced sales of property and destroys values. The credit of many units is exhausted, so that no more money can be borrowed by them. The local governments, on the whole, have been the worst offenders, and find themselves in the most serious difficulties. Nothing but drastic retrenchment will restore them to financial health.

"The only remedy for the situation in which we find ourselves is an aroused public opinion. High expenses have created great debts and heavy taxes. The disaster these have wrought is felt most keenly by the wage earners, but the source of the evil is most apparent to our business interests. Many of these expenditures have been authorized by the appropriating power almost under duress. They did not want to do it. But the pressure was nearly all in one direction and there was little encouragement from the public in offering resistance."

Senators Hurl Wisecracks On Debate Broadcast Plan

Rules Committee Hears Discussion on Proposal to Air Proceedings Over Radio; Upper House's Leaders Express Varied Opinions.

(Associated Press.)

Some of the Senate's ablest debaters yesterday sprinkled a rules committee discussion of whether to permit broadcasting of Senate proceedings with wisecracks about Senate debate in general.

Chairman Moses, known for his ability at repartee, observed he was afraid broadcasting floor activities would require allocation of time, so that both sides of an issue might be heard. This, the New Hampshire senator added blandly, was in his opinion undesirable and impractical.

Jovial "Jim" Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, then propounded a hypothetical question. "Suppose a man was on the floor twenty minutes," he said, "and you had to cut him off so the other side could have twenty minutes, wouldn't that involve the rule of cloture?"

Senator Howell (Republican), of Nebraska, replied that was why he preferred the entire day's proceedings of the Senate be carried on the air.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic chieftain, remarked that he felt sending out the whole proceedings might tie up the broadcasting companies.

"Yes, I'm afraid it might interfere with some of my broadcasts," remarked Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, with a grin.

Shortly after the hearing began, Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, author of a resolution authorizing installation of broadcasting connections, said the idea was to permit broadcasting of important debates, to which Senator Robinson said:

"How would we determine what's important?"

Senator Dill laughed with the rest, and said he would leave that up to the rules committee.

F. M. Russell, vice president of the National Broadcasting Co., told the group his organization stood ready to broadcast as much and as often as the rules committee would permit.

"If you would guarantee this would close debate, it would be very popular," Senator Copeland said, while Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, remarked, "It probably would prolong it."

Harry C. Butcher, representing the Columbia Broadcasting System, said his company was ready to broadcast as much as the committee would allow, but programs should be limited "to preserve the dignity of the Senate."

Before the laughter had spent itself, Senator Robinson replied, "I agree with that completely." Senator Robinson questioned whether broadcasting might affect the press galleries, and whether the radio would be as informative as newspaper reporting.

Building Bill to Force U.S. Products Approved

(Associated Press.)

The House expenditures committee yesterday approved a bill to compel the use of American products in public works.

The measure—in line with a recommendation by President Hoover—would, however, exempt things used for experimental or scientific purposes.

Brenizer Company Low Bidder on Alley Paving

The Brenizer Trucking Co., Inc., of Washington, was low bidder yesterday on the job of repaving cement and concrete roadways and alleys in scattered sections of the city, according to Roland M. Brennan, chief clerk of the District Engineer Department. The low estimate was $26,833.25. Eleven bids were received.

4 AIRMEN SURVIVE MIDAIR COLLISION

Two Pilots Land Their Planes on Water in Sight of U. S. Battle Fleet.

San Pedro, Calif., March 22 (A.P.). After a mid-air collision, two naval ensigns stayed by their faltering planes today and landed them in sight of the United States battle fleet without so much as wetting their feet.

A swarm of surface craft from battleships anchored off San Pedro rescued Ensigns Elliott W. Parish and Clayton C. Marcy, and two unidentified observers after their planes, with crumpled wings, circled and dived from 2,500 feet to land finally on the water.

Observers aboard the warships saw Parish's plane strike the rear of the plane flown by Marcy. Parish's propeller smashed the elevator on the tail assembly of Marcy's ship. The propeller flew into bits.

Horrified watchers on the decks of the battleships and cruisers watched Marcy and Parish fight their way down from the sky. Aided by his motor, Marcy made a fairly perfect landing, but Parish's plane floundered as it struck the water and leaned unsteadily until buffeting waves righted it.

Parish's plane was hauled aboard the battleship Colorado and Marcy's was towed to the cruiser Louisville, home of both ships. An investigation of the accident was ordered by the commander of the aircraft squadron.

Stimson Not to Testify On World Court Today

(Associated Press.)

Because of a slight indisposition, Secretary Stimson will be unable to testify before the Senate foreign relations committee today on his interpretation of the revised World Court protocol.

Pending Stimson's appearance, Chairman Borah, of the committee, believes there is little likelihood of action on the court dispute.

BARKLEY SUPPORTS ROOSEVELT IN HITTING FAVORITE SON MOVE

scattering support for other leading contenders that the anti-Roosevelt leaders hope to hold a veto power against Roosevelt long enough to dissipate his strength and throw the convention into a deadlock, out of which one of the other candidates ultimately will emerge the winner.

By taking himself out of the race voluntarily, Senator Barkley has increased the possibility of Gov. Roosevelt's nomination in the early balloting. That he could have had the Kentucky delegation is not doubted here. But he has renounced all claim to a complimentary vote in favor of Gov. Roosevelt, and the question immediately arises whether any other Kentucky Democrat aspires to the honor of being the favorite son, or could land the delegation if he sought it.

The belief here is that Senator Barkley's action will result in Kentucky's vote being cast for Gov. Roosevelt, probably on the first ballot. Senator Barkley will be a candidate for reelection in Kentucky this year and is expected to wield considerable influence with the State delegation.

Senator Barkley recently was mentioned as the probable choice for temporary chairman and "keynoter" of the Democratic national convention. His militant declaration in favor of Gov. Roosevelt's nomination probably will make him highly acceptable to the Roosevelt delegates, who will be strong numerically in the convention, whether they ever attain the two-thirds strength necessary for a nomination or not.

Text of Letter.

Senator Barkley's letter to Dr. Richmond in full follows:

Your request of this day, asking that I advise you whether it is my wish that friends of mine in Kentucky seek to have the State convention instruct the Kentucky delegation to vote for my nomination for President, is deeply appreciated.

My answer is emphatically in the negative. I am in no sense remotely a candidate and have not been responsible for the suggestion made by friends that the State delegation vote for me for that high office.

Naturally I am grateful for the generous feeling that has prompted the desire of some of my friends to pay me this signal, though unmerited, compliment.

But, in my judgment, this is no time for compliments to so-called favorite sons. I recognize that any man has a right to aspire to so high an honor. But the deep distress into which our country has been plunged calls for harmonious and constructive cooperation, not only among all Democrats but on the part of earnest and patriotic men and women everywhere.

The Democratic party has the greatest opportunity it has had since the election of Woodrow Wilson to lead this Nation out of the morass of incompetence and disaster into which it had been precipitated by ten years of Republican misrule. It has the greatest opportunity since Grofer Cleveland to reeducate the country on economic questions.

It seems to me, therefore, that instead of attempting to confuse and clutter up the situation and waste our energy and opportunity by putting forth local aspirations or extending local compliments, we ought to be uniting our forces behind a man who can appeal to the imagination of the people and at the same time offer hope of real courage, real leadership, real understanding of the people's needs, and the ability to crystallize them into action and relief.

Urges Roosevelt as Choice.

In my opinion such a leadership is offered in Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

I have known Mr. Roosevelt since he was Assistant Secretary of the Navy under Woodrow Wilson. I have worked with him in national conventions and elsewhere. I have watched his career as Governor of the State of New York. I have been thrilled by his heroic, yet fair and just and patient, fight for clean and honest government. The people have confidence in his integrity, his high purposes and his progressive and constructive statesmanship. Instead of attempting to stop a nomination which manifestly the people favor, we ought to unite to bring it about.

That he will be nominated at the Chicago convention I earnestly hope and believe, and that he will, when nominated, be overwhelmingly elected I have not the slightest doubt. I trust the Kentucky State convention will instruct its delegates to vote for and help procure his nomination.

A CHANCE FOR BUSINESS.

The United States has reached an important juncture in the campaign against depression. Powerful forces that have been driving prices to lower levels and causing general deflation have been arrested. Bank failures have been stopped through the administration's program of loosening credit and smoking out hoarded dollars. At last business, finance and industry have their back against a solid wall. Retreat and disintegration have been checked. The way is open for an offensive campaign that will put the depression in complete rout.

It is highly important that the public should understand what has taken place in the last few weeks. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Federal Reserve credit extension act and other constructive measures that have been adopted by Congress serve to counteract deflation. They marshal the entire financial strength of the nation behind the economic structure. The weight of the depression has been distributed to those shoulders best able to bear it.

But it remains for business itself to take the offensive against the depression. Obviously, the country can not be restored to prosperity merely through the liberalization of credit or through Government loans. These can only hold the forces of depression in check while industry whips its resources into shape and initiates an actual economic revival. Courage begets courage, and activity stimulates additional activity. This is no time to drift. Unless positive steps are taken the advantages gained from President Hoover's constructive program will wear off and the forces of deflation will once more grip the country.

At least one great industry—automobile manufacturing—has taken up this view of the situation. Vast sums of money are being invested in new cars of more attractive design, greater power and better service. These machines will soon be offered to the public at tempting prices. Gigantic sales campaigns are planned. By this means the motor industry makes an attempt to prime the pump of industry, with faith that other great enterprises will join in the movement, until the whole country is safely on the road to recovery.

The vision and faith of these industrial leaders can not be too highly commended. Their example deserves and encourages emulation. It is estimated that this aggressive move of the automobile industry will, if successful, give employment or increased earnings to 5,000,000 persons. Indirect benefits through stimulation of the rubber, iron, glass, lumber, leather, copper, paint and similar industries are expected to reach 15 per cent of the total population.

A Nation-wide call for industry and business to join in this offensive against the depression is timely. Only positive, constructive action on the part of the country's basic industries can maintain the benefits that have accrued from the reconstruction measures and start the ball rolling toward prosperity again.

The most notable contribution that Congress can make to this drive is to throw no obstacles in its path. Senator Glass is threatening to press forward his deflationary measure to overhaul the Federal Reserve banking structure. Business as well as banking interests are alarmed over the prospects of this measure being railroaded through Congress, because it would unquestionably give impetus to the forces that have been compelling liquidation of securities for the last two years, and thus start a new wave of deflation. The Glass bill is the most vicious obstacle to a forward business and industrial movement in the whole economic spectrum.

Congress ought to sweep this monstrosity aside and give business a chance. If another orgy of deflation is to be inflicted upon the country the benefits of the reconstruction measures already passed will be nullified. At present the way is open for business to surge forward and fill up the tragic gap in American economic life. Let Congress encourage instead of throwing cold water on the business revival. It is time for all Americans to pull together toward normalcy. The manner in which the Nation reacts to this situation will determine whether the future holds promise of further depression or a steady climb to better times.

THE TRUCE AT SHANGHAI.

A formal truce has been agreed upon by China and Japan. Unless fresh complications arise this should remove the danger of a renewal of hostilities at Shanghai. The Chinese have agreed to maintain their present position about 20 miles from Shanghai, and the Japanese have promised to withdraw their troops according to a definite program. A commission including neutral representatives will supervise the execution of these agreements.

Grave problems arising out of the Shanghai incident remain to be solved. Some sections of the city have been destroyed, with an immense loss of property. Who will pay for this damage? Enmity against the Japanese has been augmented in Shanghai as in all China. Crimes of violence against Japanese and sniping on both sides are reported. How will order be restored? Japan laid siege to Shanghai to break the boycott against Japanese goods. It does not seem possible that the Chinese authorities could suppress this movement now, even if they were inclined to do so. What is to be done with regard to Japan's demand for enlargement of the International Settlement and abandonment of the Woosung forts?

While these questions bristle with difficulties, the real dilemma facing China, Japan and the League of Nations is the future of Manchuria. Since hostilities at Shanghai ceased interest in the Far Eastern crisis has shifted back to the northern provinces and their puppet government set up through the force of Japanese arms. Manchuria is the real bone of contention in the Sino-Japanese controversy, and will probably continue to be. Many keen observers believe that Tokyo authorities sent troops to Shanghai for the chief purpose of diverting attention from Manchuria while Japan consolidated her strength there.

Japan has not yet mustered nerve enough to recognize the new Manchurian state. Tokyo officials are making a desperate effort to convince the world that the new government arose out of a spontaneous revolution of the people against Chinese war lords. But the fact remains that Japan maintains an army in Manchuria to keep Henry Pu-Yi in his position as chief executive. If the Japanese should withdraw this puppet regime would fall like a house of cards.

If Japan or any other major power should recognize the independence of Manchuria it would violate the nine-power treaty, which binds the signatories to respect the territorial integrity of China. President Hoover and the league assembly have laid down the principle that territorial gains acquired through aggression shall not be recognized. Japan is confronted with the alternative of losing the prize for which she went to war with China or of repudiating her international obligations. A lasting peace in the Far East is impossible until this issue has been disposed of.

JUSTICE BRANDEIS DISSENTS.

Justice Louis D. Brandeis put his economic theories ahead of the Constitution in dissenting from the opinion handed down by a majority of the Supreme Court in the Liebman case. His dissertation on hard times can hardly be called a legal opinion. The justice took occasion to air his personal views on the American economic structure, with only casual reference to the legal point at issue.

The Supreme Court majority held that the manufacture of ice is a private rather than a public business, and that an individual has a constitutional right to engage in that business. No State can deprive an individual of the right to pursue an enterprise of that kind on the ground that the field is already overcrowded. Any State which attempts to do so is venturing dangerously near to socialism.

The fourteenth amendment provides that no State shall "deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law." Under this amendment the court held that a State can not "shut out new enterprises and thus create and foster monopoly in the hands of existing establishments against, rather than in aid of, the interests of the consuming public." The court has erected a barrier against socialistic systems under which the States might allow only favored interests to engage in private industries and occupations.

Apparently Justice Brandeis dissents on the ground that the depression is worse than war. He points out the evils of overproduction. Some men, he says, insist that certificates of public convenience and necessity must be made a prerequisite to the investment of new capital in private industry. But what does that have to do with the constitutionality of the Oklahoma statute at issue?

Justice Brandeis "can not believe that the framers of the fourteenth amendment, or the States which ratified it, intended to leave us helpless to correct the evils of technological unemployment and excess productive capacity which the march of invention and discovery have entailed." Apparently they intended that property employed in a private business should be protected or they would not have written that provision into the fundamental law. When the justice seeks to uphold economic experiments that are repugnant to the Constitution by saying that "we must let our minds be bold" he puts himself in a precarious position.

Fortunately, the majority of justices are not swayed by this curious logic. The majority opinion, written by Justice Sutherland, preserves the Constitution as the supreme law of the land and lets economic theory fit in where it may.

TROUBLE IN IRELAND.

Unrest is gaining momentum in Ireland. President Eamon de Valera's radical policy threatens to revive the bitter feelings that made Ireland a hotbed of revolution and civil war prior to the advent of the Free State. It is apparent that Ireland's period of travail is not yet at an end.

President de Valera has not dared openly to repudiate the treaty under which the Irish Free State was created ten years ago. But his policy calls for nullification of two provisions in that treaty. The first is the oath of allegiance to the British crown. In this instance, De Valera maintains that the oath is not obligatory under the treaty. Instead of repudiating that instrument, he puts his own interpretation upon it. Apparently he wishes to sever the tie with England by a series of steps, while pretending to remain within the pale of legality.

Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, has warned President de Valera against abolition of the oath of allegiance. But the Irish president merely replies that his government will not be responsible for any disorders arising from that source. Already he has suspended the public safety act of the Cosgrave government and the way is opened for widespread disorders. If De Valera also carries out his intention of suspending the annuities due to British landlords on the sale of property to Free State farmers, grave consequences appear certain. Together these two acts would constitute a serious blow to the treaty under which the Free State functions. It is not to be supposed that Parliament will stand quietly by and see the treaty nullified.

Trouble is beginning to arise in another source. Northern Ireland, which is not a part of the Free State, is alarmed over De Valera's policy of uniting all Ireland under one government. For many years the feuds between the two sections frustrated the Irish desire for home rule. It is not surprising that a shudder passes through Ulster when a radical president in Dublin proposes to bring the northern counties under domination of the Free State.

De Valera is proceeding somewhat cautiously at present, but his program contemplates reopening the whole question of Irish independence.

STRENGTH WHEN NEEDED.

When a fire broke out in the home of Miss Edith Paulsen, 19, at El Cerrito, Calif., the girl picked up a large cedar chest of clothing and ran with it into the yard. After the blaze had been extinguished the firemen gallantly offered to carry the box back into the house. It required three of them to lift it.

In this little story, caught at random from the press, there is a lesson worth noticing. Miss Paulsen is no prodigy of physical strength. She is just an average young woman, neither stronger nor weaker than other girls of her age. But she had treasures in that cedar chest, and she did not intend that they should go up in smoke. She had the strength she needed at the moment it was required.

When danger threatens, when necessity presses, we all can do things that normally might seem impossible. "The occasion makes the man," is an ancient adage. Perhaps we may not be invariably successful, but at least we can try, and sometimes it happens that we surprise ourselves.

A piece of propaganda says that 50,000,000 people oppose the sales tax. That leaves 72,000,000 who may be presumed to favor balancing of the budget.

The bolshevists may be constructing the biggest steel works in Europe, but their biggest ballyhoo industry is exiled in Turkey.

WHEN THE PEOPLE SLEEP

From the Topeka Capital.

The Kansas City Times the other day printed a powerful indictment editorially of the indifference and inertia of the American people in matters of government, well calculated to shock well-meaning people out of lethargy. The Times did not and could not offer any comfortable or easy way to combat kidnaping, racketeering, corruption of police and the triumph of organized criminality over social order. First of all the realization must be brought home to the common mind of the unprecedented decline of authority of every character and the neglect of public responsibility by the people themselves.

Similarly the magazine, Editor and Publisher, makes the failure of law and government in the Lindbergh abduction case the text of a column-long editorial, "The Shame of the Nation," commenting on the desperate condition of America in relation to crime and lawlessness.

Expediency for the last ten years, superseding orderly processes, has brought the country, it points out, to this decay of Americanism. The people have turned to other concerns than those of self-government. Constant defiance of government culminates at intervals in desperate and shocking deeds which stir the Nation. But is crime interesting and moving only because it creates sensation and thrills, soon forgotten, of which the public soon wearies? Editor and Publisher mentions 2,000 abductions of children, men and women in two years, with but 65 convictions. There appears to be in fact more concern over 2,000 bank failures in the same time, if we are to judge by the cumulative efforts of government and public in a series of enactments and public organization to combat them. It indicts "governmental philosophy which has surrendered to gangdom almost every public function except the raising of taxes and regulation of traffic."

The Texas cattleman, Norfleet, in his book describing his single-handed pursuit, capture and conviction of a gang with Nation-wide affiliations and connections, over a period of nearly ten years, tells a revealing story of continual frustrations by police. He learned that if he was to succeed in his mission it was necessary to keep the police in the dark.

It is the people themselves, responsible for the working of their government, who permit such scandalous conditions.

Unquestionably the public desires good government and good order, which are necessary to its security. The failure to remember that eternal vigilance is its role results in a political and social breakdown.

This week in Milwaukee, a city famed for enforcement of law and its avoidance by organized criminality, a city without crime and without scandal, Mayor Hoan was overwhelmingly renominated for his ninth successive term. He has been mayor ever since his first election in 1916. Four candidates opposed him, but his vote was 10,000 greater than that of all his opponents combined. "Major criminals," he says, "in large cities are dependent on the crookedness of politicians and officeholders," nominated, elected and reelected by the people. Mayor Hoan lays it down that "it is the city's job to keep crime out." Milwaukee has done it, so it can be done.

Mass meetings are being held to protest not against the breakdown of government in the United States, but the tax rates. The country is not yet aroused by what Editor and Publisher terms "surrender to gangdom of almost every public function." Yet this is more menacing to the success of Americanism than tax rates, or than any other problem of these times.

"But Can You Get Anywhere on It?"

POST HASTE.

Attacks on a tax bill may scatter tacks that will puncture a presidential boom.

Jonathan Swift's consolation is that "censure is the tax a man pays to the public for being eminent."

Shakespeare's warning is that "striving to better, oft we mar what's well."

But Sydney Smith discovered long ago that there are "men who prefer any load of infamy, however great, to any pressure of taxation, however light."

The advantage of a benevolent dictatorship is occasionally seen in the possibility of doing things promptly for the general good, and not allowing them to be blocked by special interests.

Poor big jelly fish that is China; if she gets rid of the Japanese leech tomorrow she must turn to face the omnipresent troubles of civil strife, famine, bankruptcy, rapacious war lords, banditry and communism.

Are you preparing to make the most of an additional minute of daylight every day until next June?

In this year of leap, 1932, the specially privileged sex probably will not overlook the argument that the despondent Messrs. Krueger and Eastman were both bachelors.

If the Chinese allies of the Japanese in Manchuria, the Chinese allies of the White Russians and the Chinese allies of the Red Russians can keep themselves straight it is more than the world can do. Maybe they are all-lies.

Tax bills "written on the floor of the House" are not only notoriously intended to "soak the rich," but also inclined to save the face on the barroom floor.

We are indebted to England for a word descriptive of recent measures to restore our normal credit facilities. (Please avoid the use of inflation.) The word is "reflation."

The Senate has a forward-looking, not to say anticipatory, member in Huey Long. He couldn't restrain his denunciation of the tax bill until it reached the upper house.

Amos and Andy certainly make us toothpaste and gargle conscious, but it is unfortunate that it always has to be done just at dinner time.

THE WAY OF MAN.

Time was he vowed he'd die for her;
Climb mountains gaunt and high for her;
Around the world he'd fly for her,
Devotion to express,
But now he shakes his head at her,
His cheeks turn flaming red at her
Because she wants a dress.

"Have mercy on me, please!" he cries,
"Does money grow on trees?" he sighs,
And when her bills he sees, he'll rise
To call them most absurd.
Still if she bade him die for her,
Or round the wide world fly for her,
Or scale some mountain high for her,
He'd try to keep his word.

The promises once made to her,
The compliments he paid to her
May seem worn out and frayed to her
Those death-defying tasks
Which years ago he vowed to do,
And begged to be allowed to do,
And said that he'd be proud to do,
Are risks she never asks.

Strange man who at her beck and call
Would gladly risk his neck and all,
But asked to write a check, though small,
For hats and coats and beads,
Instead of new attire for her,
Prefers to go through fire for her,
And prove his deep desire for her
By feats she never needs.

You Can Trust Him With a Gun if He Is a Big Fellow and Not Afraid.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

If you are a lover of peace, it is quite probable that you oppose all armament and regard it as a cause of war.

In theory you are right. But no argument for or against armament applies to the United States as it does to other nations.

The great struggle that so nearly destroyed the civilization of Europe gave final proof that preparation for war does not insure peace between nations that envy and fear one another.

That question is no longer debatable.

But what is true of Europe is not true of America.

The nations of Europe are divided only by imaginary lines. Much bloody history has taught them to fear one another. They covet the same territory. Their people have inherited old hatreds. Young men inherit and accept the obligation to settle old scores.

Under such conditions, armament serves only to encourage and keep alive the lust for conflict and conquest.

In Japan, also, armament is deliberate preparation for war. Japan has small choice. She must practice birth control or acquire more territory. She prefers the second alternative and arms to achieve it.

Now consider the case of America.

The American people, as a whole, fear no other nation. They envy no other people. They covet no territory. They nurse no hatreds. They have no grudges to settle.

With or without armament they can be trusted to keep the peace. Witness the years of friendship with our weaker neighbors, Canada and Mexico, despite many incidents that a warlike nation would have seized upon as a pretext for conquest.

You know, and every intelligent statesman in the world knows, that America will not be a menace to other nations, no matter how well armed she may be.

But why arm at all?

Because no argument or example, nor any power under heaven, can persuade other nations to disarm. Dream and hope if you will, but the fact remains. And we must deal with facts—not with ideals.

While other nations arm for conquest, America must arm for self-defense.

But armament sufficient to win a war is not enough. Victory does not bring the dead to life.

America can insure peace and safety for her people only by arming so well that no other nation will dare force a war upon her.

PRO AND CON

Another Beer Mirage.

Houston Post.

At this distance it isn't clear why any one in Washington should be getting excited over alleged prospects of the return of beer through the medium of the new tax measure now before the House. Several things would have to happen before 2.75 per cent beer could be brought back by that route.

Before a tax could be levied on beer of that alcoholic content such a beverage would have to be declared legal within the meaning of the eighteenth amendment. Whether or not 2.75 per cent beer is in fact intoxicating is a matter of controversy. The presumption is strong that it is intoxicating, else there would be no demand for it from the wets. There is plenty of nonintoxicating beer on the market now which is being sold legally. As Charles Evans Hughes once said, any liquor not of sufficient alcoholic content to produce intoxication would not be satisfactory to the wets.

Mr. Hughes is Chief Justice of the Supreme Court now. In the event that Congress decided to nullify the eighteenth amendment by legalizing beer that is not intoxicating in fact, the probability that the court would hold the law valid is not great. The assumption that the question would reach the court is based on the other assumption that President Hoover would fail to veto the measure and thus add his approval to nullification.

Legalization of 2.75 per cent beer will have to get by a heavy dry majority in each branch of Congress, a President who has declared both against repeal of the eighteenth amendment and nullification of the same, and a Supreme Court that has upheld the validity of the amendment and put its foot down on all previous efforts at nullification.

In view of all this, the probability of getting revenue from beer at this session of Congress would not appear very great.

Perfect Candidate.

New York Herald Tribune.

The Roosevelt managers now declare his nomination is assured, for has he not shown himself wellnigh the perfect candidate? Harken to Senator Dill: "To win the primaries in conservative New Hampshire and radical North Dakota and to secure the delegates of the Minnesota convention all in one week is stopping the 'Stop Roosevelt Movement' with a vengeance." An achievement, indeed, but how long can it go in just that way? That radical North Dakota prefers Gov. Roosevelt to Gov. Murray may help the former in the more radical Western States, like Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska; but can it fail to have just the opposite effect in the conservative Eastern and Southern States? For instance, when was Pennsylvania ever ready to follow the political lead of North Dakota? The race is scarcely won yet, despite Gov. Roosevelt's speedy start.

Necessary Evil.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

The budget must somehow be balanced. Calculation indicates that the sales tax would raise the required revenue. It would add to the cost of living, but it would enable the Government and people to go forward, assist to the quicker coming of better times. The Secretary of the Treasury asserts it is wrong, but necessary. It is an expedient.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Old Soak Doesn't Quite Credit Statement That More Hard Liquor Is Drunk Than B. V. D.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: So far as any special interest in hard licker is concerned, I have had my day, and the time has come when, no matter what the situation may have been in the past, I care more for the Constitution than I do for my booze. And having more confidence in the American political system than some seem to have, I do not let myself worry about the pro and con of the dry-wet wrangles. However, the strange sight of United States senators standing up in eager defense of the doctrine of 4 per cent beer causes me to rub my eyes and take notice. In a way I can sympathize with them.

If I felt that it would save us from a condition which is "driving the people to hard liquors with a resultant increase in drunkenness, deaths from alcoholism and general lawlessness," I would welcome 4 per cent beer, whether nonintoxicating or otherwise, taking the long chance that it might stand the test of the Supreme Court.

What gives me pause is the fact that although from past experience I can boast a pretty fair knowledge of the visible and vocal reactions of alcohol in potable mixtures, I can see and hear no evidence that hard licker is being consumed in devastating quantities. Says the Senate's wet subcommittee: "At this time the young people of the country are drinking dangerous habit-forming hard liquors." If that is so, all I have to say is that they are keeping mighty quiet about it. In the good old days devotees of hard licker were apt to get loud and talkative if not unsteady on their feet. When tanked up, they wanted to let everybody know how happy they felt, and intoxicated boys and girls would be in evidence by the hundreds on the street and in public places, if the young people of the country were as full of booze as the wets say they are.

There was a time when it would sometimes happen that one of those friendly Virginia farmers would get restless, hitch up his horse and pay a visit to Washington, get soused with hard liquors that deserved the name, drive back over the old Long Bridge without special excitement, and, when beyond the clutch of the city police, whip up and gallop down the turnpike with wild gesticulations and whoops and yells that could be heard all the way from Great Falls to Alexandria.

Not until they can point to pre-Volstead evidence like this will I join the nonintoxicating wets. But it makes me almost have a thirst to write about it. OLD SOAK.

Better Selected Movies for Children Demanded by Parents—Too Much Sex and Tragedy.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: You have my heartfelt thanks for the editorial, "Parents and Movies." It is what one might expect in a good family newspaper. The movie people may be half-way right in claiming that the entertainment they furnish is apparently what the public wants. But they might find that the public is not entirely satisfied if we could speak as an organized body, which is not possible.

As far as the children are concerned it does not look as if it would be difficult for movie experts to provide what is wholesome as well as entertaining. I am very sure that most parents will indorse what The Post says in this respect.

On Saturdays there are numbers of neighborhood movie shows whose attendance is more than three-fourths juvenile. I do not think it is asking a great deal that these shows furnish suitable programs. But not much attention is paid to fitness, and sex drama as well as tragedy is apt to be presented in what seems to be a hit-or-miss selection. I do not think I am at all unreasonable in saying that, if what the public wants has anything to do with it, it is a sign of bad management to present such plays as "Dracula," "Frankenstein," "The Murders in the Rue Morgue," for the amusement of kiddie audiences. Here at least is a fine opportunity to improve the movies without much need for argument, don't you think? R. W. DAVIS.

Mr. Lyle Disapproves Presidential Primary Plan and Says He Will Support Republican Nominee, Wet or Dry.

To the Editor of The Post— Sir: After seeing so many misfits nominated for electoral office by the primary system, I am of the opinion that Senator LaFollette's (or is it Czar Pinchot's?) plan for a nation-wide presidential primary would be an unnecessary expense and a waste of time.

In the first place, the result of such an election would not bind the two major parties to accept the nominees chosen by the voters. Though the convention system has its faults, I believe that in most cases it nominates a better type of candidate for office.

It seems that the wets and drys will follow the same old rule this year in supporting any simpleton who runs for Congress just as long as he will vote wet or dry as the case may be. Personally I am dry, but if the Republican party should run wet I will support its nominees, for I believe that prosperity will not be restored until that party has full control of both houses of Congress. The Democratic party seems to have no plan to end the economic chaos. All its statesmen seem able to do is to talk of free trade, which if put in effect would plunge us deeper into the economic depression.

SENATE WETS PLAN TO FORCE DRY VOTE

Tydings Presents Petition Signed by 24 Following Enforcement Fight.

(Associated Press.)

Senate antiprohibitionists yesterday served notice they would seek a vote on repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment, and dry leaders confidently challenged them to proceed with their plans.

Earlier Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, moved to strike from the Justice Department appropriation measure the $11,000,000 dry enforcement fund and was defeated without a record vote.

Then Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, presented a petition signed by 24 members asking the judiciary committee to submit to the Senate for a vote one of the varied resolutions proposing repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment.

Borah's Suggestion.

The submission of a petition is unnecessary to bring a measure from committee for a vote. A motion may be entered any time and a majority vote of the Senate is all that is required.

Senator Borah suggested that the antiprohibitionists get together on some form of resolution before asking the Senate to vote.

Chairman Norris, of the Judiciary committee, told Senator Tydings he was ready to take up the issue in the Senate immediately by unanimous consent.

Senator Tydings said he wished the petition to lie on the table until March 30, at which time he would move to bring about a vote. Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, circulated the petition on the Republican side.

Asks "April Fool's Vote.

Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, a leader of the prohibition forces, suggested, with a smile, that the vote be had on April 1.

Senator Blaine, who is chairman of the judiciary committee subcommittee considering the repeal resolutions, is himself the author of one proposing modification of the eighteenth amendment. He said, off the floor, he hoped to have early hearings.

The petition asking the committee to report was signed by thirteen Republicans, including Watson, of Indiana, the party leader, and eleven Democrats. The 24 is less than a third of the Senate, and two-thirds is necessary for adoption of a resolution for repeal.

Senator Tydings told the Senate there were at least half a dozen more ready to sign the petition who were not present, and he mentioned Senator Lewis (Democrat), Illinois.

The petition, addressed to the judiciary committee, read: "We, the undersigned members of the United States Senate, realizing the widespread interest and divergent opinions concerning resolutions dealing with the repeal and modification of the eighteenth amendment which are now pending before your committee, do respectfully petition said committee to report said resolutions to the Senate in order that a vote may be had upon the same by the membership thereof."

Those who signed the petition were:

Signers of Petition.

Republicans — Barbour, Bingham, Walcott, Watson, Moses, Kean, Couzens, Carey, Hebert, Keyes, Oddie, Metcalf and Glenn.

Democrats — Tydings, Broussard, Copeland, Wagner, Wheeler, Pittman, Coolidge, Long, Walsh of Massachusetts, Hawes and Bulkley.

Blaine and Long, of Louisana, led the fight against the prohibition enforcement fund. The Wisconsin member said the enforcement had "involved the Government in bribery and corruption."

Long said he had given enforcement officers the names of places selling liquor openly in New Orleans, but the places had not been interfered with.

"I asked them not to raid every place that had Huey Long on the door," he added.

Statisticians to Talk On 'How Rich Is Europe'

"How Rich Is Europe?" will be the subject under discussion tomorrow night at a meeting of the Washington Statistical Society in the Cosmos Club. There will be a dinner at 7 o'clock.

Dr. David Friday, prominent economist, will speak on the main topic, after which members of the society will hold a round-table discussion.

MRS. BEAUREGARD DIES.

Daughter-in-Law of Confederate General Succumbs in New Orleans.

Word was received here yesterday that Mrs. Renee Toutant Beauregard, a daughter-in-law of Gen. P. G. T. Beauregard, of the Confederate army, and a member of one of the most distinguished families in the South, died yesterday morning at her home in New Orleans.

Surviving her are five daughters, Mrs. Frederick Lemly, Mrs. Edward C. Morse and Miss Marguerite Beauregard, all of this city; Mrs. J. Bernard Diamond, of Gaithersburg, Md., and Mrs. Henry L. Richardson, of New Orleans; a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Gustave Beauregard, of New York, and many grandchildren.

Mrs. Beauregard's husband, Judge Beauregard, has been dead many years.

HOUSE BOOST TAX ON LARGE ESTATE

being considered section by section for amendment. A special rule was proposed to permit immediate consideration of the sales tax section. Representative Rankin and other opponents, however, insisted that the leaders agree to consideration of the estate tax section, out of order, first.

The weary, battle-worn Crisp, forced to accede, saved what he could in his retreat and when the sales tax provision was taken up he proposed to amend the first section by inserting in it all of the exemptions which had been agreed to by the committee. These exemptions included food, clothing, medicines, farm implements, materials for spraying trees, malt sirup used in bread making, radio-leased wires, grape juice used for non-alcoholic purposes, malted milk, ice cream and other materials.

The maneuver was fought by opponents of the tax. Representative Fiorella H. LaGuardia (Republican), of New York, made a point of order against the amendment, contending that it should have been offered to a later paragraph. Representative Clarence Cannon (Democrat), of Missouri, who used to be Champ Clark's parliamentarian when the gray Missourian presided over the last Democratic House, joined in the point and cited several precedents.

Bankhead Overrules Point.

Representative William B. Bankhead (Democrat), of Alabama, who was presiding, appeared ready to rule against the point without much delay, but the onslaught by Mr. Cannon caused him evident uneasiness. Obviously banking on the ability of Representative Crisp, who had so much to do with writing the House rules, he overruled the point.

It was a victory for the sponsors of the sales tax. Opponents did not want the exemption amendment attached to the first section, because Representative Robert L. Doughton (Democrat), of North Carolina, committee member, but leader of the fight against the sales tax, planned to offer an amendment striking the first section out of the bill.

The Crisp exemption amendment, Representative LaGuardia said off the floor, was "sugar-coating" and opponents wanted a vote on the section as it was reported. When Chairman Bankhead overruled the point of order Mr. LaGuardia appealed to the House from the ruling but the chair was sustained by a vote of 227 to 21 on a standing vote.

Other Amendments Offered.

Despite the "sugar-coating" of the paragraph, however, Representative Doughton offered an amendment to strike it out, announcing that if part of the sales tax section were stricken out he would offer other amendments to strike out all of the remainder of the sales tax provisions.

There were several other amendments offered. One by Representative Frederick R. Lehlbach (Republican), of New Jersey, would exempt American merchant vessels and their equipment when they were constructed with the aid of Government loans.

Another by Representative Thomas H. Cullen (Democrat), of New York, proposed a tax of 3 cents a pint on beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content. Representative Thomas Blanton (Democrat), of Texas, reserved a point of order against this amendment.

Heflin-Bankhead Case Delayed to Saturday

(Associated Press.)

The Senate elections committee agreed yesterday to take action Saturday on the Heflin-Bankhead contest involving the Alabama election of 1930.

The committee deferred until next week a decision whether to ask the Senate for authority to inquire into the 1930 North Carolina election in which Senator Bailey, Democrat, defeated George M. Pritchard, Republican. Chairman Shortridge said the committee expects to act finally on Saturday on the contest of J. Thomas Heflin against the election of Senator Bankhead.

ROUND-UP OF ALIENS BEGUN IN COAL AREA

Inciting Strike Violence Is Charged; Pinchot Will Enforce Peace.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., March 22 (A.P.): Pennsylvania police started today a round-up of aliens whom they accuse of inciting violence and the stoning of workers in the insurgent strike in the State's rich anthracite region.

The strikers have broken away from the authority of the United Mine Workers of America and are striking in defiance of district officials in an effort to force equalization of work.

Pennsylvania State police at Jessup seized Angelo Nunes, a Spaniard, in the region only six weeks. After finding radical literature in his room and evidence of his alleged illegal entry into the United States, they turned him over to immigration authorities for immedite deportation.

Woman Is Still Held.

They continued to hold Mrs. Katherine Menidkowski, of Wilkes-Barre, arrested yesterday at Ashley for distributing communistic literature.

Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania also entered the mine picture today. He wrote a Senate mining subcommittee hearing in Washington advocating passage of the Davis-Kelly bill to stabilize the soft coal industry with an amendment to provide for arbitration of labor distputes.

He also made clear his stand on picketing.

In an interview with the Associated Press he said:

"I have given definite instructions to State police that peaceful picketing is to be permitted but violent interference with men who wish to go to work will not be allowed.

Intends to Keep Peace.

"It is my business to keep the peace and I shall leave nothing undone to that end."

Thomas J. Maloney, leader of the insurgents at Wilkes-Barre, said a delegation will call on the governor in an effort to arrive at an understanding as to what he means by "peaceful picketing."

The strike in both the upper and lower regions in Pennsylvania appeared today to be materially weakened, partly by complete patrol of the area by State police and partly by a driving rain and sleet storm which kept pickets home when shifts changed early today.

The only outbreak took place at Jessup, where eleven pickets were sent to jail for ten days for stoning miners on their way to the Underwood collieries.

Injunction Against Picketing Is Sought

Athens, Ohio, March 22 (A.P.).—The courts were called upon today to intervene in the strike of bituminous coal miners in the Hocking Valley and Sunday Creek fields.

In an effort to gain protection for miners who want to work, the Sunday Creek Coal Co. went into the Athens County Common Pleas Court and asked for an injunction restraining the United Mine Workers of America from picketing the concern's mines, trespassing on its property and intimidating miners. The petition, which prayed for a temporary restraining order, names striking miners and international and local officers of the union as defendants. No date for a hearing on the petition was fixed.

In spite of Gov. George White's ultimatum that the Ohio National Guard would be sent into the strike fields if law violations continued, another act of violence was recorded today. A section of railroad track into Millfield Mine No. 1 was dynamited. National Guard observers reported to Adjt. Gen. Frank D. Henderson that the scene of the latest bombing was near the Millfield Mine trestle, part of which was blown up Sunday.

Tree Shrubs Gift From West Coast

Washington State Shipment to Be Transplanted in Parks Here.

A shipment of fifteen varieties of tree shrubs and plants from the State of Washington, a Bicentennial gift to this city, have arrived and have been placed in a nursery pending their transplanting in various parks of the Capital.

The specimens of plant life selected by officials of the State of Washington had been recommended by the office of public buildings and public parks as probably suitable to be transplanted here. It is probable that the greater part of the shipment will be kept in a nursery for at least a year in order to acclimate the plants to Washington.

Among the specimens are evergreen, hemlock spruce, pine, fir, red maples and one redwood tree. Some of the trees may be transplanted in the White House grounds.

"SICK HEADACHE?"

IT is not necessary to give-in to headaches. It is just a bit old-fashioned! The modern woman who feels a headache coming on at any time, takes some tablets of Bayer Aspirin and heads it off.

Keep Bayer Aspirin handy, and keep your engagements. Headaches, systemic pains, come at inconvenient times. So do colds. You can end them before they're fairly started if you'll only remember this handy, harmless form of relief. Carry it in your purse and insure your comfort while shopping; your evening's pleasure at the theatre. Those little nagging aches that bring a case of "nerves" by day are ended in a jiffy. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking Bayer Aspirin! You'll find these tablets always help. If you get real aspirin, you'll get real relief. In every package of genuine Bayer tablets are proven directions which cover headaches, colds, sore throat, toothache, neuralgia, neuritis, sciatica, rheumatism, etc.

The tablets stamped Bayer won't fail you, and can't harm you. They don't depress the heart. They don't upset the stomach. So take them whenever you need them, and take enough to end the pain.

Many Descendants See Loan Show.

Visitors to the Bicentennial historical loan collection in the Corcoran Gallery of Art daily include many individuals who bear some direct relation to the portraits hung there, either as descendants of the subjects or the artists, in some other way.

Among the interesting folk who have viewed the pictures recently are Gen. and Mrs. Clarence Williams, the latter the daughter of the late Henry Cabot Lodge; Mr. Edward Delaplane, of Frederick, Md., well known as the biographer of Chief Justice Taney, and of Gov. Thomas Johnson, the first Governor of Maryland, who served on the bench in George Washington's administration, and whose portrait hangs in this collection. Mr. Delaplane at present is working on a biography of Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Others connected with the Johnson family of Maryland who have called at the gallery are Mrs. Ben Hallen, a sister of Mr. Corcoran Thom, whose husband is a direct descendant of Joshua Johnson, the first United States Consul to London and a brother of Maryland's first governor, and the Misses Rebecca and Lilah Worthington, members of the group of living descendants of the Johnson family. The portraits will be on view under the sponsorship of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission until Thanksgiving. Mrs. Rose Gouverneur Hoes is official manager of the collection.

AMERICAN SECURITY IS THE BEST SECURITY

Let A Trust Begin Where Your Life Insurance Ends

There is no conflict between the functions of life insurance and a life insurance trust, for the operations of the trust begin only at the time when the insurance money is paid.

The purpose of life insurance is to provide for the payment of money, while the object of the insurance trust is to supply management for these funds when paid, in order that the beneficiaries' interests may be properly protected.

Under the provisions of the life insurance trust the Trust Company will receive the proceeds, invest them and pay the income or principal to the beneficiaries in such amounts and at such times as specified in the agreement.

Place your life insurance in trust with the American Security and Trust Company, then you will know that your insurance is going to accomplish the things for which it was purchased.

You are invited to discuss your financial problems with the officers of our Trust Department.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Enhancing the Brunette.

SPARKLING eyes, dark, shiny hair, ruby lips and rose-petal skin—how vibrant and vivacious brunette loveliness! The key to blonde beauty is delicacy, to brunette beauty it is depth. The darker the eyes and hair, the more they should be accentuated. The brunete is a vivid personality and her make-up and costume colors should enhance her individual charm. Also, she is wise to keep her hair dark and sleek, brushed to mirror brightness. It is much simpler to keep dark hair dark than to keep light hair light.

Elsie Pierce.

In the following I shall outline suggested make-up shades for brunettes. But, bear in mind that these are arbitrary, not only because individual coloring varies, but also because when I say a "naturelle or rachel" shade of powder and a "raspberry or medium" shade of rouge, I mean the shade which most manufacturers call by that name. If we were to put all the "raspberry" rouges together we would find them varying from a very light to very dark. Likewise with powder. That is why it is necessary to do personal experimenting. I am giving you the general hints here, because my series on make-up has brought such a deluge of letters asking "but just what shades shall I use."

Types of Brunettes.

Brunettes, like blondes, fall into several classes.

We have the:

Anglo Brunette—Brown eyes, brown hair and ivory skin. Many who fall into this type call themselves "just brownies" or "inbetweens." Yet it is these inbetweens that can achieve perfection by attention to details in good grooming and make-up as well as costume colors, and make of themselves distinct and appealing personalities.

Color is the very essence of the "brownie's" beauty. A medium raspberry tone of rouge and lipstick will not only deepen her own coloring but will also add a sparkle to her eyes. Her powder should be a warm rachel shade. She can wear a touch of eyeshadow even in the daytime. But it should be very subtly applied, just a hint of it to make the eyes look larger and deeper. For evening a blue or green eyeshadow under artificial lights is alluring, and a touch of dark brown mascara on upper lids. A bit of orchard or lavender powder blended with her daytime powder makes an enchanting effect for evening.

The Celtic brunette with blue eyes and raven blue-black hair and creamy skin. Color contrast is her boast. Either a vivid violet-red rouge of dark tones or no rouge at all if her skin is quite fair, but accents on the lips and eyes. A warm ivory or creamy rachel powder. Coral rouge for evening and creamy powder. Black mascara and deep blue eyeshadow.

The Latin Brunette—Dark eyes, dark hair and olive skin. A subdued orange-red lipstick and rouge of dark tones, powder to exactly match her skin, dark brown or black mascara sparingly applied for evening and eyeshadow (it will surprise you) not black, but blue or green.

If the skin is fair, accent the contrast between dark hair and fair skin by cosmetics and costume colors. Warm, vivid colors harmonize with the brunette's personality. My color chart will tell you what shade in costumes should be becoming to you. My hair bulletins will also help you. Send for them, but include one self addressed, stamped envelope for each.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

NEW YORK, March 22.—Now just what has happened to evening pyjamas! How does it happen that this charming fad, which most of us were certain was nothing but a fad, is still mentioned in reports from the Haute Couture, still seen, written about and sketched, in fashion magazines—when no one has actually ever seen one, or almost no one. And certainly never in public, my deah!

The point is, that they were never meant to be seen in public. On the stage and screen, perhaps. But never in public cafes and dining rooms. Which might just possibly account for their being still shown in collections and written about, but rarely seen by the hoi polloi, meaning you and I, dearie.

Evening pyjamas are doing just what was actually expected of them. Staying at home, keeping a very definite place in the wardrobe of l'elegante, and doing it very gorgeously and glitteringly, as a whole.

Even though w-a-a-a-a-y down deep in many a dressmaking minded heart, it was rather expected that the evening pyjama would take Miladi Modern by storm, and become the evening wear for the fragile sex of today. And don't you let anyone deny it, either.

But evening pyjamas have not done that, but rather behaved in a sensible modern way and found their very own little place, which, according to all indications, they are going to keep.

In case you want to know just what this place is, well, beside being something for us poor strugglyn' fashun crickets to write about and sketch, evening pajamas belong anywhere in a lovely lady's home, at any function that occurs after noon bells. This means for her own bridge parties, for guests in the afternoons, for tea and for her dinners, whether "intime" or otherwise.

Want to make a costume slip from a yard of material, and have it be a bias, too? Honest to goodness, no extra lace or trimming or anything to piece it out with, either. Just send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make it. You may not like the idea, of course, and then, again, you may simply love it . . . what with those gorlicious remnant sales and all, and the need for costume slips to match every single summer frock. Better send for the leaflet, anyhow.

Jane Regny in a different mode altogether today. There I have sketched a black satin afternoon frock, with each tier of the satin worked alternately . . . no, not different sides of the material, just the two "senses" of the satin used to show one lighter and one darker tier. I have had a hard time sketching it. And note the odd front scarf effect and the cunning belt buckle, while you are about it.

• • • •

Hear a lot about stripes these days. Well, I don't like 'em, so there! N' I'm sure that Lanvin and Chanel and others who sponsor them are just "desolate" because I don't, are'nt you?

An revoir.

What Today Means

"ARIES."

IF March 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m. and from 2:30 p. m. to 3:45 p. m.

A feverish and not a normal time is predicted for March 23. Efforts will be misdirected; inspirations will be false; tongues will be sharp and unkind, and vague fears, from which nothing will eventuate, will torment your mind. Health a little upset. New interests spring up.

The child born on this March 23 will have a highly emotional, sensitive nature, and will be given to "romancing." It will absorb knowledge easily, but will be an indifferent student. It will not be independent-spirited, and will accept all the help which the world has to offer it. It will be easily influenced by environment and friends.

Change and variety, heights and depths, both in a material and in an emotional way, are shown in your astrological forecast, if born on a March 23. At heart you are a pioneer, but your enthusiasms are too short-lived, and you are tempted down too many sidetracks for you to often reach your original goal. You often change yours views and opinions, but are radical about your beliefs as long as they last. You are ambitious of honors and position, and with your brains and personality you should be able to win them both. None of your greatest wishes in life, however, will be fulfilled without sacrifice and hard work on your part.

You have remarkable foresight, and the prophetic qualities of those born under above sign. Your mind is more perceptive than reflective. Your eyes delight and wonder in everything about you, and you can still find miracles among the commonplace. All your senses should be fully alive; your eyes should be uncommonly bright, and your ears very alert.

You are very self-willed and self-opinionated, and it is very difficult to restrain you from your impulsive actions. You suffer through your own indiscretions, and will cause others both sorrow and embarassment. You are full of love, generosity and good intentions, and commit all your follies through obeying impulses instead of listening to reason. You are frank, sincere and honest.

Successful people born March 23:

John Bartram, botanist.

Schuyler Colfax, vice president under Grant.

Charles G. Perkins, electrician.

George Kibbe Turner, author.

Madison J. Cawein, poet; "The Poet of Nature."

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

THE VALUE OF PERGOLAS.

UNFORTUNATELY, many gardens in this country are wasted.

They are frequently planned and planted and carefully tended, but never lived in. An arbor frequently provides an atmosphere of livableness to a garden, which is needed to encourage living in it, assuring protection from the sun and inviting repose. In a formal garden a pergola is a stately form of decoration.

While the pergola is a form of decoration on a large estate, it is frequently a real necessity in a smaller garden, where there may be a total absence of shade. Here, however, much thought must be given to the placing of the arbor.

Too frequently it is in the center of the grass plot, where it is neither satisfying nor useful. To be really ornamental as well as useful it must have sufficient background to make it a part of the landscape.

When planting either a pretentious pergola or a simple arbor, keep in mind that white trellises or arbors are hardest to cover effectively with vines. They stand out from the garden instead of falling into place. Sometimes, if the house is white with green or blue blinds, it is possible to combine two colors in an arbor. Here, however, the proportions must be the reverse of those used in the house. A little white and much green or blue will look better.

The pergola is of Italian origin. The original pergolas were built with many kinds of poles, but always with a roof of poles which could be easily moved and entwined with vine tendrils.

These irregular poles are soon covered with a mantle of green leaves. Should a few poles remain bare they will cast long shadows and add to the picturesque effect of the arbor. Climbing vines on porches or on walls or on old tree trunks or pergolas, or even climbing freely over the tops of bushes, have a more charming and natural effect than any other material at the command of the horticulturist. But they require careful handling if they are to fit into a garden picture.

A trellis of light wood, if well placed and intelligently planted, will be radiant in June when covered with Dorothy Perkins ramblers and again in August when smothered with fragrant clematis paniculata.

The Homemaker

By NANCY CAREY

SPRING, or the heralds of spring, call certain glad tidings across the hills to our waiting ears and, although we daily along through these fair days of the ending of March, we may be hearing words which have to do with young veal, to say nothing of shad and its roe, borne in on the breeze of this changing season. Surely none among us fails to feel the quickening in household interests which comes as a result of the rapidly changing faces of the foodstalls; fresh, tender, young, green vegetables; scallions, asparagus, strawberries, carrots of almost negligible size and shape, and veal at a more reasonable price, and shad roe fast placing itself within reach of the budgets of all housekeepers.

For spring is here! And the column takes special note of the fact today in suggesting a tender cutlet of breaded young veal with new potatoes, dandelion greens and all such spring adornment. This makes us think that an Easter bonnet is also in order, for next Sunday is Easter!

THURSDAY'S DINNER.

Breaded Veal Cutlet

New Parsley Buttered Potatoes
Dandelion Greens
Raisin Bread
Baked Custard
Coffee

Breaded Veal Cutlets With Pepper Sauce.

Place six loin veal chops in a saucepan with two or three slices of onion and carrot, two tablespoonfuls of diced celery, a half teaspoonful of peppercorns, two or three whole cloves and three tablespoonfuls of butter. Cover with boiling water and simmer until tender. Drain and cool the chops, then dip them in seasoned egg and cracker crumbs. Fry in deep fat and drain on brown paper. Place on a hot platter and surround with previously cooked hot macaroni. Serve with the following sauce:

Pepper Sauce.

2 cupfuls onions, peeled and sliced
2 cupfuls green pepper, chopped
Salt and pepper
3 tablespoonfuls butter
2 tablespoonfuls flour
1 cupful chicken stock
1-3 cupful tomatoes
½ teaspoonful Worcestershire sauce
Cayenne

Cover onions and peppers with boiling water and simmer for five minutes. Drain, cover again with boiling water, add salt and pepper and cook until soft. Melt the butter, add the flour and stir until well blended. Add the chicken stock gradually and cook until smooth and thick. Add the tomatoes, the onions and peppers, with their liquid and the Worcestershire sauce. Season with cayenne to taste and serve.

Raisin Bread
(With Yeast).

8 cupfuls flour
1 pint milk or water, hot
5 tablespoonfuls butter or other fat
1 egg, well beaten
½ cupful sugar
1 teaspoonful salt
Yeast cake
1 cupful raisins
½ teaspoonful anise, powdered

Dissolve yeast in a half cupful of the lukewarm milk or water to which has been added a teaspoonful of the sugar, and set aside in a warm place. Pour the remainder of the milk or water, hot, over the butter, salt and sugar, and when lukewarm add the yeast and egg. Mix and knead well on board, add remaining ingredients using more flour, if necessary, until mixture is smooth and elastic. Return to bowl, cover and set in a warm place until double in bulk. Form into loaves and place in pans. Let rise until double in bulk and bake in a moderate oven (about 350 degrees) for 45 minutes, or until well done and brown.

Baked Custard.

4 eggs, slightly beaten
1-3 cupful sugar
Few grains of salt
Grating of nutmeg, if desired
1 quart milk, scalded

Mix together the slightly beaten eggs, sugar, salt and nutmeg. Add the scalded milk gradually and stir until the sugar is dissolved. Strain into buttered and sugared custard cups, set in a pan of water and bake at 350 degrees until firm, about 30 minutes. Remove at once from the hot water and cool as quickly as possible.

THE WEIGHT GUIDE.

For individual assistance, write to Nancy Carey, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and give age, weight, height and habits of life.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey—I am 21 years old, 5 feet 1 inch tall and weigh only about 95 pounds. I would like to gain about 10 pounds. Would you please suggest a diet for me? Please print an answer soon. I will watch the column closely. R. C. T.

You should weigh about 115 pounds, my dear, so that a gain of about 10 pounds would be not the least bit too much. I hope that our answer has not been too long forthcoming. Sometimes, you know, even when we do our very best, letters can not be answered in the column immediately. We have to give each their "turn" as they come along.

But now we have a few suggestions which, if followed very closely, will help you to gain weight. We also have a folder of menus and caloric values arranged especially for those underweight, which we shall be glad to send to you if you will just provide us with a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Let us know how you get along and do not hesitate to bring to us whatever difficulties you may have.

Suggestions for Those Underweight.

First. Milk—at least one quart daily.

Second. Cereals and breads—whole grain cereals and dark breads, as oatmeal, rye and whole wheat.

Third. Fruits—eat some fruit every day, fresh or cooked. Raisins, dates, figs and prunes may be used generously.

Fourth. Vegetables—eat two green vegetables every day; one uncooked, as lettuce, raw cabbage and tomato.

Fifth. Potatoes (cooked with skins) or cereal foods, as rice, macaroni, spaghetti, noodles, may be used twice daily.

Sixth. Peas or beans and milk or cheese, in any form, may be used in place of meat.

Seventh. Eggs—at least one a day.

Eighth. Butter—use plenty, also bacon, olive oil, &c.

Tenth. Rest every chance you have. Go to bed early.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

GROWTH OF THE BODY.

WE know much about growth, but we do not know any of the fundamentals. We have many facts as to the phenomena, but we know nothing of the whys. We know that growth starts at a certain time, proceeds at a particular speed, spurts and slows, and, finally, stops—but why, we do not know. We say that growth has a schedule that it follows.

When an engineer climbs into his cab he has before him a schedule which he is to carry out. He knows about what load he has to carry, where the curves and grades are, what are the stops and slow-downs. That much we know pretty well as to the baby starting out in life. The engineer knows the why of his schedule and, more than that, he knows that by burning so much coal, using so much water, making so much steam, using that steam in a certain way, taking advantage of grades, tangents and speed stretches, he can make his schedule. Nobody has comparable information as to the whys of growth.

There are facts enough in hand as to the details of growth—the speed years, the slow years, the stopping time for height and that for weight. Furthermore, we known that the organs do not grown uniformly. There is even variation in the schedule of growth of different parts of the same organ. When we know these schedules we have the answer as to why children seem to be all eyes at one age, why a baby can put his toes in his mouth, why at a certain age a man resembles a gorilla in his arm length, why youths have nosebleed, why girls faint and why we are prone to blush, to turn pale, to have cold hands in youth.

In a newborn babe the length of the head, from the top of the cranium to the lower border of the chin, is one-fourth the total length. The trunk is large and long, compared with legs and arms. The length of the trunk equals that of the legs. The arms are longer than the legs.

By the fifteenth year some changes that have occurred are: The height has increased 3.1 times. The length of the head has increased 1.6 times; that of the trunk, 2.6; of the arms, 3.3; of the legs, 4.5.

The eye is the first organ to reach adult size. That is why the eyes of children four to six appear so large. The brain has acquired its complete weight by the ninth year.

The heart of a newborn baby is relatively large. The proportion decreases as adolescence approaches. The heart of a man is 12.7 times the weight of that of a newborn baby. The most rapid growth in the heart is from the fifteenth to the nineteenth year. During this period of speeding up the size of the heart about doubles. The increase in size antedates the increase in heart weight by about a year. The growth of the cavities precedes the growth of the muscle wall. The growth of the heart muscle does not proceed at the same rate as does that of the aorta and other large blood vessels. The distribution of the blood is controlled by the vasculomotor nerves. The growth of these follows a schedule slightly different from that of the heart muscles and of the blood vessels. That is why adolescents are subject to nosebleed and why they faint on slight provocation.

The human figure is neutral in type, as between male and female, until age 12. The adolescent growth spurt starts in girls at least one year earlier than in boys. Between 12 and 14 years girls are definitely better specimens physically and mentally than boys. However, even 14-year-old boys have better lung capacity and stronger muscles.

PAIN IN THE LUNGS.

Mrs. M. writes:

1. What do you believe to be the cause of intermittent slight pains or "catches" in the lungs when breathing? This occurs frequently between the shoulder blades, but sometimes further down, but always in the back. I am in good health and do not cough.

2. Is palpitation of the heart a symptom of organic disease, or do you believe it due to the fact that I am nervous?

3. Will you name some symptoms of goiter?

REPLY.

1. The most frequent cause is rheumatism of the chest wall. Neuralgia of the wall ranks second in frequency.

2. It means nervousness of the heart. This may be due to overuse of tobacco or coffee, to organic heart disease, goiter or nervousness.

3. Nervous heart, general nervousness, trembling of the hands, excitability and, sometimes, diarrhea, lump in the neck; prominence of the eyeballs.

DEFENSIVE BIDDING.

WHEN a partnership at the Contract table decides to accept a penalty loss rather than permit their opponents to make a larger score through the making of a contract, playing-tricks are just as important as honor-tricks. Honor-tricks measure the defensive value of a hand against what might be called normal distribution. Playing-tricks consist of all sorts of tricks in the hand, including both long and short suits, and even hands deficient in honor-tricks, if the distribution is favorable, may be such as to justify accepting a "paying penalty loss."

Mr. John F. Stone, of Forest Hills, N. Y., recently sent me the hand below, played in a rubber game, in which he held the West hand.

North—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 4 2 ♡ K Q 10 7 2 ◇ A K J ♣ J 8 6
♠ K J 9 8 ♡ 7 6 5 ♡ 9 8 6 ◇ — ♣ 10 9 7			♠ A Q 10 3 ♡ 5 ◇ 10 9 4 3 2 ♣ A 3 2
	♠ — ♡ A J 4 3 ◇ Q 8 7 6 5 ♣ K Q 5 4

The Bidding.

Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
1♡	1♠	4♡(1)	4♠(2)
5♡(3)	Pass	6♡(4)	6♠(5)
Dbl.(6)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A beautiful hand in support of an opening heart bid.

2—Prepared to accept a penalty to save the game. The lack of honor-tricks and the length of the spade suit bid by partner suggest the impossibility of defending the hand against the heart contract.

3—North's hand contains 1 honor-trick above that shown by his Opening bid. The bid is made not so much with the idea of a possible Slam as a feeling that the set of the spade contract will not bring a sufficient return and that a contract of five hearts is reasonably safe in view of South's triple Raise.

4—South draws the correct inferences from the bidding. His partner can have no honor strength in spades, but must have honor strength in either clubs or diamonds to justify his Rebid. A Slam appears a certainty.

5—A beautiful Defensive bid. West reasons that East can not hold any considerable length in hearts and may even be void of them. He must hold something in either clubs or diamonds to have justified even an Overcall of the Opening heart bid. If his side strength is in clubs, the set should not be more than 2 tricks—a small price to pay for defeating a vulnerable Slam.

6—A Grand Slam can not, of course, be bid or made by North and South. Forced to a choice, they select the best possible result available with their cards.

North and South made 2 club tricks and 1 heart trick, thus defeating the contract 2 tricks for a penalty of 600 points. Six hearts, of course, could be made by the North and South partnership. As a result of this excellent defensive bidding, East and West could lose nothing, but could gain much. The value of the vulnerable Slam far exceeded the penalty loss, and by accepting it in lieu of the greater loss they had another chance to win the rubber.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The first object of scientific bidding is to maneuver the opponents into a penalty roughly equal to or greater than the possible premium scored at their own bid. However, even a considerable penalty should be accepted rather than permit the making of a Slam.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES McDONALD

Lame Ducks and Go-Getters.

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD: "Beth," who wrote to your column, desires the opinions of women who married what you term the "lame duck type." To all the Beths who would consider such a move let me say that it is most unfair to all concerned. True love lacking into the bargain, its worse than unfair.

She might keep on working! How nice that she can plan. But what of babies that simply decide to come. There are complications in marriage that take things right out of our hands.

I married an inferior type and am very unhappy. But into this union there has come a gorgeous flame—a tow-headed wee lad who knows nothing of "lack of ambitions," of college educations or bills that must be paid.

A tiny laddie who thinks the great big moon sets right up on a great big shoulder! Two fat fists pound at a pants leg and want to be taken up to the top o' the world to him—a precious daddy's shoulder.

Those are the things to think about Beth, this marriage business is serious. And even if you could sever the bonds that tie you, what of these tiny little tow-headed, daddy-worshipers, how are you going to answer to them? JERRY.

How, indeed, Jerry-girl! But since you have so eloquently voiced a timely warning to Beth, we feel that we should reciprocate with what may be just a bit of comfort to you. We met one summer the dearest couple, gray-haired lovers interested in all the world. When the wife learned that we spent our days giving advice to married folks she volunteered the story of her two marriages. She married Tom first. And after three years and two babies she decided that Tom just could not be very bright. No push, no go. She had loved him, but disgust had set in. A man had to be something more than a good reliable nurse, and that seemed to be the beginning and end of Tom's accomplishments. He adored his babies and they adored him. He adored his wife. But could not seem to make any practical demonstration of the fact in comforts or even clothes. He took his pay and seemed grateful to even get it. Never a thought of advancement. No ambition. No grit. Never an angry word but never an intelligent plan of action either. Plain dumb. And so before any more "daddy-worshipers" could come along she took her babies and went back home. He did not even object. Told her he did not blame her.

Five years later, having secured a divorce, she married a go-getter. He was a self-made man. He told her she had done right. A man had to sell himself to a woman or take the consequences. He had to be there and prove that he was there. If he could not do that he could not expect a woman to waste her life on him. And so they established a home. In a year there was a baby. The baby cried. The go-getter inquired whether it was necessary for a child to be constantly squalling at night. And she began to wonder. There were also her two children, wide-eyed at the table, shame-faced under rebuke. She began to doubt. Began to be glad when they could stay longer at Tom's mother's where they were happy and loved. And then with the baby as excuse the go-getter began to stay downtown evenings and finally nights—"to get a night's rest." And she began to think.

Well, she remarried Tom just five years from the day she left him. He, too, had done some thinking and had stirred himself to effort. And Tom was the dear gray-haired husband now a fairly prosperous person who would still never set the world on fire. But the children at the hotel would rather go walking with him than ride on the pony's back. So she had come to the conclusion that go-getting was all right, but if a woman happened to have first known the tenderness that goes with temperaments that can not ask for raises, go-getting could not quite compensate. Does her story interest you, Jerry-girl?

PARTIAL BANK POOL REFUND ANNOUNCED

Repayment of $20,000,000 Seen as Indication of Improvement.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—The National Credit Corporation, organized last October to extend aid to banks throughout the country, will repay the subscribing banks 15 per cent of the amount advanced by them to the so-called banking pool, it was learned today.

The repayment, to be made on March 28, totals, with interest, about $20,000,000. It is the first refund made, and is taken as evidence of continued improvement in the banking situation.

Although the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is now fulfilling in general, the services for which the National Credit Corporation was formed at President Hoover's request, it is said that the latter is not to be liquidated. Rather, the directors are understood to plan maintaining the organization in the event that it is needed.

During the period of emergency it loaned about $155,000,000 to nearly 600 banks. Pledges to its capital fund amounted to $450,000,000, of which total $135,000,000 was actually paid in. Subscribing banks took the corporation's one-year gold notes.

Head of Polish Political Police Is Assassinated

Lwow, Poland, March 22 (A.P.).—Emilian Czechowski, chief of the Polish political police, was slain today by persons believed by the police to be terrorists from the Ukraine, and several persons were arrested.

First reports had it that one of the suspects was the former Deputy Mayaruszka, who was jailed at Brest-Litovsk in 1930, on a charge of conspiracy, but later it was learned that the man arrested was another of the same name.

Hollywood, Calif., March 22 (A.P.).—Horace Mock, 65, member of the Associated Press staff in Washington, D. C., from 1900 to 1912, where he covered the House of Representatives, died here today after an extended illness.

Mock was one-time publisher of the Kalispell (Mont.) Bee and also was connected with the Helena (Mont.) Independent, New York World, and The Washington (D. C.) Post during his newspaper career.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THEY never stop trying.

Frank Tinney, who, through a career that began as a blackface tooter of the dudelsack in vaudeville and extended to the most opulent of the musical revues, was one of Broadway's best-loved comedians—not to mention all the rest of the country, where he was no less known—is determined that once again he will lay them in the aisles with his wit and silly songs.

In the obscurity of his father's little home in South Philadelphia, Tinney is waging a valiant fight to disprove the old saying that "they never come back;" a fight against odds that would have daunted most men.

Old-timers in the theater will recall that almost a decade ago Tinney was stricken with an illness that left him no more than a pitiful shadow of his former ebullient self and with a partially paralyzed throat and impaired locomotion. For a time his voice was gone completely.

But Frank has never given up and finally the turn of the tide seems to have set in in his favor—signs point to his being on the slow road to recovery. His march back is being aided by daily walks in a little park near his home and by studious application to a helpful routine laid down for him by Dr. Edwin B. Twitmyer, psychologist of the University of Pennsylvania.

Tinney has regained his speech and health to an extent that fits him for an average life, but is not quite ready for the exciting demands of the theater.

"Just give me six months more on the stage," he pleads, wistfully, "and I'll be satisfied to retire."

A few years ago I happened to be in attendance at a night club in Atlantic City when Frank attempted a premature comeback and the spectacle was as tragically pathetic as anything I have ever encountered. It has always been my belief that the comedian, who with Al Jolson and Eddie Cantor, completed the "big three" of musical comedy, that summer was being cruelly exploited by ravenous and unscrupulous "friends."

Let us hope that when, and if, Frank Tinney comes back to the footlights this time, it will be to some such triumph as his years of gay and spontaneous service in the theater so richly deserve. There was only one of him.

It is one of the sad commentaries of show business, at the moment, that both members of a once famous and irresistible team should be struggling to regain health largely lost in the effort to make others happy.

While Frank Tinney is fighting the good fight in Philadelphia, a few miles away at Bayside, Long Island, James J. Corbett, much better suited by the affectionate name of "Jim," also is battling the encroachment of ailments his host of friends hope will not put him down for the count. Tinney and Corbett were teamed in I don't know how many Winter Garden shows and never failed to click.

Incidentally, the remembrance is vivid in my mind that Jim Corbett was the subject of the first theatrical interview that ever rattled off this typewriter in Washington. It was when he was playing in a piece called "The Burglar and the Lady," at the old Academy of Music, when Stair & Havlin were the lessees—I dare you to figure that out in hours, minutes and seconds!—and the important announcement imparted to me that night after the show was that Gentleman Jim was to appear the next season in Harold McGrath's "Man on the Box," an expectation which, to the best of my recollection, never materialized.

It seems to be quite a cast that Radio Pictures has assembled in support of Wheeler & Woolsey in George Gershwin's "Girl Crazy," opening Saturday at RKO-Keith's.

Of course, Dorothy Lee is among those present. She always is. Then there is little Mitzi Green, the precocious youngster who mimics everybody in Hollywood. Mitzi was recently compelled to cancel a couple of weeks of her RKO vaudeville tour to dash back to the Coast and make some retakes for this particular fillum. Another in "Girl Crazy" is Kitty Kelly, featured a few nights ago on the RKO "Theater of the Air" hour. This is her sixth picture for RKO, by the way.

And if you must have some scandal about Robert Woolsey, he's the one who is always on the handle end of a big, black cigar. Some otherwise unemployed statistician has figured it out that Woolsey smokes a good yard of strong tobacco every day he is on the lot!

Sort of covers the yard with ashes, as you might say.

Speaking of incoming attractions, you may have all of your Burbage "Gorilla Hunts," "Africa Speakses" and "Trader Horns," if you will give me "Tarzan, the Ape Man," headed for the Columbia.

Here is a jungle picture what IS a jungle picture, as any of the ladies and gentlemen (sic) of the dramatic desks who previewed it Monday midnight will tell you—as soon as they have got their hair to lying down flat again.

This sound-and-dialogue version of the Edgar Rice Burroughs fiction is, of course, utterly fantastic and unbelievable, but it is, at the same time, sure-fire and infallible box-office.

I suspect that a good deal of Hollywood has been overlaid upon a lot of what was left over after "Trader Horn" had been completed. Throughout its length the picture offers a weird combination of the heart of Africa and American West Coast, but don't let that worry you. Every element of sensational appeal has been utilized to place this subject in a class by itself—the chase, as developed in the old days by Mack Sennett (this time between a lion and a terrified monkey trying to do his pal a good turn); the "beauty in distress" motif, introduced by David Wark Griffith with Lillian Gish in "The Birth of a Nation" (now Maureen O'Sullivan being tossed about the tree tops by Johnny Weissmuller and a team of simian adagio experts); the gathering of the clans, also from Griffith's masterpiece (in this instance the summoning of the elephant herds to batter down a village of pygmies), and much more, besides, than there is room to chronicle.

And if you want to see some swimming, it is not scrambling zoology any more than the picture does to say that Johnny Weissmuller simply makes a lot of monkeys out of a river full of outboard alligators!

Incidentally, you have never seen Maureen O'Sullivan until you see her in this astounding symposium of all the world's best hokum. After all, hokum is merely a convenient word for the designation of what the public likes best.

If for no other reason, you should attend "Tarzan, the Ape Man," just to hear all the funny noises it makes! Swell.

Lest you delude yourself, don't get the idea that this adaptation of the Burroughs story is merely a vocalized rendition of the silent picture Tom Moore presented at the Strand back in 1917, in which Enid Markey played the part now intrusted to Miss O'Sullivan; Tom Jefferson appeared in the role now taken by C. Aubrey Smith and Elmo Lincoln assumed the name part, now better done by the world's greatest aquatic star. The two are about as much alike as January was like winter.

3 Injured as Cycle Crashes With Auto

Man and 2 Girl Victims; Driver of Car Unhurt Near Annandale.

Three persons were injured yesterday afternoon when the motorcycle which they were riding was in a collision with the automobile of Robinson Moncure, of Alexandria, near Annandale, in Fairfax County.

Edward Saffell, of Front Royal, Va., driver of the motorcycle, received a fractured leg and cuts and bruises. Miss Josephine Miller, 14, of 1237 Tenth street northwest, Washington, was badly bruised about the legs, and Miss Eleanora Miller, of Winchester, Va., received numerous cuts and bruises.

The trio were treated at the Alexandria Hospital. Mr. Moncure, an Alexandria attorney, was returning to his office after attending the morning session of the Fairfax County Circuit Court. He escaped injury.

Fairfax County Again Smitten by High Winds

Just as Fairfax County was partially recovering the effects of a devastating blizzard which seriously crippled highways and wire lines, the tail-end of the cyclone which caused so much damage through the Southern States hit the county yesterday.

Many of the telephone circuits which were temporarily erected were torn down by falling trees. The town of Clifton was cut off from both electric and telephone service last night. Several of the roads were blocked with falling trees. The telephone service between the town of Fairfax and the other communities was disrupted and a large number of rural subscribers were again without telephones. Two large trees of the town were blown down by the high winds.

A method of printing words across the sky with smoke from several planes was patented yesterday by William Reed, jr., of Quantico, Va.

The planes would fly along predetermined courses, darting in and out to cross "t's" and form the angular sides of printed letters. Claim was filed by Mr. Reed on July 2, 1931.

ARGUMENT RESUMED IN NAMING OF SMITH

(Associated Press.)

Chairman George Otis Smith, of the Power Commission, and an audience which taxed the capacity of the Supreme Court room heard John W. Davis, counsel for the Senate, resume his argument yesterday that the Senate had lawfully rejected the nomination of Smith after he had taken office.

Reviewing the refusal of the President, on the advice of Attorney General Mitchell, to return Smith's nomination to the Senate, Davis challenged the power of the executive and judicial branches of the Government to interfere with the Senate in the discharge of its constitutional duties.

He asserted that while the Senate could not by its rules violate the Constitution, it had unlimited power to determine for itself rules for its own guidance. Whether these rules should be approved or disapproved was not for the President of the United States or the Federal courts to say, he argued.

The Senate rule regulating its procedure in acting on nominations made it possible, Davis contended, for the Senate to recall its approval at any time before two executive sessions had intervened.

There could be no doubt, he insisted, the Senate had the right and the power under its rules to change its mind and to demand an opportunity to give further consideration to the nomination.

Attorney General Mitchell sat beside Mr. Davis. He will defend the position taken by President Hoover in refusing to return the nomination.

Davis said there had been 241 Senate reconsiderations of nominations since 1867. In 18 of these cases the Senate reconsidered after the commission had been issued and only two Presidents, Grant and Hayes, had refused to honor the request of the Senate for a return of the papers.

Attorney General Mitchell insisted the notice from the Senate of its confirmation closed the matter so far as the Senate was concerned.

Two Democratic Slates In Massachusetts Filed

Boston, March 22 (A.P.).—Expiration of the time for filing nomination papers of candidates for delegates to the Democratic and Republican national conventions tonight found one Republican and two Democratic slates in the field. Besides the three official complete slates there were many candidates unpledged to any presidential aspirant, most of them on the Democratic side.

The Democratic slates of delegates at large are pledged to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and to Alfred E. Smith. The Republican group is pledged to President Hoover. The powers of attorney for the three presidential candidates for the use of their names in the primary were on file at the closing time.

FAMOUS SEER
THE MAN WHO KNOWS
This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry, whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travels, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power. Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay.

NATS ACCEPT 6-TO-5 VICTORY FROM TOLEDO IN NINTH; CENTRAL WINS 39-33 THRILLER TO REACH SEMIFINALS

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Biloxi, Miss., March 22.

MAJ. WILL HARRIDGE, president of the American League, who has been sojourning at the training base of the Washington Club for the past several days, is able to put his finger on one salient reason why his league has suffered financially from the one-sided races in recent years, while the National League has reaped well, but he is powerless to do anything about it.

The old-fashioned custom of trading ball players has become a lost art in the American League, while the contemporary big league circuit, the National, has shown a willingness to trade—lock, stock and barrel—whenever the occasions presented themselves.

This business of trading ball players, which used to be rife in both big league circuits, is now virtually cornered by the National League, which continues to barter its human chattels and thus stimulate interest throughout the circuit by the appearance of new faces in the different cities and the balancing of the clubs so necessary to keen competition.

Trades in the National League during the past eight years have outnumbered the player deals among American League clubs almost 10 to 1, it may be put conservatively. There is a reason, and it is the underlying factor in the close races that the National League has been able to stage while the American League was forced to stand by while the Yankees and Athletics made runaway races of campaigns ever since 1926. This great reason for the difference in the trading proclivities of the two leagues is the National League's willingness to trade players without fear of strengthening rival clubs, while the American League teams are stifling competition by refusing to barter their talent for fear that they may bolster their rivals.

The National League's attitude on player trading obviously has been the better course. Whereas the Cubs, Giants, Cardinals, Pirates and Dodgers have traded freely among themselves, with the result that all have bolstered weaknesses and have been able to give the league a five and sometimes six-club race, the American League's only three contenders of recent years, the Yankees, Athletics and Nats, have studiously refrained from trading with one another, with the converse result that the league races of the past eight years have been dominated by these three clubs to the exclusion of all others, while gate receipts have suffered.

The recent player deal between the Brooklyn Robins and Cincinnati Reds, which involved six ball players, is but the latest of a long series of trades that has marked the National League club's efforts to strengthen their chances despite the fact that several teams may be bolstered.

The few trades among American League clubs usually concern aliping veterans, who are ready for the waiver route, but the National League does not hesitate to trade players in their prime, which makes for renewed interest throughout the circuit.

That these trades are a boon to gate receipts is patent. They not only excite and renew the fans' interest, but they make for better balanced races with the result that no team has been able to dominate the pennant campaigns in the same manner that the Yankees and Athletics have dominated the American League shows in the past six years, wreaking great havoc on the receipts generally throughout the circuit.

The lone exception among the American League magnates probably is Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Club, who has shown more inclination to trade than any other club owner in the circuit.

Griffith's trading ability has earned him the sobriquet of the David Harum of baseball.

Griffith's trades with St. Louis that brought Heinie Manush to the Nats along with Alvin Crowder in exchange for Goose Goslin, and his deal last winter with the White Sox that sent Sam Jones, Irving Hadley and Jackie Hayes to Chicago in return for Carl Reynolds and Johnny Kerr, stand as the league's most important player deals of the past half dozen years. It is admitted that Griffith, by his dealing, has strengthened not only his club, but the White Sox and Browns, and if the other owners had the same willingness to trade, the American League's races soon would be better balanced affairs.

Arlington Cup Is Seen As "Race of Century"

Chicago, March 22 (A.P.).—Chicago racing enthusiasts already are beginning to smack their lips at the prospect of a "race of the century" next summer, probably in the Arlington Gold Cup.

Phar Lap, Australia's big red menace to the peace and happiness of American owners, has been nominated for most of the important stake races at Washington Park and Arlington Park. Mate, one of the country's two great 3-year-olds of the 1931 season, is eligible for the Washington Park events, and Twenty Grand, the other 1931 star, is expected to start his campaign at Arlington.

The Arlington Gold Cup appears to be the spot for the "race of the century." All three stars are eligible for this event, along with the Arlington Handicap and the Stars and Stripes Handicap. In the latter two stakes, however, weights will be assigned by the track handicapper, and the three thoroughbreds probably will not get together.

The Gold Cup is a weight-for-age affair, and if Phar Lap, Mate and Twenty Grand train properly, a race surpassing the international struggles between Zev and Papyrus, and Epinard against America's Best, is the prospect.

NAU LEADS 'C' CLUB AS GRIFFITHS BOW IN A. A. U. TOURNEY

Lead Changes Hands 6 Times; Victory to Shade Shop.

J. C. C. Girls Beaten by Rockville; Northern Preps Win.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

UNLEASHING all the basket ball fury Bert Coggins has stored up in them this year, Central High's "C" Club entrant in the District A. A. U. court tournament, last night bombarded the Griffith Consumers, seeded No. 1 team, out of the running and burst into the semifinal round with a downright arousing 39-33 decision.

It was a game that had everything; that ran the gamut of every basket ball thrill in the official guide, and burned the names of Central and Buddy Nau indelibly into the history of the tournament which The Post annually sponsors to decide the District championships in seven weight divisions.

Last night's card opened and closed with outstanding examples of heated competition. In the first game of the night the Rockville Girls, junior champions last year, entered the final round of the senior girls championship with a 13-11 victory over the Jewish Community Center Girls. In between the narrow decisions which marked the Central and the girls' games, the Northern Preps blasted the Y Flashes, 43-7, and the Shade Shop unmined Oakton (Va.) High 50-to-22.

Nau Outstanding Star.

Buddy Nau gave one of the brightest performances of the year in making possible the downfall of the team which was doped out to win the unlimited section. The powerful Central guard, whose forte heretofore has been his passing and team play, added an inviolate shooting eye to his bag of tricks last night and clicked off 17 points in an exhibition of basket ball that earned him frenzied cheering from a gallery of 500.

The Central club was on its toes from the start. Billy Burke, hardly a step behind Nau, tied up the score at 5 to 5 after the Consumers had gained a brief opening lead on Tommy Peck's weird one-hand shot.

Central, with the cheers almost lifting the roof, stepped out to 15 to 7 on a series of shots by Nau from every possible angle. But in the last seven minutes of the first half the Consumers opened up their offensive wide, and with Bob Lilly scoring all of his eight points, edged ahead of the Blue and White at 23 to 21 when Tommy Peck let fly a successful shot from the middle of the big Tech floor as the whistle sounded.

Lead Changes Hands 6 Times.

Six times did the lead change in the last half—twenty minutes of two-fisted basket ball that stirred the vitals of every witness. Paradoxically it was not until Gene Swift, able Central guard, had gone out of the game on personals with nine minutes left to play, that Central, with Buddy Nau once more playing the part of Frank Merriwell, go into an enduring lead, 28-27, a narrow margin that it nursed along until with three minutes to play it had lengthened it to 38-29 on splendid play by the entire team.

Peck and Lyles threatened near the end, but Central had played its cards well and came home sitting straight up in the saddle. The entire club looked good and posted an evening's exhibition which is likely to make them a tourney favorite in many quarters.

The victory, in summary, was fundamentally one of condition. Central, faced by a team six or seven years older, ran their older foes unmercifully in the second half, and the tactics soon enough caused the favored team to forsake its tempo of the first half.

Rockville Girls Defeat J. C. C. to Reach Finals

In a game which was close all of the way, the Rockville sextet defeated the Jewish Community Center to enter the finals of the senior girls' class. The ultimate winners led from the start, having a 2-1 margin at the quarter, a 7-6 lead at the half, a 13-7 advantage at the three-quarter mark, and finally won out, 13-11.

As may be gleaned from the scores by periods, Rockville was held scoreless in the last quarter and barely withstood a J. C. C. rally.

Miss Kupka, with 8 points, was the game's high scorer, with Miss Dickens showing the way to the J. C. C. team, with 6 points.

By virtue of last night's victory, Rockville earned the right to battle

Phar Lap May Show Wares in Bowie Race

Phar Lap, the Australian thoroughbred, which made good in a big way by winning the $50,000 Agua Caliente Handicap last Sunday, will race at the coming Bowie meeting if David J. Davis, owner of the invader, accepts the offer of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association wire yesterday.

Davis has already announced that the gelding will race at Arlington and Washington Parks this summer.

If Phar Lap is shipped to the nearby Maryland course, Bowie officials will arrange a special race with the best horses at the track opposing the champion from down under.

SAKS PLAYS J. C. C. FIVE TONIGHT

Semifinal Is Stake in A. A. U.; 100-Lb. Finals Listed.

THE first of seven District basket ball champions will be crowned tonight at Tech High Gymnasium when the St. Martin's Midgets, one of the finest 100-pound teams ever formed in Washington, meet the Neighborhood House at 8 o'clock in a game which should be in keeping with the championship background of the fray.

But it is the 10 o'clock game, which matches up the Saks Clothiers and the Jewish Community center, which promises to attract the greatest crowd of the District A. A. U. tournament. In this quarter-final round epic, which brings together the two teams with perhaps the best all around records in Washington the Post-sponsored tournament presents one of the greatest court conflicts of the year.

Grillmen to Tackle Boys Club.

The Olmsted Grill men, conquerers of Business High in the 145-pound section, will meet another Business Conquerer in the Boys Club, who turned the trick earlier in the season. A finalist will emerge from their strenuous 9 o'clock battle. A finalist also will come out of the 7 o'clock game, which brings together the Eastern High Reserves and St. Stephen's.

Only one defeat spots the record of the Jewish Community Center Big Five, and that a doubly avenged one point loss to the Knights of Columbus. Saks has lost to the Griffith Consumers, Mount Vernon and the Potomac Boat Club, but with the greatest collection of individual basket ball aces gathered together in recent years, the club packs a greater number of followers than any aggregation in town.

Numbered in Saks impressive list of victories is a decision over the Quantico Marines. In Noonan, Lucas, Jones, Sherman and Hook it has one of the smoothest court groups ever to function in Washington and can replace this quintet with one virtually as potent in Sebastian, Fischer, Beckey, Robey and Genovese. Every man is an outstanding shot.

J. C. C. Rated Smoother Machine.

The J. C. C. has a slightly better moulded sense of team play. In Milton and Lester Singman it has two hefty, sharpshooting boys who are the equals of any brace of courtmen in town.

It looks like one of the great games of the year. The winner will slip out into the semifinal round, along with the winner of the Central-Griff Consumer game.

The usual nominal fee of 25 cents admission to the entire card of tonight's games will prevail.

Walker and Fields Sign With Chicago Stadium

Chicago, March 22 (A.P.).—Jack Kearns, manager of Mickey Walker and Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, tonight signed blanket contracts with the Chicago Stadium, for each boxer to meet five opponents.

Of the five battles for Walker, the first tentatively is scheduled for April 29, with George Nichols, who won the National Boxing Association light heavyweight championship in the stadium last Friday.

Walker also is signed to meet King Levinsky. Kearns named Ernie Schaaf, Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling, world heavyweight champion, as Walker's other choices.

Fields has agreed to meet the winner of the Bat Battalino-Billy Petrolle bout in New York Thursday night, on April 15, or one week later, and Jimmy McLarnin on a May date.

Ross Outpointed by Martin as 1,600 Watch Show.

By JACK ESPEY.

WALTER KIRKWOOD, youthful Washington middleweight, battled his way to a second victory over Bob Turner, self-styled "Virginia Assassin," last night in Portner's Arena, winning the decision of Referee Heine Miller after eight rounds of rather colorless action, on the strength of a body attack. More than 1,600 fans saw Kirkwood, introduced for the first time as a hometown boy, tame his old enemy with a series of left hooks.

Fighting in the wind-up of a six-bout program, which had developed two knockouts and uniformly thrilling action when they climbed through the ropes, Kirkwood and Turner were faced with the difficult task of keeping the crowd's pulse racing. But neither of them had a kayo clout in his system, nor sufficient aggressiveness to match the tempo of the preceding brawls and it was those bouts that inspired the usual post-mortems at the exits.

The mob got its biggest kick out of the scuffle immediately before the final in which Tootsie Bashara, Norfolk lightweight, pumped a terrific one-two to the whiskers of Jimmy "Sailor" McKenna, of Washington, for a two-round knockout. A short left quickly followed by a right cross finished the milling 2 minutes and 50 seconds after the second round gong.

Bashara Bore Out Reputation.

It was one of the few kayoes ever suffered by McKenna, but it was not completely surprising inasmuch as Tootsie brought a knockout reputation with him. The former Gob first felt the power of Bashara in the first round, when nailed three times with staggering rights. He rode out this storm, however, meanwhile reviving the hopes of his supporters who counted on his superior experience to gain the victory, but he needed more than experience to stand up under Tootsie's thunderous wallops in the end.

Kirkwood repeated a triumph gained last year in Newport News by slipping and dodging Turner's wild swings and then getting inside with a left hook. Walter yielded the advantage in the first round when Bob swarmed all over him with a two-fisted attack but thereafter was plainly master of the situation. Turner rallied in the eighth to score with both mitts to Walter's body only to weaken half way through the round and absorb more of Kirkwood's hooks.

The other eight-rounder of the card found Al Martin, Baltimore featherweight, easily outpointing another Baltimorean, Tony Ross, who substituted for Nick Antonelli, Mohawk Club star, who was stricken Sunday with influenza. Martin justified glowing advance notices of his ability by scoring repeatedly with a machine-gun left jab and forcing the fight from bell to bell. Ross, however, proved sufficiently durable to soak up all of Al's attack in the vertical position and managed infrequently to sting Martin in the middle with short left hooks.

The hard-hitting Gabe Navos, local flyweight, dropped a six-round decision to Pete Powell of Newport News in the main preliminary, thus

VAN RYN AND LOTT WIN DOUBLES

Borotra and Gentien Bow; U. S. Virtually Clinch Victory.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, March 22 (A.P.).—Uncle Sam's tennis forces took a commanding lead in their indoor team match with France when George Lott, jr., and Johnny Van Ryn scored a four-set victory over the visiting pair, Jean Borotra and Antoine Gentien, tonight. The scores were 15—13, 6—4 4—6, 6—4.

As a result, the home boys will need only to break even in the remaining two singles matches tomorrow night to reclaim the international trophy France won last year. Gregory Mangin gave the United States one singles victory in the opening engagements last night, when he defeated Christian Boussus.

Boussus, who was to have paired with Borotra in the doubles, withdrew at the last minute to rest a leg injured in his match with Mangin. His absence from the line-up undoubtedly weakened France's cause tonight, as Gentien is several notches lower in the French ranking. Boussus, however, will be in condition to play his singles tilt against Frank Shields tomorrow night.

Gentien Breaks Under Strain.

It was Gentien who finally broke under the strain of the prolonged opening set tonight. The little substitute held fast until the twenty-seventh game, when Lott and Van Ryn cracked his service to give them the needed advantage. With Boussus in there, it might have been different.

Lott and Van Ryn, possibly the world's greatest doubles pair, played with teamwork and precision all the way, centering their attack on Gentien. Borotra, apparently unused to his partner's tactics, tried to play the entire court, but found it too great a task. The Bounding Basque gave his greatest exhibition in the third set when he almost single-handed broke Van Ryn's service twice to prevent a shut-out.

BLAZING THE BASEBALL TRAIL

New Orleans, La., March 22 (A.P.).—Dick Porter today was "put on the spot" as the Indians' lead-off man when the American League baseball season opens in about three weeks.

Although ball players generally shy at the lead-off job in that it cuts their chances at slugging and batting in runs, Porter welcomed the offer, recalling that as a lead-off man with the Baltimore Orioles, his batting average fell off 30 points, but that Manager Jack Dunn raised his salary the next year. The Indians had no exhibition game scheduled today.

Tampa, Fla., March 22 (A.P.).—Babe Herman beamed optimism and oratory today over his prospects of slugging the lowly Cincinnati Reds out of the National League cellar they occupied last season.

Having signed his contract, for $16,500, Babe joined the Reds in batting practice today to smash long drives, and then addressed a luncheon club here.

His speech was not recorded, but Babe said afterward that he was going to show "those New York newspaper guys who never did like the Brooklyn outfit, that he was not the goat. And all this dope about me butting a fly ball back to the diamond with my bean is looney stuff."

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 22 (A.P.).—With Herb Pennock and George Pipgras pitching three-hit ball, the New York Yankees defeated the Boston Braves 2 to 0 today.

The braves collected their three scattered hits off Pipgras after Pennock had held them hitless through the first five innings.

Old Tom Zachary was on the mound in the first inning, when the Yankees scored all of their runs on three of their six hits. Zachary was touched for one more hit in the fourth—a single by Gehrig—and Ray Mangrum, International League recruit, let the Yanks down with two safe blows—singles by Sewell and Lazzeri in the sixth and seventh innings, respectively.

Clearwater, Fla., March 22 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Dodgers went on a scoring rampage today, defeating the House of David, 19 to 3.

While Krider and Mattingly, rookie hurlers, were holding House of David to eight hits, the Dodgers collected eighteen safe blows off a trio of opposing pitchers. One of the blows was a home run by Cohen, who replaced Hack Wilson in center field.

Hilltop Joins New Court League

Eastern Conference Group Formed With Five Teams.

G. U., Carnegie Tech, West Va., Temple, Pitt Compete.

A COLLEGE basket ball league, to be known as the Eastern Intercollegiate Basket Ball Conference, consisting of five members, including Georgetown University, has been formed and will start functioning next winter, it was announced yesterday by H. Gabriel Murphy, graduate manager of athletics at the Hilltop.

The members, besides Georgetown, are Carnegie Tech, West Virginia, Pittsburgh, and Temple, representatives of which completed plans for the league last week in a conference at Pittsburgh.

According to Murphy, who represented Georgetown at the organization meeting, each league team will play the others twice on a home-and-home basis. This will furnish Washington's collegiate court season with eight league games in which Georgetown will be involved.

High Caliber Games Expected.

The quality of basket ball played by the teams of the new circuit is perhaps of higher caliber than played in the Eastern League, composed of eight teams, of which Princeton is the champion for this year. As an indication of this, Princeton was overwhelmed by Carnegie Tech, an indignity the Tiger suffered from none of its own league rivals.

Pittsburgh has, for the last five years, been recognized as one of the outstanding contenders for national college basket ball honors. Temple University's quintet this season was the only team to beat City College of New York, coached by Nat Holman, of professional court fame. West Virginia and Georgetown for years have furnished the basket ball fans of Washington with many thrilling games.

Graduate Manager Murphy expressed the belief that the conference will generate new interest in the sport here.

Ace Hudkins, Boxer, Is Sued for $50,000

Los Angeles, March 22 (A.P.).—Ace Hudkins, boxer, today was sued for $50,000.

Leonard Wood charged that Hudkins, known to boxing as the "Nebraska Wildcat," severely beat him last January in a street altercation. The complaint described Hudkins' fists as "dangerous weapons."

Yankees Send Hill To Newark "Farm"

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 22 (A.P.).—Jesse Hill, former track and football star at the University of Southern California, today was released by the New York Yankees to their farm team at Newark, N. J., in the International League.

Hill an outfielder, was purchased from Hollywood, of the Pacific Coast League, last January. He batted .320 with Hollywood.

Shore Wins Two Jr. Net Matches

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., March 22.—Washington will furnish the winner in the junior division in the Evening Sun-Fifth Regiment annual indoor tennis tournament, it appeared likely today, as Frank Shore, the defending champion, continued along by clipping off another pair of victories this afternoon on the armory courts.

Ben Gold, St. John's College, and Morton Kramer, Johns Hopkins, were easy victims for Shore today. The former was vanquished, 6—0, 6—4, while the latter went down, 6—1, 6—0.

Providing all goes as expected, Shore will encounter Larry Palitz, Johns Hopkins luminary, in the semi-finals Thursday.

Another Capital junior also triumphed today in the fourth round when Anthony Latona defeated David Custer, unattached, 6—0, 6—2. Morgan Jacobs, of Washington, lost to Earl Shaver, Forest Park High School, 6—3, 7—5, in the same round.

In the boys' division, Henry Little, jr., Washington, who lost by default yesterday, appeared today opposite D. Hyman, unattached, who didn't want to capture the match without playing.

In this sportsmanship contest, Little won in the third round by scores of 6—1, 6—2. Later, however, Little succumbed to David Bendann, Baltimore City College, 6—1, 6—2.

Emotionless Petrolle Prepared For Battalino Bout Tomorrow

NEW YORK, March 22 (U.P.).—With about as much emotion as a garageman displays pumping up a spare, Billy Petrolle today finished preparations for his twelve-round bout with Christopher (Bat) Battalino.

The favorite in New York's most talked-of bout in months, Petrolle hiked to the Pioneer Gym, stepped into ring clothes, worked four rounds, showered, dressed and went to a movie.

Petrolle tonight remained a firm 8-to-5 favorite over the former featherweight champion, Battalino.

French Will Protest Olympic Wine Ban

Paris, March 22 (U.P.).—The French Olympic committee will lodge a formal protest unless its athletes are permitted to drink wine while attending the Olympic games in Los Angeles this summer, it was announced today by Marcel Delarbre, general secretary of the committee.

The French general secretary said the French Olympic representatives would demand the same privileged treatment for French athletes as is accorded crews of foreign vessels in American ports, regarding wine.

Delarbre pointed out that the committee contends it is necessary for French athletes to drink wine while in the United States.

NATS TO USE CROWDER TODAY

Special to The Washington Post.

BILOXI, March 22.—Alvin Crowder, who refuses to tackle any pitching job under five innings, will be sent back to the mound tomorrow against the Baltimore Orioles, who provide the opposition for the Nats here.

The game, however, will provide the first true test for Mike Delaney, former Chicago sandlotter, who will hurl the last four innings. Delaney has pitched only three innings thus far this season and performed in such style that Manager Johnson is eager to observe more of this lad, whom he has ranked among the second flight of mound recruits.

The fight for the first base job is apparently off for the next few days, with Joe Judge nursing a strained back that will keep him from active duty. Joe Kuhel, the man Johnson favors for the position, will do the Nats a favor by exhibiting some more hitting power. He has shown signs, however, in the last two games.

The Nats' infield was attired in rubber shirts during the game today against Toledo, the airtight regalia being necessitated by the cold wind that swept the field. Sammy West played center field in his 20-pound leather and wool wind-breaker.

Ossie Bluege drew the unconcealed admiration of the few hundred in the stands today when he made all three assists in the fifth inning. He was on Powers' bunt like a hawk with his bare hand and threw him out from a perilous angle, and then he took a hot grounder off Weaver's glove to make the second out. He concluded the inning by scooping up Ward's grounder over the bag and slamming it into Kuhel's mitt like a rifle shot.

Johnny Kerr broke into the Nats' infield at second base after Buddy Myer was hit by one of Bachman's pitches in the fourth. Myer retired with a badly bruised elbow. Kerr hit the ball hard twice, allowing one hit for his efforts, and for a little fellow he can drive the apple for remarkable distances. There were no complaints of his fielding.

Forest Fires Delay Women's Golf Practice

Southern Pines, N. C., March 22 (A.P.).—High winds and the excitement of forest fires kept most of the nearly 100 entrants for the women's Midsouth Golf Tournament to be played here tomorrow and Thursday from tuning up their games today.

Flames in the woods along the Pinehurst-Southern Pines highway drew most of the residents of the two communities as spectators before they were extinguished with back fires.

Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, who took the title last year, had not filed her entry tonight, but those of a dozen other first rank contender assured a stiff battle for the championship.

Jim Londos Tosses Gardini on Armlock

Sam Stein, 200, Newark, threw Oke Shikima, 200, Japan, 17:06; Leo Pinetzki, 275, Poland threw Cy Williams, 220, Florida, 13:25; George Calza, 217, Italy, drew with Ralph Wilson, 206, Philadelphia, 30:00; Paul Vogel, 218, Germany, threw Gene Bruce, 202, Finland, 16:06; Fritz Kley, 212, Germany, threw Taro Miyaki, 190, Japan, 16:14.

"Boner" by Pitcher Is Climax of Comedy at Biloxi.

Manush Hits Homer; Weaver Effective After First.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH (Sports Editor of The Post).

BILOXI, Miss., March 22.—Amid scenes of physical and mental acrobatics by the Toledo Club in the ninth inning today, two Washington runs palpitated fitfully around the bases and enabled the Nats to pull a ball game out of the proverbial fire by the close but sufficient score of 6 to 5.

The Nats went into the ninth inning two runs in arrears and Sammy West appeared to have started a legitimate rally when he rifled the first pitch on a low trajectory into distant right field with none out, but that was the final gesture of orthodox baseball for the day.

Joe Cronin slapped a ball at Third Baseman Sammy Hale who tossed to second base for a putout on West who had wandered too far off the bag and the Nats' visions of victory, or at least the tying run, faded considerably. But a moment later they had brightened perceptibly after the mental gymnastics of the Toledo infield set in.

In Which There Is No Thinking.

The count was three balls and one strike on Carl Reynolds with Cronin on first, when the latter started down to second. Catcher Devormer made a perfect throw to Second Baseman Turgeon, and Cronin, thinking the fourth ball had been called, slowed down to a walk. Turgeon, seeing Cronin slow up, also reckoned the fourth ball had been called and made no effort to touch Cronin as he sauntered down the path to second base. They were both wrong. It was the second strike over the heart of the plate and Cronin was safe on second.

Reynolds finally walked, but the situation would have found the Nats with two out and a man on first if Turgeon had taken the effort to touch Cronin a moment before. Now there were men on first and second with one out.

First Baseman Jim Sweeney, erstwhile member of the Tigers and Red Sox, then stepped into the picture with his contribution and permitted Joe Kuhel's grounder, to filter through his legs into right field, enabling Cronin to score and deadlock the game and allowing Reynolds to advance to third with the winning run.

Pitcher Dick Rhodes was the victim of all this tomfoolery, but he sealed his own sad fate a moment later with a personal "boner."

Rhodes Has Mental Lapse.

Bluege the next batter, sent an easy bouncer to the box, while Reynolds started for the plate with the winning run. Rhodes, a right-handed pitcher but a left-handed thinker in this instance, gathered in Bluege's bouncer and instead of trying for the put out at the plate, as they teach in the books, threw to first base for no reason at all and eliminated Bluege, for the second out, as Reynolds scored the winning run.

The Nats again were forced into an uphill battle when Monte Weaver lost his bearings in the first inning and permitted the Mudhens a batch of three runs. They had tied the score at 3-3, however, when Carl Fischer entered the box in the sixth inning, and had taken a one-run lead in the seventh, but Carl Fischer yielded Toledo two runs in the eighth, which put the Nats one in arrears.

Sammy West led the Nats' hitting in point of numbers with a single and a double, but the day's batting honors fell to Herr Heinie Manush, who wheeled his 200 pounds into the path of one of Lefty Bachman's pitches in the second inning and knocked the ball far to the right

Promoter Wants Fans' Applause To Decide Carnera-Cook Bout

LONDON, March 22 (U.P.).—Jeff Dickson, promoter, today announced that the winner of tomorrow's bout between Primo Carnera and George Cook will be determined by the spectators' applause.

Dickson decided upon this plan when the managers of both men failed to agree on a referee suitable to both.

Following the announcement, the secretary of the British Boxing Board issued a statement declaring that the bout will be illegal if there is no referee. A meeting of the stewards has been called for tomorrow to consider the situation.

JANE ELLEN SURPRISES IN FEATURELESS ST. JOHNS CARD

Filly Scores In Thrilling Finish

Noses Out Gan Lee to Pay $18.40; Thistle Telee Third.

Gilbert Rides Essie and Estin to Victory for Double.

ST. JOHNS PARK, Fla., March 22 (A.P.).—A featureless program was offered here this afternoon and showers again made conditions disagreeable for the sport. A light crowd visited the Florida Jockey Club's course and was treated to a stirring finish in the second event, which was won by B. MacDonald's Jane Ellen. The daughter of Paragon II just got up to beat Gan Lee by a nose on the wire. Thistle Telee, a field horse, was two lengths behind, in third position.

The winner paid $18.40 straight, $27.50 place and $3.10 show, another example of the freaks played by the mutuel machines. Over a good track, Jane Ellen completed the 5½ furlongs in 1:08 3-5.

A terrific rainstorm broke between Jacksonville and the track between noon and 1 o'clock and many cars were stalled along the road, but the really heavy rains did not reach the race track, only light showers falling in this vicinity.

Hunch Players Score On Estin.

Nonana was favorite, but after breaking slowly, the filly never could get up. Gan Lee rushed to the front and led the field into the stretch. Jane Ellen, never far away, closed with a great rush on the outside of the pacemaker in the stretch and got to the front right at the end. Thistle Telee worked her way up from a slow beginning and easily took third money from Spanish Flirt.

Hunch players couldn't go wrong in the fifth race. After Jockey Gilbert had ridden Essie home in the fourth contest, the same boy drove Estin, by the same sire, but from a different stable, to a nose victory to reward his backers with practically the same price, $3.90 for $2. Patrick Callahan saved the place from Jimmie L. by a neck. Gilbert rode Estin much in the same manner as Essie, bringing his mount from behind to save a lot of ground on the inside at the stretch turn to take command in the closing stages. Jimmie L. and Patrick Callahan were used up racing for the early lead.

Only two more days will be spent here, and the last game of the series against the San Antonio Indians will be played tomorrow. The northward jaunt will start Friday, with Fort Worth the first stop.

Savannah, Ga., March 22 (A.P.).—Manager "Shano" Collins today put his Boston Red Sox rookies through a long morning session and spent the afternoon drilling the veterans. Both squads stressed batting, for Collins wants his players in a slugging mood when they open their spring training schedule against the Hartford Club of the Eastern League here on Thursday.

Tripp Sigman, new outfielder, worked out with the regulars and made a good impression at the bat. Outfielder George Stumpf, a grip victim, was reported recovering.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STRAIT JACKET, $3.10, $2.80, $2.10; COLONEL CLOISTER, $11.50, $3.50; NUN'S WAY, $2.30.

STRAIT JACKET, away alertly and hard ridden in the opening furlong, saved ground while resisting keen contention from NUN'S WAY, was forced to a stiff drive in the final furlong and vigorously ridden approaching the finish. Just lasted long enough. COLONEL CLOISTER, forced to race on the outside to secure racing room, responded with belated speed and was wearing the winner down at every stride in the closing stages. NUN'S WAY, urged hard from the start, had a lot taken out of her racing with STRAIT JACKET and faltered during the stretch run. SOCIAL BEE, outrun early, came with good courage when placed to punishment. AUNT MARSA raced gamely after being in tight quarters most of the trip.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $600; claiming. The Hotel Windsor. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 2:57. Off at 3:10. Winner, B. Two-dollar mutuels paid—JANE ELLEN, $18.40, $27.50, $3.10; GAN LEE, $3.40, $2.50; THISTLE TELEE, $2.50.

JANE ELLEN, away in the first flight and following in close attendance of GAN LEE, was taken to the outside for the final drive, drew on even terms with the pacemaker inside the final furlong and, in a game finish, was up in the last strides. GAN LEE sprinted into a clear lead directly after the break, saved ground at all stages and fought it out willingly when put to a drive. THISTLE TELEE worked her way up on the outside, responded to punishment and finished courageously on the inside. SPANISH FLIRT raced forwardly and met with no mishaps. ALCOVE raced evenly throughout. NARDO made up ground in the late stages. BOKIE B. could not reach the leaders. NONANA stopped after racing into contention.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $500; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:40. Off at 3:42. Winner, R. F. Coppage's b g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MARABOU, $4.10, $2.90, $2.10; STUPENDOUS, $4.10, $2.30; HARUM SCARUM, $2.30.

MARABOU, hard ridden to take command, drew into a clear lead after the opening furlong, saved ground thereafter and held sway until the end. STUPENDOUS, prominent and racing in her best form, made repeated efforts, but was not good enough. HARUM SCARUM broke fast, but met with early interference and dropped out of early contention. She regained her stride and closed stoutly in the closing stages. DEERFIELD, stoutly ridden for the entire trip, held on well. MARSHAL NEY could not seriously menace the leaders. WOLVERINE showed a flash of early speed. THISTLE DUKE stopped early. The others were never factors.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $600; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:10. Off at 4:13½. Winner, E. McCuan's br. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ESSIE, $4.00, $3.00, $4.20; POLLY'S POLLY, $7.00, $4.50; LIGHT NUN, $5.10.

ESSIE secured racing room on the inside in the early running, challenged boldly to take command entering the home stretch, drew clear in the next sixteenth mile, but began tiring in the final stages and had to be shaken up vigorously to stall off POLLY'S POLLY. Latter badly shuffled back after the opening sixteenth mile, recovered quickly and, moving up stoutly, came with excellent courage approaching the finish. LIGHT NUN, rushed hard in the first five furlongs, weakened in the final test after racing BEST MAIFOU into defeat. SOLUS, on the outside from the beginning, could not reach the leaders. BEIGE and OUR DOCTOR were unable to stay when the final drive came.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $500; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:42. Off at 4:45. Winner, W. T. Perry's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ESTIN, $3 90, $3.00, $2.60; PATRICK CALLAHAN, $2.70, $2.30; JIMMIE L., $3.60.

ESTIN, favored by the footing, but outrun for the first half mile, slipped through a narrow opening on the inside of the leaders when straightened into the home stretch and, in a game finish, was up in the final few strides. PATRICK CALLAHAN, a keen factor from the beginning, raced JIMMIE L. into submission, but weakened during the stretch run after taking a slight lead in the final furlong. JIMMIE L., stoutly ridden from the start, continued with good courage for the closing drive. TAT, kept close up, was going gamely in the final issue. RONALD GRAY, slow to get into racing stride, circled his field and finished resolutely on the outside. MY IDEAL closed a good gap. LADY M'NEIL quit. The others were unable to get into contention.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $600; claiming. The Hotel Everett. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:11½. Off at 5:12½. Winner, H. A. Coulson's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DOCTOR SYNTAX, $5.60, $5.10, $6.40; CLARE BEE, $98.60, $236.30; IRON CZAR, $10.60.

DOCTOR SYNTAX, racing in his best form and sent into early contention, followed COMMON closely until approaching the home stretch, took command under strong pressure and was kept under pressure until the finish. CLARE BEE, steadied along for the first six furlongs, saved a lot of ground when moving up entering the home stretch and closed stoutly on the inside of the winner. IRON CZAR, outpaced for seven furlongs, came to the outside thereafter and was going strongly at the end. HOMEWORK showed a good test for the entire trip. POPCORN could not threaten the leaders early. HOWEE had too much taken out of him racing with the leaders. COMMON quit badly when challenged rounding the last turn. CHUMMY was never a factor.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $600; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 5:37. Off at 5:47. Winner, Emerson Brothers' b. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BAGIEL, $15.50, $6.60, $4.40; SILVERY, $5.70, $8.30; BIRD OF PREY, $11.20.

BAGIEL, rated in close pursuit of the leaders, moved up stoutly to take command midway of the final turn, saved ground after shaking off DIODORO and, continuing gamely under good handling, outstayed SILVERY. Latter, shuffled back going to the first turn, circled her field when making her effort and fought it out willingly all during the final sixteenth. BIRD OF PREY, outrun early, but within striking distance, came determinedly for the final test. DIODORO, under pressure while setting the pace, saved a lot of ground, but was unable to stay when challenged. COCKRILL faltered during the closing three-sixteenths mile. PLAY BILL weakened early. COCK ROBIN met with no excuse.

Led by Wilkinson, whose 280 total was high for the match, Western High's rifle team had little trouble in defeating Central in the inter-high series at the Western traps, 1,365 to 1,302.

The winners presented a well-rounded team, the total of its lowest man being two points higher than those of Wallace and R. Davis, Central's high guns.

Franc Jewelers Plan For Baseball Season

The Franc Jewelers met last night and elected Robert Farrell assistant manager and George Irving field captain of the baseball nine. The Jewelers, who hope to cop top honors in the unlimited section of The Post's Capital City League, have called their first practice session for April 2, at 3 o'clock, on the Potomac Heights field.

Those who attended last night's meeting were Farrell, Albert, Jarvis, Donaldson, Howard, Irving, Beamer, Kinnahan and the Rosebaum brothers. With the support of these men and of such stars as Bill Payne, Bill Duryee, Ralph Young, Clayton Schneider, Bill McIlwee and Bob Huntington, prospects for a fine team appear mighty rosy.

Bissonette, "Hard-Luck Player," Under Knife

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—Del Bissonette, first baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers and the champion "hard luck man" of baseball, went on the operating table again today.

Bissonette's trouble this time was a torn tendon in his left leg. In the last few years he also has been operated on for sinus trouble, mastoid trouble and a shoulder injury.

He may not be ready to play ball for eight weeks.

field fence for the Nats' first home run of the exhibition season.

The Nats made nine hits, while Weaver and Fischer yielded the Mudhens eight. The latter made six errors to the Nats' three.

Weaver Yields 3 Runs.

Two bases on balls, coupled with his own error and a double by Turgeon which was followed by singles by Hale and Galatzer, forced Weaver to give up three runs in the opening innings, but he then recovered his bearings and permitted only one hit until he retired after the fifth.

The Nats scored a run in their own account in the first, when Buddy Myer singled and reached third on walks to West and Cronin. Center Fielder Ward made a perfect muff of Reynolds' high fly and Myer scored. Two more runs eventuated in the third when Manush led off with his homer and West singled, advanced on Cronin's walk and scored on two infield outs.

The 3-3 tie existed until the seventh when with two out, Joe Cronin slammed a terrific triple to right and scored on Carl Reynolds' whistling double to left to put the Nats in a one-run lead.

Carl Fischer was in no danger in the sixth and seventh, but he dug his own pitfall in the eighth by walking Ward, leading off. Sweeney then followed with a single to left and Ward scored on Hale's infield out. Galatzer scored Sweeney with a ringing double to left and went to third on a wild pitch, but Fischer disposed of Belande and Devormer.

After Washington's fruitless eighth, came the ninth.

Northern Preps Swamp "Y" Flashes by 43-7

Led by Mitchell, Davis and Robinson, the Northern Prep 130-pounders last night turned in one of the most decisive victories of the tournament, downing the Y. M. C. A. Flashes, 43 to 7. So closely did the Northerns guard their rivals that the Flashes had but four shots during the entire first half—three of these on fouls—and they were held scoreless until after two minutes had elapsed in the third quarter. Then Hurley sank one of two free tosses granted him.

As the score indicates, it was a total rout for the Northerns, who led 12 to 0 at the quarter, 22 to 0 at the half, and 37 to 3 at the end of the third period. The Northerns had what might be called the killer instinct and never let up for a minute. They showed almost perfect teamwork in addition to several individual stars.

This victory put the Northerns in the semifinals, with the St. John's Victors as their next foes.

Oakton High No Match For Shade Shop Quintet

Stepping out into a big lead and simply coasting along, the Shade Shop five last night entered the 145-pound semifinals by eliminating the Oakland High five, 50 to 22. In ringing up the victory, the winners outweighed, outplayed and outmaneuvered their victims to win about as they plased.

The Shade Shop five led, 14-2, at the quarter and 22-7 at the half, during which the Scholastics were able to score but once from scrimmage. Oakton picked up a little in the second half, but not enough to put it in the game, trailing, 33-15, at the three-quarter mark.

Bruder, who registered 16 points to easily take high-gun honors, scored the first eight of the game and, at one stage in the opening stanza, the Shade Shoppers led, 12-0. Their semifinal foe will be the War five of the Adjutant General's Office.

Brooklyn, N. Y., March 22.—An appraisal of the estate of the late Mars Cassidy was approved today by the surrogate of Queens County. The appraisal reveals the gross value of the estate is $33,331 and the net value $18,499, consisting mostly of real property. It is to be divided equally among three sons, George, living in Jamaica, Long Island; Marshall, living in Toronto, Ontario, and Wendell B., of 609 South Grand avenue, Los Angeles.

Mars Cassidy was known to many thousands of racing enthusiasts in this country, Mexico and Cuba as a veteran starter at various tracks in this and the other countries named. He died on October 20, 1929, in his sixty-sixth year.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

THE Wilson Dam, located on the Tennessee River in northwestern Alabama, is the greatest concrete structure of its kind in the world. As a producer of horsepower, its possibilities are greater than any other plant in the United States with the exception of Niagara Falls. At the present time, only three of the eight generators at Muscle Shoals are active. Each of these is turning out 30,000 kilowatts of power and enough water is going over the spillway to generate 250,000 kilowatts more.

Yet, the municipality of Muscle Shoals, located only 2½ miles from the power dam, has not a single electric light, being illuminated by oil lamps.

Application for use of the surplus power has been made, but thus far no Government legislation has been passed. A year ago the former Mayor of Muscle Shoals and his next door neighbor were so badly burned lighting a gasoline lamp that the mayor died 24 hours later, and his neighbor remained in the hospital for six months.

Richard M. Kleberg, representative from the Fourteenth Congressional District of Texas, has the largest individually owned ranch in North America. The immense expanse of land comprises 1,280,000 acres, extending for nearly 100 miles along the Gulf of Mexico.

Kleberg was taken to the ranch shortly after his birth at Corpus Christi, in 1887. The ranch was established by his grandfather, Capt. King, in 1853. When Mrs. King, the captain's widow, died in 1925, Kleberg fell heir to the whole estate.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)
—St. John's Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS

ST. JOHNS PARK, Jacksonville, Fla., March 22.—St. Johns races will be run over a muddy track tomorrow. Featuring the card is the Hotel Mayflower Handicap at a mile. RED FACE, which has won his last two starts, should win again in this, but will have harder competition than in his last race, when he took the decision over Play Bill and Rave.

STARBOARD LIGHT, beaten a head a few days ago by Clean Play, should be the contender. COOTS may be in the money, but the distance may stop him. He won the opening day in a sprint from Marabou. A mile appears too far for DONNY JOHNNY, a swift-moving plater in a sprint.

FIRST RACE—JACK HOWE, which recently beat The Heathen in fast time and is at home in the mud, should romp in the opener. The heavy impost he must carry is his only drawback, but at so short a distance 118 pounds should not anchor him. PRINCETON also may be benefitted by the change in track conditions and will be a strong factor in the race. He won his last start and should be second in this. NOAJOYCE is next best and has third money at his mercy.

SECOND RACE—BLANKET BAY is selected. This 3-year-old maiden was second to Allen's in his last start. CHIEFS CAMILLE will be favorite and a dangerous contender. She was third in her last race to Charleigh. HARUM SCARUM has a chance, but is a doubtful starter.

THIRD RACE—STELLA NOVA is well placed and will like the distance. COCKRILL, a mudder like STELLA NOVA, seems to be the contender. BOZO has a chance for the show money. In his race of March 5, STELLA NOVA beat WRACK ROYAL at a mile and a quarter in 2:04 4-5. BOZO may surprise.

FOURTH RACE—MOROCCO seems to stand out. While his last race or so did not reflect his best form, in a previous effort the track mark was equaled. WAVE TOP won Monday, and with her early speed she might hold on for the distance and be close to the leader for second. JUDGE CAVERLY is to be reckoned with.

SIXTH RACE—GIBBY'S CHOICE seems best and will have BIG BO to beat. Third to CRUSHED STONE a few days ago, this plater has the speed in this field. Some of BIG BO'S recent races gave him a chance here. NOSEGAY has run with better horses and may be in the money.

SEVENTH RACE—PARTIES is selected. Third to HOME WORK last out, she won her previous race by a head from BLACK STOCKINGS. ON LEAVE will be a keen contender. PLAYING should close the gap in front of the others.

MAT ACTION AT STRAND ASSURED

Second Flight Men to Be Battling for Recognition.

ONE of the benefits of a no-star, no-feature rassling match, such as Promoter Joe Turner has carded for the Strand Theater tomorrow night, is that the 2,000-odd fans who will press their way into the venerable old house of burlesque, stand more of a chance of seeing a determined clamping of holts and sincere butts on the pancreas, than they are apt to see when any of several of the fancier figures of the rassle racket appear for a sedentary and high-priced growl siesta.

Of course, Sandor Szabo must be rated with the higher ups in rassling, but he was always one to put enough warmth in his work to belie his billing as a headliner. Szabo runs amuck with George Manich this week. Manich surprised many local fans last week by holding the Szabo man to a 30-minute draw, and tomorrow night's affair is being looked upon as something conclusive.

Manich Unbeaten Here.

Manich is unbeaten in Washington. Fred Grobmeier, who reaches the crossroads of his Eastern mat invasion Friday night when he tangles with Strangler Lewis in Philadelphia, warms up tomorrow night on Frank Speers, hefty former Florida gridman.

A potential show stealer is revealed in Oke Shakina, dextrous Jap grappler, who will hokus pokus with tough George McLeod, a renegade from the Dominion of Bowser.

Fritz Kley, who introduced the first new note in rassling in a year with his contortionistic floppings, and his walking out of iron-clad holds, meets Jack Hurley in another bout, while Doc Wilson is offered as a sensitive and somewhat dangerous sacrifice, to Count Dracula Nestor, sometimes known as Nick.

Ladies free. First wheeze at 8:30 o'clock.

suffering his first defeat in four starts in the Alexandria ring and yielding to Powell for the third time in four bouts stretched over a period of eighteen months. Navos struck the harder blows, forcing Powell to back away after some of the close exchanges, but Pete's insistent left and superior defense offset the effect of Gabe's dynamite.

Sammy Braunstein, replacing K. O. Riley, was subdued in four rounds of slugging by Sam Finazzo, of Baltimore, while Kid Roanoke, Fort Howard, won in three rounds over Len King, Warrenton, Va., when the latter was disqualified for going down without being struck.

PETROLLE READY FOR BATTALINO

It's possible that the odds will shift to nearer even money, but this is unlikely. It's unlikely because the wise money boys regard Petrolle as having but one real danger: If the Bat hold on for six or seven rounds, Billy might become just a bit tired. The Bat, however, doesn't really get warmed up under eight rounds.

Battalino also finished his work for the bout. Petrolle is expected to weigh about 139 pounds, and Battalino about 137.

The fight is being held on Thursday instead of Friday as is customary at Madison Square Garden, because this Friday is Good Friday.

WAR TOSSERS WIN.

War Department (A. G. O.) tossers last night defeated the Bureau of Standards, 47-27, in their final game in the Departmental League, clinching first place in the second half of the schedule. It will meet the Army Medical Center tossers, first-half winners, for the league title in the near future.

HARD SCHEDULE FOR G. W. FIVE

1933 Quintet Loses Lone Regular

Wisconsin, Pitt and Duke Among Opponents Sought.

18 or 20-Game List Likely; St. John's Is Booked.

George Washington University, having enjoyed the best basket ball season in its history during the campaign recently closed, plans to meet stronger opposition next winter. The Colonial athletic authorities are negotiating with most of the better known basket ball institutions of the South and East with the view of bringing many of their quintets to the Capital.

St. John's College, of Brooklyn, perennial contender for national honors, already has been scheduled to appear against George Washington here. The Indians defeated G. W. the past season in Brooklyn by a narrow margin, being one of four teams that downed Coach Pixlee's team in a 15-game schedule.

Longer Schedule Likely.

Not only will the Colonials' opposition be stronger, it is reported, but their schedule will be longer. They probably will play 18 or 20 games.

Among those outstanding teams which G. W. hopes to schedule are Duke, Washington and Lee, Clemson, Wisconsin, Rider and Pittsburgh.

Only one player, Jack Conner, a guard, will be absent next season from the 1931-1932 array. Conner has played out his time in varsity competition. Arthur "Otts" Zahn, a Washingtonian, who plays at guard, will captain the Buff and Blue next winter and others to return are Forrest Burgess and Wick Parrack, forwards; Ralph Hertzler, center, and Wayne Chambers, guard.

Hitting The Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

With only two more weeks to go, the Swann's pin spillers last night pulled up into a first-place tie with Kools Drinks in the Columbia Heights Business Men's League in matches rolled at the Arcadia. This was brought about by Swann's taking two from Bell & Smith while Liondale Shirts were doling out the same dose of medicine to Kools Drinks.

Liondale Shirts took top team honors with a 633 game and a 1,776 set, with Bernhardt's 150 total representing high individual game, with H. Parsons' 389 being outstanding.

The Giants performed in a big way on the Arcadia drives last night, taking both team and individual honors in the Evening Star League. Collectively, they had a 516 game and a 1,481 set, while Hendley, of the same team, was the individual star, with respective figures of 128 and 342.

King's Palace last night took two out of three National Capital League games from Rinaldi Tailors on the Lucky Strike drives. The third and deciding game was won by a four-pin margin, 561 to 557. Mortimer King was high gun with a 132 game and a 383 set.

Two season's individual records for the Income Tax League were turned in at Lucky Strike. Kuntz, with a 147 game, and Diamond, with a 362 set, were credited with the new figures. B, No. 1 topped the teams with a 621 game and a three-game total of 1,649.

Peoples Life beat Acacia, Insurance League leaders, three times last night at Lucky Strike to pull up to a tie for second with Travelers. Farber, with a 135 game and a 357 set, was individual star of the night, while team honors went to Equitable, which had 567 and 1,647 totals.

Gunton Temple's 594 game and Wallace Memorial's 1,618 set were good enough to top in last night's North Washington Church League matches at Columbia. Warren, with 141, and Sagrario, with 366, starred among individuals.

Miss Hughes had 136 game and Miss Adhman a 331 set to show the way in the Eastern Star League last night at Lucky Strike. Team honors were divided, Washington Centennial No. 1 having high game, 515, and Ruth high set, 1,466.

The Imperials lived up to their name last night at Lucky Strike when they captured team honors in the Supervising Architect's League. The figures were 554 and 1,574. Sonneman's 128 game and Story's 328 set topped individual scores.

Chestnut Farms cleaned up for National and King Pin No. 2 took two of three from Union Wallpaper in King Pin Business Men's League last night at King Pin. Alsop hogged all of the glory among individuals, having a 133 game and a 378 set.

Tiptops and Capitals took the odd game from Kann's and Lansburgh's last night in Ladies' Independent League matches at King Pin. Mrs. Mayhew showed the way to all rivals with a 124 game and a 317 set.

Miss Gulli did some fancy pin-shooting at Columbia last night in the Washington Ladies' League, when she toppled 153 bottles in one game and had set figures of 364. The Shamrocks took the team glory, 539 and 1,551.

Administration took charge of affairs in the Ladies' Internal Revenue circuit last night at Columbia, its 516 game and 1,439 set being outstanding. Miss Esten's 115 game and Miss Schoaf's 317 set were the best single efforts.

WOULD DIVORCE HOYT.

A Reno divorce is being sought by Mrs. Waite Hoyt, wife of the pitcher recently released by the Philadelphia Athletics, according to her father, H. T. Pyle, of New York City. The couple have been separated for a year.

PHILS SHIFT TO 'INSIDE' BASEBALL

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

Winter Haven, Fla., March 22 (A.P.).—Whether or not the country goes Democratic in the national elections this year, the Phillies will change the label on their brand of baseball.

After years of slugging from their shoe tops, trading punch for punch without getting anywhere in particular, Burt Shotton, the gray fox, is teaching his boys "inside stuff."

The flogging Phillies are not only running the bases but actually stealing them. This correspondent was an eyewitness to an almost incredible day's work in which these Phils produced a double steal, worked the sacrifice, the hit and the run, finally wound up by executing the squeeze play with a rookie catcher, Al Todd, at bat.

Variety for Phils' Attack.

To our look of wonder and amazement on the bench, Shotton smiled warily, as though about to pull a half-dozen rabbits out of the batbag, and explained:

"Whether or not it gets us anywhere, we are going to have more variety in our play this year than before. I am not one of the prophets who say the home run will become extinct. I would be daffy to say so, because you know as well as I do that we are not selling heavy hitters down the river.

"But the game has changed to such an extent that very few teams can depend entirely on slugging for their runs. We can get more runs by taking more chances on the bases; by crossing up the other fellows with a bunt when they expect a line drive.

"This club has some speed. I am working all the boys on the bunt so they will at least know how. We will see if a little more alertness to opportunities can not get us up somewhere."

Pitching Prospects Brighter.

With the best pitching prospects he has had in years, a first-class infield, good catching and hopes for a better outfield defense, Shotton believes his club will show improvement.

It has no pennant hallucinations, but it has a chance to break into the first division if Clise Dudley comes through to make a pitching "big four" with Phil Collins, Ray Benge and (Jumbo) Jim Elliott, who won nineteen games last season. Shotton will be delighted if the team can add a dozen more games to the "won" column.

Dudley won only eight games last season whereas the other three averaged fifteen apiece. He should do much better this year. In addition, Shotton has a trio of exceptionally bright prospects in Roy Hansen, angular southpaw from Dallas; Reg Grabowski, picked up as a free agent; and Edgar Holley, who won fourteen games for Kansas City in 1931 and looks like a real find. Bob Adams, former Jacksonville boy who twirled for Richmond last season, is another good prospect although he needs more seasoning. Stew Bolen, southpaw, and Frank Watt, right-hander, both may be retained.

Well Fortified Behind Bat.

Although already well fortified behind the bat with big Virgil Davis, a heavy hitter, and Harry McCurdy, one of the best blockers in the backstopping business, Shotton has picked up a great looking catcher in Al Todd, the boy who hung the knockout wallop on Dizzy Dean in the Texas League. Al can throw, hustle and hit better than the boys figured.

Shotton has no infield worries with a smooth-working quartet consisting of Don Hurst, the much improved Les Mallon, Dick Bartell and Capt. Pinkey Whitney, but he is very much in need of outfield support for the great Chuck Klein. Klein has never looked better in training. His defensive work has been especially sensational.

George Davis, former New York University boy, who hit .243 with St. Paul last year, is getting a thorough trial in center and may make the grade. Hal Lee looks to have the call on left. Fred Brickell and the veteran Rube Bressler, who also can sub at first base, are in reserve.

Hyattsville Boy Seeks Navy Lacrosse Berth

Annapolis, Md., March 22.—John B. (Sunshine Jim) Reedy, of Cleveland, Ohio, guard and captain-elect of the Navy Football Team, is going after his third varsity letter. Having won it for his gridiron work last fall, and soon to receive the second award for his activities as champion heavyweight boxer during the season just closed, Reedy joined the lacorsse squad a few days ago, and indications are that he will make good as goal tender.

George Findlayson, veteran coach, feels sure that Reedy will make good in his new field of endeavor. The mentor has been looking around for men who are speedy as well as heavy, in order to develop greater defensive power, and Reedy fills both requirements. He is of husky build, weighs close to 200 pounds and has all the fighting characteristics that go to the making of successful athletes.

Among other football men with the varsity lacrosse squad is "Buck" James, of Hyattsville, Md., former Washington high school athlete. He played tackle on the eleven.

DANNY PYNE MAY FIGHT BORDEAU

Rivals May Clash in District A. A. U. Mar. 30-Apr. 2.

Provided "ifs" materialize in two instances, Washingtonians may shortly witness one of the amateur "battles of the century." In other words, when the District A. A. U. sponsors its third annual championship boxing tournament at Ritchie Coliseum on the nights of March 30-April 2, there is at least an outside chance that Danny Pyne, Catholic University's ace light-heavyweight, may clash with Leroy Bordeau, defending champion and formerly a standout at Georgetown University.

Neither Pyne nor Bordeau have entered the event as yet. It is thought, however, that both may fall in line within the next 48 hours.

In the event they show in the 175-pound division of this annual tourney, there is little doubt but what Bordeau and Pyne will get together. And, if they do, a slam-bang battle may be expected.

Payne Shaded in Experience.

Though shaded in experience, many believe that Danny's aggressiveness and punch will assure him of an even footing with the rugged and courageous Hilltopper.

Rapidly mounting entry blanks are being received daily at Spalding's and Boys Club.

Of amateur organizations hereabouts, the American Legion at present boasts the most entrants, twelve. Eight Jewish Community representatives are enrolled; six have registered from Boys Club; three Knights of Columbus fisticuffers have signed up, while one is to represent National Training School.

Defending champions are to appear in five divisions, the doubtfuls being: Boyle, 135 pounds; Bordeau, 175, and Carpenter, unlimited.

Reserved seats are to go on sale shortly. The price will be $1 per person.

500 Tobacco Growers At Marlboro Meeting

Approximately 500 persons thronged the Marlboro courthouse yesterday in one of the largest meetings of tobacco growers ever held in southern Maryland. A series of speakers impressed on them the necessity for improving the quality of tobacco they grow, pointing out that production was increasing more rapidly than consumption.

The speakers included W. B. Posey, Prince Georges County farm agent; H. C. Wingfield, of Naruna, Va.; J. A. Dickey, of the Federal Farm Board, and George I. Gardiner, who spoke on the Baltimore tobacco market.

TIPSY DRIVER GETS 7-MONTH SENTENCE

$250 Fine Also Is Assessed Against Motorist in Fairfax County.

Dennis Durham, of Fairfax County, Va., was found guilty of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor and of the possession of ardent spirits by a jury headed by J. Fred Huber, of Falls Church, in the circuit court of Fairfax County yesterday. On the driving charge the jury recommended a fine of $200 and costs and a jail sentence of 6 months and on the possession charge a fine of $50 and costs and a 30-day jail sentence. Both sentences were imposed by Judge Walter T. McCarthy.

Clarence Wells, who was arrested at the same time as Durham, pleaded not guilty and the evidence was submitted to the court without a jury. He was charged with the third offense of violating the Virginia prohibition law. After hearing the evidence, he was found not guilty by Judge McCarthy.

The claim of the town of Falls Church against the Travelers Insurance Co. for compensation for injuries to Town Officer C. B. Runyon was heard yesterday by a member of the State Insurance Bureau in the board room of the Fairfax County courthouse.

According to the evidence, the town's compensation insurance policy expired on November 18, after which the company refused to reissue a policy on town officers, but gave the town an extension binder to allow them to place their policy with another company or to obtain a reissue of the policy from the principal office of the Travelers company.

On December 24 the district office notified the insurance agent in Falls Church that they refused to reissue the policy and to cancel the binder with the town officials. The agent did not do this immediately because of the Christmas holidays, and on December 27 the officer was injured. The company claimed the policy was not in effect and would not pay the claim made by the town officials.

The Northwest Citizens Association of the Town of Falls Church, meeting at the home of Mayor and Mrs. L. P. Daniel, elected Elmer Via president. Other officers elected were Dr. Howard Middleton, vice president; Eugene Chreve, jr., secretary, and Joseph Loveday, treasurer.

Residents of Park street requested the association to aid them in having the town council take over that street for maintenance as an accepted town street. Mayor Daniel and Councilman Charles Gage volunteered to make an investigation and present the question to the council. The possible effect of the new Byrd law, under which the State will take over the maintenance of all county roads and relieve the county taxpayers of road levies, was discussed informally.

Roads Engineer Hurt; May Lose His Eyesight

Special to The Washington Post.

Catonsville, Md., March 22.—Surgeons at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore are fighting to save the eyesight of Benjamin B. Nicoll, of Woodbine, Md., a Maryland State roads engineer, who was injured while questioning a Washington motorist on the Frederick road near Catonsville, Md.

Mr. Nicoll had halted the car of Mrs. H. Freeman Matthews, of Washington, for routine questioning in a traffic survey. Mrs. Matthews accidentally pushed her car door open. The door struck Mr. Nicoll in the eye, breaking his eyeglasses into the eye. He has been in the employ of the roads commission for many years and is well known throughout Maryland.

ROAD WORK PLANNED IN PRINCE GEORGES

Lanham-Severn and Marlboro to Glenn Dale Routes to Be Improved in Parts.

One mile of concrete will be laid on the Lanham-Severn road route, and a part of the Marlboro-Glenn Dale route will be graveled with funds allotted to Prince Georges County by the State, the board of county commissioners decided yesterday.

Approximately $35,000 remains to the county from its share of the gasoline tax. This is only about one-third of the usual sum, as the county was advanced funds last year to complete several construction projects.

A mile of concrete is estimated to cost $25,000, while the remainder will pay for a road between the Defense highway and Central avenue through Woodmore.

Road Planned for Years.

Construction of the Lanham-Severn road, which will be an additional highway into Baltimore, has been agitated for several years. After the State refused to build it, its backers asked the counties through which it passes to finance it.

About 7 miles of the route is in Prince Georges County, and about 5 in Anne Arundel. The other section is part of a highway planned to reach ultimately from Branchville to Marlboro.

The roads will be built by the State roads commission, but their location is left to the county commissioners. Usually the recommendations are made in a joint conference with the commission, but due to the small sum available, this will not be held this year, the recommendations being mailed to the State body.

Police Court to Remain.

The commissioners also decided yesterday not to move the Capitol Heights police court from its present location in the firehouse. This decision was reached after a committee from the fire company had told the board of plans for a new and larger firehouse and courtroom. A letter thanking the board for its stand against cutting teachers' salaries was received from the Mount Rainier-Brentwood Parent-Teacher Association.

C. C. Magruder appeared before the board to exhibit the markers planned to be erected along the roads George Washington used and on the houses he visited. Lieut. Col. L. A. Kunzig, U. S. A., in command of Fort Washington, appeared again to ask that the road into the Army post be repaired.

The question of whether buildings completed after the first of the year should be taxed for that year was referred to M. Hampton Magruder, attorney for the board, for opinion.

CATALOGUE OF AN ART EXHIBIT.

("The Society of Independent Artists will consider food, fuel, medical treatment, dental service, &c., in payment for any paintings purchased at this year's exhibition."—News item.)

* * * *

No. 567: "Battle Between Alligator Pear and Emu," by Casper Ertle. This is one of the most interesting paintings in the exhibit. Done in the new cover-an-honor-with-an-honor convention, it is at first glance somewhat perplexing, but becomes full of meaning upon close analysis. (Mr. Ertle's bridgework has gone back on him again and he will consider an offer from any competent dentist.)

* * * *

No. 643: "Ambrose Lightship and Bowl of White Grapes," by Hamilton Zerkes. In achieving an ambition to portray the Ambrose Lightship in an atmosphere for fresh fruit, this artist has done something of genuine significance, coming and going. It is Mr. Zerkes's belief that a lightship has a soul, and he has portrayed this by a curious grouping of symbols too deep for anybody to understand. (Mr. Zerkes was offered a ton of coal, a pair of yellow shoes and two cans of anchovies at private sale, but is holding out for a sinus operation and an outboard motor.)

* * * *

No. 1,156: "Dance Hall Hostess and Flemish Andirons at Dusk," by Wallace Scupps. Mr. Scupps will be remembered as the painter of last year's sensation, "Periwinkle and Child," in which the true effect was gained through looking at the wrong side of the canvas. (He offers his new painting to any good corn doctor who will guarantee to make callouses nonreturnable.)

* * * *

No. 852. "Pair of Perplexities and Chiffonier," by Willoughby Thickett, jr. Mr. Thickett had a definite message in mind when he began this study, but Mrs. Thickett spilled a cleansing fluid on the painting, causing the colors to run and discouraging the artist to a point where he just didn't give a darn. (The first collector with a barrel of flour, two boiled hams and a quart of gin gets this unusual study. In fact, Mr. Thickett might dispense with the flour and hams.)

* * * *

No. 9645. "Nymphs and Butter Plate." By Dudley Doolittle. This painting was begun by Mr. Doolittle's father, a famous kalsominer. It has been finished by the son, and we don't mean maybe. The nymphs are marked by an arrow, but any fool can identify the butter plate with a little concentration. (Mr. Doolittle must have treatment for falling hair, sinus trouble, and the first doctor who will give him a little attention can have the painting.

LOCKWOOD ELECTED TICKER CLUB'S HEAD

Investors Syndicate Reports Living Costs Lower; Savings Increase.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Chester W. Lockwood, of Maynard, Oakley & Lawrence, was elected president of the Ticker Club, of Washington, mutual cooperative and protective association of local financial houses having membership in the New York Stock Exchange, at its annual meeting yesterday. He succeeds Alfred Chester Flather, a local comanager of G. M.-P. Murphy & Co.

Karl W. Corby, of W. B. Hibbs & Co., was elected vice president, succeeding the late Arthur Foraker, of Eastman, Dillon & Co., and Thomas W. Brahany, of E. A. Pierce & Co., secretary-treasurer, succeeding Mr. Lockwood. Mr. Flather, retiring president, and Ralph M. Wolfe, Mackubin, Goodrich & Co., were elected new members of the board of governors.

Members of Club.

Membership in the club is composed of the following houses and their representatives: Chauncey G. Parker, jr., Auchincloss, Parker & Redpath; John D. Mothershead, William E. Lewis, Fenner, Beane & Ungerleider; McElroy Moss, A. McCook Dunlop, Goodbody & Co.; W. B. Hibbs, Karl W. Corby, W. W. Spaid, W. B. Hibbs & Co.; Thomas J. Mangan, jr., Hemphill, Noyes & Co.; George A. Garrett, F. B. Keech & Co.; Ralph M. Wolfe, Mackubin, Goodrich & Co.; Chester W. Lockwood, Maynard, Oakley & Lawrence; Frank J. F. Thiel, M. J. Meehan & Co.; Alfred Chester Flather, Charles Carroll Morgan, G. M.-P. Murphy & Co.; Edward W. Gamble, jr., Stein Bros. & Boyce; former Representative Joseph H. Himes, Thomas W. Brahany, Robert G. Rau, E. A. Pierce & Co.; A. H. Reeside, Westheimer & Co.

Living Costs Decline.

With a renewal of the decline in commodity prices, with fuel prices down and with municipal economies tending to reduce taxes, the cost of living has again made a decisive downward move, according to the monthly Consumer Index just issued by Investors Syndicate, with local offices. The 2 per cent drop since last month is one of the largest declines of the depression.

Savings totals reported by Federal Reserve member banks are 1.9 per cent higher than last month, and 7.1 per cent above last year. The fact that the month's gain in savings is approximately 2 per cent and the decline in the cost of living is about the same is at least an interesting coincidence, and suggests that the economies made possible by lower living costs are directly assisting the average consumer to accumulate a surplus in his savings account.

Mexico Heavy Buyer Of Currency Silver

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—The Mexican government has purchased 23,000,000 ounces of silver from producers in Mexico, it was learned here today.

The purchase, it is understood, was made directly from producing companies, including U. S. Smelting, Refining & Mining Co., American Smelting & Refining Co., and American Metal Co.

The government, under a fiscal policy, recently announced, has given the Bank of Mexico the right to purchase silver and mint it into new pesos as currency needs require. Deliveries of the new contract are to be distributed over a year, at the rate of about 2,000,000 ounces monthly.

Car Loadings at 1932 High.

WALL STREET—AND BEYOND

Markets and Business in Review and Outlook

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

BECAUSE the momentous news has been flashed across the Atlantic in a dozen or more unrelated dispatches during the last two weeks the United States at large has not yet fully grasped the profound significance of Great Britain's recent economic recovery—the best news of 1932 to date. Only in banking circles has the heroic "comeback" under the Nationalist government been truly evaluated. And there, with the news of America's credit stabilization, the British recovery is received as an omen, not only that world-wide economic rehabilitation is at last under way, but that the tedious rooting processes, the most painful of all to impatient humans, has been passed safely in the two most important industrial nations of the world.

Six months ago, when London announced abandonment of the gold standard, one had only to step around the corner to find an expert who would whisper the darkest truth about the mghty empire. That truth was, in the stupid language of the street, that England had shot her bolt. Like the once invincible Rome, she had attained the summit in the century-long orbit of empire and henceforth and forever, the gossip ran, her path would be downward to oblivion and decay. The national budget was hopelessly out of balance, international trade was falling off to a staggering adverse balance, domestic industry was prostrated by loss of export markets, and Threadneedle street, for centuries the historic symbol of London's financial power and prestige, was described bitterly as Poverty lane.

How Death Came to a New Era.

FOR several months preceding the September crisis, the unemployment dole had increased the national debt at the rate of $5,000,000 a week, yet only gradually did the vital truth concerning taxes penetrate the popular mind. That old bromide which taught that no government could consistently spend more than its income was an economic axiom of a dead past. In the happy days of the New Era, Government could pay out any amount that might be voted by sentimental parliamentarians. Bonuses, pensions, doles, subsidies—no matter about revenues! The way to break a depression, the new dogma ran, was to squander.

Quite naturally, this pretty dream died hard. But since it died England has experienced in six months what one reputable observer has characterized as "one of the most amazing transformations in her history."

Today, England is operating her government on a balanced budget. Her foreign exchange is on a free basis, the flight from the pound is ended. Domestic trade has been stimulated by the increased demand for export goods, and a sound tariff has been applied to check the adverse balance of trade. Unemployment is decreasing, for the first time since 1925.

Mobilizing Cuff Links and Diadems.

THE appreciated exchange value of gold has brought into the Treasury some $140,000,000 worth of new metal, reclaimed from jewelry, trinkets and ornaments in both England and India. As a result, the Bank of England has been able to pay off in New York and Paris approximately $215,000,000 in emergency credits not actually due until next August.

Such is the story of half a year in a country where national opinion united vigorously behind competent leadership to end a disastrous era of "muddle through." It is an inspiring story, not so much because it sustains the basic concepts of sound economy as because it reaffirms the power of nations to deal courageously and effectively with the grosser frailties and perversities of this our glorious human race.

New Sugar Accord In Paris Parley

Differences Between Cuba and Java Are Settled by Shift in Tonnage.

Paris, March 22 (A.P.).—Delegates to the International Sugar Council today announced an accord in principle for settling a disagreement between Cuba and Java over production and export. Cuba's final reply is awaited.

The chairman announced that European and Peruvian producers of beet sugar had agreed to reduce their exports if Java exceeded her export quota, thus compensating Cuba for the Javanese excess.

This proposal was cabled to Havana early today, and another cable giving additional details was forwarded at the request of the Cubans.

Specific export figures were not mentioned officially, but it was learned that the proposal gives Cuba 2,500,000 tons; Java, 1,500,000 tons, and Europe and Peru, 1,800,000 tons.

The council will meet again in Paris on June 13 to consider production quotas for next year.

GOLD MOVEMENT.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—The Nation's monetary gold stock was increased $1,160,200 today as a result of imports of $368,400 from Mexico and a decrease in earmark account of $791,800.

UNION PACIFIC'S NET GAINS FOR FEBRUARY

Profit Is Made, Despite Fall of $2,500,000 in Income; Economy Reflected.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—The Union Pacific Railroad statement for February shows a moderate increase in net operating income in spite of a decrease of nearly $2,500,000 in gross revenues.

Net operating income was $822,595 compared with $657,957 last year.

This is the second February statement to make a favorable comparison with the same month last year, Chesapeake & Ohio, having previously reported a substantial increase in net operating income.

In both cases the gains reflect operating economies, including the 10 per cent wage cut.

New York Central Railroad announced today that it will soon place orders for 30,000 tons of rails. The initial replacement program contemplates the laying of 50,000 tons, of which the road has on hand 20,000 tons. This is the smallest rail allotment for the road in many years.

Street Awaits a Sign.

Market interests continued to look closely for some evidences of trade improvement today, but aside from moderate stimulation of retail business caused by the approach of Easter, there was little change in the waiting attitude shown by consumers for some time past.

Principal interest appeared again to center on the prospects of passage of the sales tax bill, and further emphasis was placed on the need for early passage of a law designed to balance the Federal budget. The latest official figures show that first quarter income tax collections were $86,695,000 behind a year ago.

Northern Pacific Railway will show a deficit after charges for February of about $850,000, President Charles Donnelly said today. Net railway operating deficit for the month was approximately $519,000, against a deficit of $145,000 last year. February expenses were reduced about $200,000 by the wage reduction.

Steel Rules Slow.

Unless there is a marked increase in steel buying within a few days, March production will run slightly under the February average, says the American Metal Market in its weekly iron and steel review. At the outside, this week's output can not be forecast at more than 25 per cent of capacity, it is stated.

A somewhat better feeling toward the rails was apparent in financial quarters, but it was not strong enough to be translated into buying orders. The Union Pacific and C. & O. report tended to belie some of the extremely gloomy estimates heard a fortnight ago.

Fears are entertained in many quarters of Wall street that the Northern Pacific Railway's notable dividend record, unbroken since 1898, may be terminated at tomorrow's meeting of directors.

Baltimore & Ohio's application for a $55,000,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was assumed to have been made only after reasonable assurances that its requirements would be taken care of. Only last week the road omitted its preferred dividend.

The Norfolk & Western today reported February net operating income at $1,004,378, against $1,387,625 in February, 1931.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

STOCKS wobbled indecisively before being struck down by extreme weakness in wheat and cotton, both of which broke sharply on uncertainty over the Farm Board's export-credits policy. The last hour, however, saw a brisk recovery to about Monday's close.

BONDS were irregular and generally lower, but U. S. Governments registered new 1932 highs on several issues.

CURB trading was indecisive, the volume small and the range narrow.

WHEAT touched a new low for the month.

COTTON closed 13 to 15 points lower, principally in sympathy with the weakness in wheat and stocks.

Beet Sugar Buyers Withdraw Guarantees

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—No minimum guarantee of prices for sugar beets is contained in this year's contracts of the American Beet Sugar and Holly Sugar companies with growers. Instead, the companies will pay on a basis of sugar content and net prices received for the refined product.

Crude Rubber Sells At New Record Low

New York, March 21 (A.P.).—Crude rubber broke to a new low for the Rubber Exchange of New York today on news of a breakdown in the British-Dutch negotiations seeking to effect a new plan to restrict productions.

The March delivery sold at 3.01 cents a pound, a drop of .20 from Saturday, but later recovered to end the day at 3.11 cents bid.

This decline, while mild in contrast, recalled the slump in rubber in the spring of 1928, when abandonment of the Stevenson restriction plan was announced in London. Rubber then fell precipitately 7 cents a pound, but it had been selling around 30 cents or nearly ten times today's low price.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—Stocks had several unfavorable factors to contend with today, but in the main offered reasonably good resistance to a resumption of the decline.

Afternoon short covering reduced early losses to moderate proportions, and in a few instances was robust enough to bring about small net gains. By and large, however, leaders closed lower. Motors and metals acted rather discouraged most of the day, while American Telephone, Royal Dutch and several preferred issues displayed greater than average heaviness. Turnover increased slightly to 1,098,000 shares.

The sharp break in wheat at Chicago, reflecting the Farm Board advisory committee's recommendation that surplus be sold quickly in noncompetitive foreign markets, and a weak market for German bonds, were unsettling developments.

Needs of Railways.

In addition, financial needs of railroads received emphasis from Baltimore & Ohio's application for a $55,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan, while uncertainty over the tax bill still seemed to have a dampening effect.

Reports in brokerage quarters mentioned further foreign selling as an aftermath of the Kreuger affair. Several large blocks of Kreuger & Toll appeared and there was pressure against Royal Dutch, which lost 2 points. American Telephone was conspicuous in the domestic field, losing nearly 4 points under steady offerings. Its ultimate resistance at 117½, a new low for the move, prompted enough covering to cut the loss to 2¼ net.

The question of maintaining a $9 dividend against a sharper downward trend in earnings is receiving careful attention in market circles, although there has as yet been no indication that telephone's directors contemplated an immediate change. Results for this quarter are being estimated at around $2 a share.

Bonds Irregular.

Although bond prices were highly irregular, especially among speculative issues, sufficient support came into the market just before the close to advance the average for 60 corporate securities one-tenth of a point above yesterday's somewhat feeble finish.

The strength of United States Government loans was the feature of the day's proceedings. All of the Liberties except the first 4s recorded new highs for the year. Most of the Treasuries also moved moderately higher in more than usually active trading.

A slightly easier tone in money and rumors of a further reduction in the Federal Reserve rediscount rate brought renewed interest to the Government's obligations.

While corporate mortgages generally were sluggish and price changes narrow, there was some news interpreted by dealers as mildly constructive. An offering of $10,000,000 of Southern California Edison 5s, due in 1954, at 96 was quickly oversubscribed.

High-grade railway issues were steady, for the most part, but some of the more speculative rails were heavy.

Liens of the Kreuger companies were again subjected to pressure. Kreuger & Toll 5s dropped 4½ and those of International Match were off more than 1 point.

Sales totaled $8,151,000.

COTTON PRICES SAG ON SURPLUS FEARS

May Contracts Sell Down to 6.60, Drop of 15 Points; Demand in Liverpool.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—Aside from a very few feeble rallies, cotton prices were on the down grade throughout the session today.

The market was at new low levels for the entire month and, as far as most of the active positions were concerned, established new low record since January. The May position sold down to 6.60, closing there for a decline of 15 points, while the market generally closed barely steady at 13 to 15 points net lower.

The opening was steady at 1 to 6 points decline, and at the outset was influenced by disappointing Liverpool cables, unfavorable reports relative to the labor situation in Manchester, where a strike was threatened over the more-looms-per-weaver problem, and liquidation by nervous longs, both for domestic and foreign account.

Weakness in the stock and wheat markets during the day contributed to the cotton decline, but the principal depressing factor seemed to be a general feeling of nervousness over what step, if any, may be taken by the Government agencies relative to the disposition of the large surplus stocks.

Liverpool cables said that speculation was dormant with a fair cloth demand from India.

Exports today were 30,762 bales, making 6,644,330 bales so far this season.

Rosenwald Elected to Gimbel Board.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—Lessing J. Rosenwald, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co., was today elected a director of Gimbel Bros., Inc., to succeed his father, the late Julius Rosenwald.

GRAIN VALUES DROP IN RUSH OF SELLING

Wheat Breaks 3 Cents, as Corn Touches New Low; Farm Board Blamed.

Chicago, March 22 (A.P.).—In a storm of selling, largely to stop losses by holders of future contracts in wheat, all grain values suffered a collapse today.

Maximum breaks of 3 cents a bushel tumbled wheat to the lowest point reached since October 10, and pulled corn down to new low records both for this season and in several options for many years back.

One of the chief unsettling factors was a recommendation by the wheat advisory committee of the Federal Farm Board that Government-financed wheat be moved promptly to save storage charges, and that Congress provide additional funds to enable the Farm Board to extend further credits to purchases overseas.

Wheat closed nervous, 1¾ to 2⅜ cents under yesterday's finish, corn ¾ to 1⅛ cents down, oats ½ to ⅝ cent off, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2 cents.

From the outset, the wheat market had to contend with the disturbing influence of unexpected downturn in quotations at Liverpool and reports that confidence there had been shaken, with millers withdrawing as buyers.

Despite advices that Europe's need for wheat remained substantial, and that stocks held by import countries were limited, the Chicago market soon plunged downward as a result of augmented selling, largely attributed to the East.

Virginia Life Gains On 1931 Insurance

President Lays Prosperity to Sound Methods in Public Dealing.

Substantial gains during 1931 in insurance in force, gross income, and assets were revealed in the annual statement of the Life Insurance Co. of Virginia, made public yesterday by President Bradford H. Walker.

In a communication to local representatives President Walker attributes the year's showing to a continuance of sound and conservative methods, to the zeal and energy of its representatives, and to the confidence and cooperation of its policyholders.

Commenting on the company's sixty-first annual report, Mr. Walker points out that insurance in force on December 31, 1931, amounted to $387,823,631, respresenting a gain for the year of $12,579,761.

Gross income in 1931 was $17,119,287.79, an increase of $298,557.93 over the preceding year.

The statement also showed $3,356,668.18 was added to assets, bringing the total to $72,970,833.17 as of December 31, 1931.

With a total of $45,005,692.15 in loans on real estate, including loans on farm properties of $662,734.49, the company holds only $342,934.98 in real estate acquired by foreclosure.

BANKERS SEE 'FAST' CURING STOCK GLUT

By FRANK H. M'CONNELL.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—After its Belshazzar feast of 1929, the investment market has gone on a diet which, some bankers believe, is gradually bringing a cure.

The diet, these bankers say, has been little short of a fast. Nevertheless, they hold it has been necessary. The only time-worn cure for an overglut of too many bond and stock issues, they say, is extreme abstinence—for a brief period, anyway.

One leading authority who in 1928 tried to get his brothers to reduce the enticing meal of juicy new capital issues, as a means of preserving the public appetite for future meals, says the fast is gradually winning the battle.

This banker set $7,200,000,000 annually as a figure representative of the normal appetite of American invetsors for bonds and stocks. This volume they could handle without overburdening themselves. He decided upon this figure after a study covering the five-year period, 1923-1928, inclusive.

The sale of bonds and stocks of all kinds, except United States Government obligations, during this interval, averaged $7,200,000,000 a year.

In 1928, however, the annual meal began to take on the size of a gorging. Bond and stock issues, exclusive of United States Government bonds, totaled $10,000,000,000.

In 1929, moderation left the feast room entirely. In that year, the market was "fed" $11,592,000,000 of new issues—or $4,392,000,000 over the accepted normal figure.

In 1930, moderation returned with a total sale of $7,677,000,000 of securities, and in 1931 the investment market began feeding on a sandwich and a glass of milk. The total for that year was only $4,015,000,000, or $2,185,000,000 under the theoretical normal.

In the first two months of 1932, new capital issues have aggregated $292,000,000, which is about $908,000,000 less than might have been expected under normal conditions.

On an annual basis, this would be equivalent to $1,662,000,000 for the year 1932, or $5,538,000,000 less than normal.

Junkers Aircrafts Needs Ready Cash

Bank Debts of $500,000 Are Difficulty; Germany Expected to Aid.

Dessau, Germany, March 22 (A.P.). The Junkers Aircraft Co., jarred by the insolvency of the Borsig company, one of its principal creditors, is pressed for liquid cash and is trying to make arrangements with other creditors for postponement of its obligations. The book assets exceed the liabilities by about $2,500,000, and there are a number of foreign orders on hand, the company announced. The plant, employing 3,000 men, will continue operations, and the financial difficulties were described as merely temporary. There were indications that the government, which is financially interested in the firm, will come to its assistance. Six Junkers enterprises are concerned, but these do not include the Junkers-Diesel Motor Co., of Chemnitz, owned entirely by Prof. Hugo Junkers.

The present trouble of the Junkers company originated with the insolvency of the Borsig firm, one of the principal creditors, last December, after which Borsig could not renew the Junkers acceptances.

The principal liabilities of the Junkers concern are the bank debts, estimated at 2,000,000 marks (about $500,000).

Barnsdall Oil Reduces Par Value of Shares

Wilmington, Del., March 22 (A.P.). Stockholders of the Barnsdall Corporation, of New York and Tulsa, Okla., today voted to reduce the par value of the company's capital stock from $25 a share to $5 a share, so that all investments in oil and gas leases may be carried on the books of the company at $1 and the item of depletion eliminated from the profit and loss account.

The change in par value reduces the capital from $56,469,475 to $11,293,895. The difference of $45,175,580 will be transferred to surplus, against which will be charged the book values of all investments in oil and gas leases, approximating $20,000,000. The stockholders also voted to reclassify the company's stock into one class of common, instead of the present two classes. Four directors whose terms expired today were reelected for three years each.

BOND & SHARE VOTES NEW CAPITAL PLANS

Provisions Made for Ratio of 1 to 3 Now Held; Par Value Added.

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—Stockholders of the Electric Bond & Share Co., at a special meeting today approved the proposal to recapitalize the common stock on the basis of one new share for every three shares now held.

The plan also provides for changing common stock from its present no par value to a par value of $5 a share. The basis of exchange, reducing the common stock capitalization by two-thirds, frees $124,000,000, which will be transferred from capital to surplus.

A total of 11,226,531 shares of combined preferred and common were voted by 69,250 stockholders in favor of the plan. Only 8,636 shares were voted against it.

Wide interest was attracted to the meeting for what indication it might give as to the feeling of stockholders generally on the question of decapitalization.

The Electric Bond & Share Co., is the first of the larger companies to vote on such a proposal. A meeting of stockholders of Niagara Hudson Power will be held tomorrow on a similar question. The power company's stockholders will also vote on a proposed reduction in stock on the basis of one new share for every three now held.

Advocates of decapitalization maintain that the reduction of outstanding shares of companies whose stocks are now selling for less than $10 a share would make these shares more attractive to the banks for loaning purposes. Banks ordinarily draw the line at extending collateral loans on stocks which sell for less than $10 a share.

Following the stockholders' meeting, directors declared the regular quarterly dividends of 1½ per cent in stock on the common stock, $1.25 on the $5 preferred stock and $1.50 on the $6 preferred stock.

The common stock is payable at the rate of 3-600ths of a share of new $5 par common stock on the old common stock. It is payable April 15 to stock of record March 22.

The preferred dividends are payable May 2 to stock of record April 9.

May Dividend Passed On Gimbel Preferred

New York, March 22 (A.P.).—Gimbel Bros., Inc., has deferred payment of the quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock due at this time, the company announced today.

Bernard Gimbel, president of the company, issued the following statement: "The company has not borrowed any money from the banks during the year. It has no bank loans and is in a strong cash position. Cash on hand January 31 was in excess of $6,000,000.

"Nevertheless, in view of present conditions directors considered it to the best interest of the corporation to defer payment of the May 1 dividend on the preferred stock."

National Photo.

THERE is considerable contrast in this picture, taken back in the early days of motion pictures. The exact time is not reported, but women will note by the style of hats and the cut of clothes that the photo is a good many years old.

"The House Without children" may have been the name of the feature on the screen, but Poli's Theater, the scene of action, certainly was not a "house without children" on this particular day.

To these mothers and children the photo may bring back fond memories for Poli's has passed from existence, due to the Federal building program.

BLACK WITHHOLDS REPORT ON MERGER TO AVERT SLASHES

Demands Traction Companies' Assurance of No Cuts in Pay or Personnel.

SUBSTITUTE RESOLUTION BY SENATE CONSIDERED

Committee Believes Course Would Clarify Bill's 46 Amendments.

Representative Loring M. Black, jr., will withhold report on the House traction merger bill until he receives assurances there will be no cuts in street car personnel or wages following consolidation, he announced last night.

Representative Black, who is chairman of the utilities subcommittee of the House District committee, said he had received a "note" informing him of alleged intentions of the merged companies to slash pay and the size of their staff.

Report Was Expected Today.

"I am opposed to mergers anyway," said Representative Black. "If the companies do not give me the assurance I ask, I will just hold on to the bill awhile."

A report on the measure had been anticipated at today's meeting of the full House District committee. The Senate District committee already has approved the bill with amendments.

Yesterday the Senate committee considered the advisability of introducing a substitute merger resolution embracing amendments incorporated in the bill approved last Friday. As there were 46 amendments, Chairman Arthur Capper believes this would be the better policy. Action on the suggestion was postponed until Friday.

Opposes Taxicab Feature.

Both Representative Black and Representative Frank L. Bowman (Republican), West Virginia, a member of the Black subcommittee, said they thought the Senate bill would be unacceptable to the companies. Representative Bowman thinks the Blaine amendment, providing for possible repeal of the act and termination of franchise, unreasonable.

Chairman Black said if he makes any changes in the bill at all it will be to exclude the companies from operation of taxicabs. Otherwise, the bill would be turned over to the full committee in its original form if reported at all, he said.

Senators Capper and John J. Blaine are preparing their minority report on the Senate bill, protesting inclusion of the so-called "power clause" permitting extension of existing power contracts.

FAR EAST FIGHTING HIT AS INSTITUTE ON ORIENT ENDS HERE

Pleas for Understanding of Difficulties Facing Two Nations Are Made.

HARVARD MAN PRAISES ACTIONS OF U.S. IN ROW

Dr. Holcombe Says Hoover Has Moved Wisely During China-Japan Clash.

Pleas for understanding of the difficulties facing China and Japan, interspersed with criticism of the forceful methods adopted by the two countries, marked the concluding sessions yesterday of the Institute of Far Eastern Affairs at American University.

Dr. Arthur L. Holcombe, professor of government at Harvard University, at last night's session viewed the processes under the covenant of the League of Nations as "the only possible means of solving the troubles between China and Japan."

Declaring that President Hoover has acted "with prudent foresight" in cooperating with the league to the full extent that is practicable under the existing laws of the United States, Dr. Holcombe asserted that unless closer cooperation is made possible "the future of the Washington conference treaties is dark."

Danger Is Cited.

The processes available under the Kellogg pact seem as likely to strain the relations between the United States and Japan to the danger point as to bring about a reconciliation between Japan and China, he said.

Speaking at a luncheon session yesterday, Dr. William C. Dennis, president of Earlham College, viewed the present dispute between China and Japan "as the first real trial of the modern machinery of peace, the covenant of the league and the Kellogg pact."

Japan and China are both entitled to sympathy in their national aspirations, but at the same time they deserve judgment for resorting to force instead of law following "satisfactory negotiations" between officials of the countries, Dr. Dennis observed.

Hits "Unequal Treaties."

Paul Linebarger, legal adviser for the national government of China, speaking at the morning session, declared "that only when the unequal treaties are abolished shall we have a strong central government in China." When this is done, he predicted, "China, sovereign in its own domain, will astonish the world by its governmental efficiency."

Speakers at the morning session also included: Frederick W. Moore, formerly foreign counselor to the Japanese ministry for foreign affairs, who discussed "The Condition of China," and Dr. William C. Johnstone, assistant professor of political science at George Washington University, who spoke on the foreign settlements in China.

Dr. Charles C. Tansill presided at the morning session. Lucius C. Clark, chancellor of American University, presided at the luncheon meeting, and Dr. Ellery C. Stowell presided at the concluding session last night.

D. J. Kaufman, Beloved As Citizen, Is 70 Tomorrow

Long Established Here in Clothing Business; Civic Leader.

D. J. Kaufman, "Uncle Dave" to most of you, father of "Radio Joe" Kaufman, will be 70 years old tomorrow.

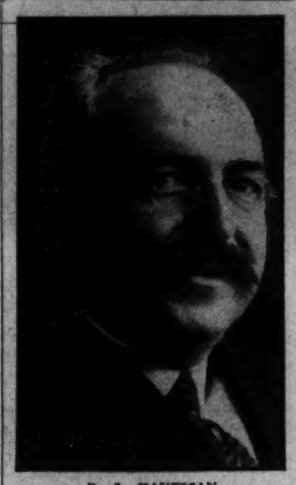
One of Washington's oldest and most beloved citizens, Mr. Kaufman was brought to this city from Baltimore at the age of 6 months, the youngest of nine children, and has lived here since.

He went to school here until 13, and then started out to learn the clothing business under the tutelage of his brother-in-law, Marx Kaufman, at Eighth and I streets southeast. His apprenticeship at this place covered 23 years. At the latter part of this time he managed the business.

On September 15, 1896, "Uncle Dave" embarked in business for himself under the name of D. J. Kaufman at 1007 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Less than two years later he extended his business to take in 1005 Pennsylvania avenue, and the firm does business at this same location today. In 1907 the first of two branch stores was operated under the same management.

Mr. Kaufman retired from business about ten years ago, but he has maintained an active interest in civic and social service and fraternal organizations. One of the chief distinctions which came to him in middle life was his appointment by President Wilson to the Board of Charities in this city.

Mr. Kaufman is a member of the Board of Trade, the Washington Chamber of Commerce, the Masons, Elks, Oldest Inhabitants, Shrine, Washington Hebrew Congregation, Woodmont Country Club and many other organizations in and about the city.



D. J. KAUFMAN.

Married more than 45 years, "Uncle Dave" makes his home at 3809 Jenifer street northwest. His wife was Clara J. Luchs, of this city. They have two families of children living in Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Kaufman and their two daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy King and their two sons. Another daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Glaser, live in Boston, Mass., with two children.

A third daughter, Mrs. Simon L. Nye, died several years ago. As a memorial to this daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman presented to the Council of Jewish Women the Juanita Kaufman Nye Council House, the neighborhood settlement at 611 Sixth street southwest.

HOUSE AND SENATE COMMITTEES FAVOR PAROLE BOARD HERE

Bills Also Provide That All Prisoners Shall Be Eligible for Discharge.

COMMISSIONERS URGE SEVERAL AMENDMENTS

Bates Is Elated Over Action on Prison Reform Proposals.

Creation of a Board of Indeterminate Sentence and Parole for the District, taking over local duties of the Federal Parole Board, was favored yesterday by the Senate District committee and the House District judiciary subcommittee.

Sanford Bates, superintendent of the Bureau of Prisons of the Department of Justice, and heads of local civic groups sponsored the reform at hearings on bills pending before the two committees.

"It is just another step in the direction of modern penalogical advance," said Mr. Bates. "I look forward to the time when every man committed to prison will leave it under parole. This is not leniency, but simply a new system of discharge."

All Eligible for Parole.

The bills provide that a minimum prison sentence shall not be less than one-fifth of the maximum and that every prisoner be eligible for parole on completion of the minimum jail term. Three District residents appointed by the Commissioners would comprise the board, which would examine into physical, mental and moral condition of prisoners, recommending steps for their reform.

Capt. M. M. Barnard, superintendent of District penal institutions, asked House committee approval of the bill. Besides Mr. Bates, appearing before the Senate committee were Thomas Littlepage, Washington Chamber of Commerce; George S. Wilson, director of the Board of Public Welfare; Mrs. Horace J. Phelps, of the District Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Clarence Fraim, of the National Federation, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Vernon West.

Amendments Approved.

Certain amendments were recommended by the District Commissioners yesterday when they reported favorably to Congress on the bills.

Among the amendments approved by the commissioners were the following: That the terms of office of the members of the parole board be increased from 1, 2 and 3 years to 3, 5, and 7 years; that indeterminate sentences be imposed only upon persons convicted of felonies, and that a sentence of not more than 5 years be imposed on a prisoner who escapes or attempts to escape from a penal institution of the District.

POLICE COMPLAINTS NOTICE IS REQUIRED

Change in Manual Affects Challenges on Members of Trial Board.

Forty-eight hours' notice must be given of any challenge to a member of the Police Trial Board under an amendment to the police manual adopted yesterday by the District Commissioners. The challenge must be in writing and must set forth specific reasons for the action. The remaining members of the board shall decide whether the challenge is justified.

Several changes in the personnel of the Police and Fire Departments were authorized yesterday by the Commissioners.

Four motorcycle policemen, Privates C. D. Cunningham, H. M. Smith, I. H. Wilson and F. W. Sanford, were given other assignments and were replaced by Privates S. R. Collins and C. F. Cummins, jr. Private J. E. Bennett, another motorcycle policeman, was likewise transferred because of his health.

J. O. Curtis was transferred from the post of street railway crossing officer to an assignment at the Traffic Bureau.

Roy M. Davis, a former policeman, was ordered reinstated to succeed J. M. Larkins, promoted; whereas the suspension of Private H. M. Smith for drunkenness was approved.

Three privates were appointed and another was reinstated in the Fire Department. The new appointees are James M. Battle, Charles W. Biondi and Peyton G. Middleton, while the member reinstated is Lloyd Brown.

Battalion Chiefs A. C. Buscher and L. L. Woolard were appointed alternate members of the Fire Trial Board because several members of the present board were associated with the preliminary investigation of cases now pending.

Headhunters Pay Honors to Skulls of Foes

Love your enemy—after he is dead—seems to be a maxim of the Formosan headhunters.

These and other characteristics of the people of the Pacific island last night were described to members of the Anthropological Society of Washington and the American Association of Physical Anthropologists by Capt. Carl von Hoffman.

The noted explorer's lecture was illustrated with motion pictures—the first ever taken among the tribes of Formosa. The lecture was held in the auditorium of the National Museum.

If you were a victim of a Formosan savage, when your skull was dry and whitened and ready to be placed on the shelf with the ones which had gone before, your decapitator would place you in his hut with a very pretty little ceremony of welcome, according to Capt. von Hoffman.

To your hollow cranium words of welcome would be addressed. Wine would be poured through where your lips were, and finally the headhunter would say, "I hope you will like it here. If you do, tell your brother about it, so that he will come."

The explorer explained headhunting as the result of the same urge which sends men out looking for lions to have on the parlor floor—as rugs.

The largest collection of skulls which Capt. von Hoffman observed in his journey through the interior of the island—the first exploration ever made there—was 46.

The natives believe that their merit, strength and courage are rated by the number of their human trophies. Unlike head hunters of South America, they do not mummify the entire head, but keep only the bony skull.

At the afternoon session of the American Association of Physical Anthropologists, Dr. Adolph H. Schultz was elected president. It was the third annual conference of the association.

DEATH-PLOT CHARGE HOLDS FIVE FOR JURY

One Pleads Guilty of Conspiring to Kill Haury, Union Supervisor.

Five persons, including one woman, were held in $5,000 bond for the action of the grand jury yesterday when they were brought before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage on a charge of conspiring to kill Charles E. Haury, supervisor of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

One of the quintet, Ed Johnson, 38 years old, pleaded guilty to the charge, while the others, George MacSullen, 47 years old; Burt W. Carpenter, 41 years old; Walter Reed and Mrs. Kaye Reed denied any connection with the alleged plot.

The sole witness to be heard, Detective Sergt. A. D. Mansfield, related an alleged statement in which details of a plot to kill the union official were revealed. According to Mansfield, Haury was to have been done away with March 14.

The detective also said that at one time last week, two men in an automobile trailed another machine in which it was thought Haury was riding, but no shooting occurred because of the fact that no one was certain Haury was in the car. At another time, four men were to have gone out Connecticut avenue to wait for Haury, but the scheme fell through when the lack of an automobile made it impossible to go out. The day after this alleged plan, all five were arrested.

HEARINGS SET TODAY ON SCHOOL BUILDING

Repairs to Wilson and Ross, and New Structures to Face House Body.

Hearings on supplemental school estimates providing for rehabilitation of Wilson Teachers College and Ross Elementary School, and erection of a new trade school for colored boys, will open at 10:30 this morning before the House District appropriations subcommittee.

The estimates, forwarded to the committee last week by President Hoover, would appropriate $160,000 from unexpended balances for repair of the two schools recently declared unsafe. Some $315,000 in funds originally allotted to the Jefferson Junior High School, would be reallocated for construction of the new Phelps trade school.

The subcommittee yesterday visited the Wilson Teachers College and Ross Elementary School, where District engineers pointed out the danger from unsafe foundations, and outlined proposed methods of repair. Indications were that committee members will accept the recommendations of the engineers, although there was some difference of opinion as to the extent of the damage.

The subcommittee has virtually completed marking the bill. Members say they could be through by next Monday, if necessary. Indications are, however, that the legislative appropriations bill will be introduced before the District measure, in which case the latter bill may not be reported for two weeks.

CHURCH TO OPPOSE NEW BUS TERMINAL

New York Avenue Pastor Asks Hearing to Fight Greyhound Plans.

The Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, and other officials of the church have asked for a hearing before the Public Utilities Commission to oppose the plans of the Greyhound Bus Lines to erect a terminal on the north side of New York avenue between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets.

The commission yesterday set next Monday as the date for a conference with representatives of the church and the bus company. The Greyhound Line was the first of the interstate bus companies to select a site outside the congested area for a new terminal. Church officials contend that the presence of such a bus depot adjacent to their property would be disturbing to their services, particularly in the Sunday school department.

The Blue Ridge Transportation Co. yesterday informed the commission that it will use the facilities of the Greyhound terminal.

With the exception of the Washington Rapid Transit Co., the other interstate bus operators have not yet reported the selection of new terminals to be used after April 1, although they assured the commission last week that they would comply with the bus order. The utilities body has given them until Monday to make the selections, so that new routes may be approved before April 1.

The commission yesterday sent out notices that the hearing on application of the Washington Gas Light Co. to erect a gas holder in the Northeast will be held at 10 a. m. on April 4, in room 104 of the District Building.

Artists to Paint Police Prisoners

Police prisoners here are to be classified physiognomically henceforth under a plan announced yesterday by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police.

All facial characteristics of the prisoners are to be catalogued by experts and artists to make illustrative sketches. These will be copied manifold and distributed among the precincts. Gen. Glassford believes the system will enable quicker and more positive identification of persons previously arrested. He also is of the opinion that the scheme will stimulate observation powers of policemen.

The police executive said an artist is now at work preparing a composite portrait of the "phantom sniper." The picture is being made from various facial descriptions of the man given by persons who have seen him.

U. S.-Capital Tie-Up For Chest Is Urged

Simultaneous Funds Drive Proposed in Report of Efficiency Bureau.

Recommendation that the Government campaign for the Community Chest be conducted next year at the same time that the city-wide campaign is held is made in a report on the Chest by the United States Bureau of Efficiency.

This is the only recommendation for any change, the remainder of the report giving high praise to the Chest methods. Conducting the governmental and city-wide campaigns simultaneously would make it possible to use more of the Chest's campaign material and would eliminate a considerable amount of work now necessary in the preparation of special instructions and correspondence to meet the special methods of solicitation, it is pointed out.

The Bureau of Efficiency report was submitted to Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission and chairman of the Chest governmental committee, by a subcommittee of the government committee on unemployment, consisting of Herbert D. Brown, director of the United States Bureau of Efficiency; Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, in charge of public buildings and grounds, and Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor.

St. Andrew's Announces Meditation Service

On Good Friday at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, V street and New Hampshire avenue, a three-hour service will be held from 12 to 3 p. m., with special meditations on "The Seven Last Words." The rector, the Rev. A. J. Wilder, will conduct the service.

Stainer's "Crucifixion" will be sung by the church choir on Good Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Investment Men Back Bowman Bill

Hearings on Measure to Regulate Securities Resume Tonight.

Hearings on Representative Frank L. Bowman's bill to regulate the sale of securities in the District, sponsored by the Investment Bankers Association, will be resumed at 8 o'clock tonight before the House judiciary subcommittee.

The measure, which would prevent the licensing of security dealers once convicted of fraud, was favored before the subcommittee yesterday by a group of investment bankers, led by Eugene Thompson, partner of Crane, Parris & Co.

O. H. Brinkman, local attorney and former clerk of the Senate District committee, opposed the measure as not drastic enough. Mr. Brinkman aided Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, in drafting his District "blue sky" securities bill, which has already passed the Senate.

As the Blaine and Bowman measures are in no way interchangeable, the House District committee must choose between them.

Struck by Army Truck, 4-Year-Old Girl Hurt

Injuries to the back were suffered yesterday by 4-year-old Joan Jones when she was struck down by an Army truck in front of her home at 416 Delafield street northwest. The child was treated at Walter Reed Hospital and returned to her home after X-ray pictures were taken.

Traffic Body Plans Safety Zone Quiz

Bowman's Charges They Are "Death-Traps" Will Be Investigated.

Charges by Representative Frank L. Bowman that street car safety zones in the District constitute "death traps," will be investigated by the traffic advisory council, the West Virginia representative was assured yesterday by Assistant Traffic Director M. O. Eldridge.

Aroused at the death of two colored youths, struck down while standing in a "safety zone" on Connecticut avenue, Representative Bowman called the traffic director's office yesterday and lodged a formal complaint. He was told the traffic advisory council will sit on the matter "in a day or two."

"White lines used in marking space reserved for pedestrians waiting for street cars offer no impediment to the motorist and give the pedestrian a false sense of security," Representative Bowman told Mr. Eldridge. He urged a return to elevated wooden or concrete platforms.

Couple Gives Home to Dog That Kept Vigil of Death

While the body of its mistress rests unclaimed in the District Morgue, a little while poodle dog, which kept a three-day vigil beside a couch in the front room of a house at 1337 Four-and-a-half street southwest, where its lifelong friend lay in death, yesterday found a new interest in life.

A big limousine, driven by a chauffeur, drew up in front of 452 O street southwest, where the little dog had found a temporary home with Mrs. Annie Monberger. A man and woman emerged and asked if they might have the pet, promising to give it the best of attention. Mrs. Monberger said she did not obtain the names of the couple, but when the dog scrambled into the lap of the woman, and she wrapped it in a fold of her fur coat, it showed perfect contentment.

It was the mournful wails of the shaggy poodle Sunday afternoon that attracted neighbors to the home of Mrs. Mamie Boden, 55 years old. She was found dead on a couch with the little dog, half starved, nearby. Doctors said she had been dead three days, apparently of pneumonia. After her body was taken to the Morgue, scores of letters were received at the District Pound offering a home for the dog.

Scorning $15 Job Offer, Wolter Continues Fasting

The slightly built savant—he has three college degrees—took his daily constitutional yesterday, despite the chilling March winds. He claims steadfastly that one peanut has been his sole nourishment since February 28. Sniffing at the recent proffer of a $15 a week job in a local university library, Dr. Wolter said he would decline food until either death or the offer of "suitable employment" comes.

Many letters have been received by the self-constituted martyr. Some sympathize with his cause, while others plead that he cease his fast, maintaining that his mission has been accomplished through publicity received.
